UNCW Turns Out to Meet Chancellor

UNCW employees line up to meet Chancellor DePaolo.

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo shook hands and met briefly with hundreds of UNCW employees during a "Welcome to UNCW" breakfast July 14. Lines curved through the lobby of Warwick Center as faculty and staff waited to meet the new chancellor, eat breakfast and socialize with colleagues. It is estimated that close to 700 attended.

Towards the end of the breakfast, Frank Block, chairman of the board of trustees, introduced the chancellor and told of the search for a replacement for Dr. James Leutze. Over 100 applied for the position for which Dr. DePaolo "is very well matched." Block expressed that UNCW is fortunate Chancellor DePaolo is on board.

In DePaolo's remarks, she expressed her good fortune at coming to UNCW and credited Dr. Leutze for leaving the university in such fine shape.

Chancellor DePaolo spent months studying UNCW as well as speaking to people in the university community. DePaolo said that even with UNCW's strengthening educational reputation that consistently employees are quick to credit the great people they work with as being the reason they enjoy their jobs.

Campus Hosts Drug Studies Conference

UNCW's Division for Public Service and Continuing Studies, in partnership with the N.C. Foundation for Alcohol and Drug Studies, will host the 26th annual N.C. School for Alcohol and Drug Studies. The school, Aug. 4 to 8, offers continuing education units and professional development credit for substance abuse professionals, teachers and national certified counselors. Participants will be able to attend 15 concurrent track and 15 mini-track sessions, as well as an awards banquet.

Marianne E. Frederick, a professional speaker, is the featured speaker of the opening session, scheduled for 2-3 p.m. on Aug. 4. Gary Dean, vice president of programming and producer/co-host of a morning television show based in New Bern will address the awards banquet, Aug. 6 from 7-9 p.m.

Sessions include Spirituality in Recovery; Journey Not Destination; Best Practices for Target Populations; Socioterapy for Sociopaths; Integrating Spirituality into Therapy; HIV/AIDS; See the Forest, Hear the Trees; The Skill of Deep Listening and Powerful Questions and Substance Abuse Trends for North Carolina.

Fees to attend range from $430 to $530, depending on selected options. For more information, contact 799-6594.

Salary Actions for Faculty and EPA Employees

Final salary instructions for Faculty and EPA non-faculty employees with permanent appointments have been adopted by the UNC Board of Governors and distributed by the Office of the President. As announced last week, SPA employees, all full-time faculty and EPA non-faculty employees (including senior academic and administrative officers) who are employed on Oct. 1, 2003, will receive a one-time, lump-sum compensation bonus of $550 payable in October. The compensation bonus will be adjusted pro rata for permanent part-time employees. No other funds have been appropriated by the legislature to support salary increases in the current fiscal year.

Service Awards Lunch

The service awards luncheon will be held Aug. 5 at Warwick Center from 12-2 p.m.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Speakers Needed

The Student Organization Leadership Conference is seeking faculty and staff to lead workshops at an event scheduled Sept. 19-20. Suggested presentation topics include goal setting, fundraising, motivating members, time management and applying leadership skills in the job market. Interested faculty and staff should e-mail a proposal to activities@uncw.edu. Forms are available at www.uncw.edu/stuaff/storgs or the Campus Activities and Involvement Center, University Union, Room 209.

Volunteer Hours

The Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) compiles a report on the number of service/volunteer hours performed by UNCW students each year. These figures, available upon request, have been useful for supportive data for grants, information for media articles and more.

The office also provides individual UNCW students, registered with CLES, a service transcript that documents any college volunteer work. These are helpful when filling out resumes and graduate school applications or preparing for interviews.

CLES is still accepting hours for the fiscal year 2002-03. Also, if involved in a service-learning class, if service is a component of a class or as an advisor for a student organization that volunteers, CLES can provide information and support for tracking and addition of these service hours to the overall university count in the upcoming academic year.

For information on any of the above, contact Becky Long, community service coordinator, at ext. 3043 or longb.

Members Sought

Joanne Nottingham, faculty adviser for the UNCW chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, is compiling a list of employees who are ODK members. Interested faculty and staff should contact Nottingham at ext. 3832 or e-mail nottinghamj.

International Program Seeks Hosts

The Office of International Programs needs hosts to assist international students acclimate to their Wilmington surroundings. Almost 90 new students, who will live in on-campus housing, are expected in the program this fall. Community members are requested to offer off-campus experiences, such as occasional meals, transportation assistance and an introduction to local sites. For more information, contact Miranda Boykin, international programs, ext. 7009 or boykinm.

Research Study Participants Needed

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology of the Coastal Area Health Education Center (AHEC) is seeking women, 12 years and older, to participate in a clinical research study of an investigational medication for yeast infection. Qualified participants will receive, at no cost, study related exams, lab tests and investigational medicine. Time and travel compensation for eligible participants is granted upon completion of their involvement. Call 343-0161, ext. 298.

Leadership Wilmington Seeking Applicants

July 31 is the deadline to enroll in the 2003-04 class of Leadership Wilmington, a program designed to provide the region with a diverse supply of creative leaders.

UNCW Mascot Recovered

The bronze statue of UNCW's mascot, the seahawk, stolen earlier this week, was found Wednesday morning. An employee of a local television station discovered the bird outside apartment buildings on North Kerr.

Except for its severed talons, which remained atop its granite perch outside Warwick Center, there appeared to be little damage to the approximately 75-pound bird. The UNCW University Police Department suspect more than one person was involved in removing the statue. Referring to the recovery of the mascot, David Donaldson, police division commander, said, "It is a good point to be at the day after a theft."

The statue was stolen sometime between 5:30 p.m. July 21, and 8:30 a.m. July 22.

Anyone with information regarding this theft is asked to call the UNCW University Police Department at 962-3184 or anonymously at 962-TIPS.

New Parking Rates Announced for Fall 2003

The board of trustees has approved new parking rates for the 2003-2004 academic year. The parking committee outlined the university's goals for parking in "Building a Better Parking System," available online at www.uncw.edu/ba/parking_trans/index.htm.

"These fees were adopted to help us reach those goals," according to Sharon Boyd, associate vice chancellor of business and support services. "Our primary goal is to achieve 95-percent utilization at peak periods for commuter students. While some of these changes affect groups other than commuters, they are still part of the overall plan. For instance, charging a premium for reserved faculty/staff spaces or a reduced rate for student Park-and-Ride spaces allows us to assign tangible values to practices that limit or increase our parking capacity."

The fee for full-time faculty/staff remains unchanged at $172. "However, in these challenging economic times, senior management has determined that university employees may continue to receive a parking permit benefit depending on their salaries," said Boyd.

Employees earning less than or equal to $20,000 per year will continue to receive a parking permit as a university benefit. The fee for employees earning more than $20,000 and less than or equal to $40,000 will be $86, a 50-percent savings off the regular fee. Part-time faculty and staff working less than 30 hours per week will also pay $86.

Employees who receive reserved spaces, such as deans or vice chancellors, will pay the $172 fee plus an extra $100 premium space fee, for a total of $272.

"Contract employees do not receive university parking benefits, although they may be eligible for the $86 part-time rate," Boyd said.

Current parking permits are valid through Sept. 30. According to Betty Gurganus, parking and transportation manager, employees will be receiving information about registration for 2003-2004 permits and payment options, including payroll deduction, beginning in August.

Service Awards Lunch

The service awards luncheon will be held Aug. 5 at Warwick Center from 12-2 p.m.

Connally Announces Retirement

Fryar Appointed Acting Director of HR

Sam Connally, assistant to the chancellor for EPA and director of human resources, announced July 28 to senior officers that he would retire Sept. 12. He and his partner, Bob Warner, will be moving to Las Vegas where Connally will become the associate vice president for human resources and affirmative action at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. In conveying his decision to Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo, Connally wrote, "Nothing would give me more pleasure than to continue working at UNCW and supporting your tenure as chancellor. Exciting times are ahead for UNCW. However, the economic realities of the state retirement system virtually compel career service employees to seek non-state employment once retirement eligibility is achieved. I will long cherish the association of myriad friends and colleagues I have enjoyed over the years at UNC Wilmington."

Reward Offered for Mascot Caper

The Chancellor's Office is offering a reward of $250 for information that identifies those responsible for vandalizing and removing the seahawk statue from the front of Warwick Center the night of July 21.

The mascot was recovered after a WECT-TV6 photographer found it on the steps of her apartment complex the next morning.

Anyone with information should call UNCW University Police at 910/962-3184 or 910/962-TIPS. A confidential e-mail may be sent by going to the Web site www.uncw.edu/ba/police/ and looking under Quick Links — Report a Crime Anonymously by E-mail.

Service Awards Lunch

Tuition Set to Rise

Tuition and fee increases for 2003-04 were approved by the state legislature and board of governors. In-state undergraduate tuition will increase by $81 and out-of-state undergraduate tuition will increase by $537. Student fees will increase by $72.

"These tuition and fee increases represent an average increase of 4.7 percent for our students. Compared to other states, increases in tuition and fees in North Carolina were relatively small. Some states have increased tuition and fees by more than 30 percent for the upcoming year. Consequently, UNCW and our sister institutions continue to be a super value for our students," said Tim Jordan, vice chancellor for business affairs.

With these increases, UNCW full-time undergraduate tuition and fees will be $1,681 per semester for in-state and $6,468 for out-of-state students.

Treasurer Delivers $806,662 Check

N.C. Treasurer Richard Moore July 28 presented UNCW with $806,622 for use in financial aid to assist "needy and worthy" students. The grant represents a portion of the interest from the N.C. unclaimed property fund, including money from the sale of items at the state fair or through eBay, the online auction service. All 16 N.C. campuses benefit from the fund.

Emily Bliss, director of financial aid and veteran services, said that the university is "always grateful to the state for any funds that we can distribute to needy students."

According to Moore, the account, under his stewardship, has increased from approximately $300 million to $580 million.

State Treasurer Richard Moore presents $806,662 check to Emily Bliss, UNCW's director of financial aid and veteran services.

Connally Retirement

In accepting Connally's retirement notice, DePaolo commented, "In his 17 years at UNC Wilmington, Sam has made many significant contributions to the life of the university, both as director of human resources and as assistant to the chancellor. As secretary to the chancellor search committee last year, Sam was the first human face to the university that I met, and he has been a great ambassador for UNCW. Sam and Bob will be missed by friends and colleagues alike, but we wish them well on this new venture."

Chancellor DePaolo has appointed Kay Fryar, director of human resources administration, to serve as acting director of human resources while the university undertakes a search for a permanent replacement. In announcing Fryar's appointment, DePaolo observed, "Kay has worked at UNCW since 1986 and enjoys the confidence of university administrators and employees alike. Under her leadership, supported by Mark Steelman, director of employment and compensation, and Liz Grimes, director of training, development, and employee relations, I'm confident we will have a smooth transition in the chief HR officer role."

Hundreds Attend 28th Annual Service Awards

Hundreds of staff and faculty received a buffet lunch while supporting their colleagues at the UNCW 28th Annual Service Awards Program. In his introduction, Sam Connally, assistant to the chancellor for EPA and director of human resources, noted that 498 seats had been put into Warwick Center with an overflow crowd in the Center Stage space. He mentioned that years ago awards programs had been held in the University Union Living Room with punch and cookies served.

Master of Ceremonies Michael Capaccio announced the individuals recognized for their length of employment at the university from five to 35 years, along with recent retirees.

Connally returned to the podium to announce the 13 nominees for the UNCW Board of Trustees Staff Award for Excellence. Chancellor Rosemary Bo Dean, honors program, greeting a colleague after receiving the Award for Excellence at Warwick Center Aug. 5.

DePaolo presented each nominee with a certificate. Lenwood "Bo" Dean was then announced as the winner of the award. According to the nominating information, Dean "is a strong advocate" and "gives selflessly to the students." He works with honors students, as well as members of the Young Democrats, PRIDE and the Episcopal youth group.

In an e-mail Dean wrote, "This award is amazing, and I am still in shock. I am one of those blessed people that get up every morning happy and grateful to go to work! From the students who inspire me to do more and better every day to the director and associate director who allow me a chance to work and perform my tasks with a sense of integrity and a feeling that I am so appreciated, my days are good ones at UNCW!"

UNCW Board of Trustees Staff Award for Excellence Nominees

The following were nominated for the Award of Excellence:

- Dan Aspenleiter, CMS
- Glenda Bowen, education
- Frances Brown, physics and physical oceanography
- Jessica Burt, CROSSROADS
- Robert Clark, physical plant
- Lenwood "Bo" Dean, honors program
- Stan Harts, environmental health and safety
- Cynthia Hucks, budget office
- Jeff Hunnicutt, ITSD
- Donna Lamont, graduate school
- Betty Miller, student health center
- Sharlene Pence, student health center
- Emma Kay Thornton, computer science

Students Migrating to Outlook Program

The final phase of the campus transition to Microsoft Exchange/Outlook will be completed on Aug. 13 with the creation of Exchange accounts for all returning undergraduate students and new students. This will result in a total of more than 13,000 Exchange accounts at UNCW.

According to the Information Technology Systems Division, the benefits of the new system to students include an increase in e-mail storage space from 2.5 megabytes to 10 megabytes for undergraduate students and 20 megabytes for graduate students, an updated address book that includes all faculty, staff and students, virus filtering at the server level, personal calendars and task lists. The e-mail address uncw.edu replaces uncwil.edu, although either address will work.

ITSD "appreciates any assistance that faculty and staff can offer to our students as they transition to the new e-mail system." Additional information about the changes the students will be experiencing is available at www.uncw.edu/exchange/students.html.

Concerns or suggestions will be addressed by contacting the ITSD Technology Assistance Center at ext. 4357 or e-mail tac@uncw.edu.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

New Reserve System

Randall Library has implemented a new course reserves system called ERes. This system manages and provides access to all course reserve materials assigned by faculty to support university teaching activities. In addition to including lists of books and other physical materials, ERes provides Web access to electronic journal articles and other materials in electronic form. ERes also includes links to class Web sites and other links as requested by faculty. A link to ERes will appear soon on the library's homepage.

Speakers Needed

The Student Organization Leadership Conference is seeking faculty and staff to lead workshops at an event scheduled Sept. 19 and 20. Suggested presentation topics include goal setting, fundraising, motivating members, time management and applying leadership skills in the job market. Interested faculty and staff should e-mail a proposal to activities@uncw.edu. Forms are available at www.uncw.edu/stuaff/storgs.

Bicycle Removal Plan

University police will be removing bicycles in the academic and residential areas Aug. 13 and 14, according to Capt. Charlie Willis. In the academic area, bicycles that are damaged or missing parts will be removed. In the residential area, all bicycles, regardless of condition, will be confiscated unless the owner has made prior arrangements with University Police. Owners who do not wish for their bike to be taken need to contact Capt. Willis at ext. 3186 or by e-mail at willisce before next week to obtain an identification device for the bike.

According to the Office of Business Affairs, bicycles are removed annually to make sure there is ample space for current students and their bicycles, to avoid hazards resulting from broken bikes and to keep the campus attractive to prospective students and guests.

Under North Carolina law, unclaimed bicycles are donated to a 501(c)(3) charitable organization after a designated waiting period.

Board of Governors Approves Goldgeier Appointment

The University of North Carolina Board of Governors Aug. 8 approved the appointment of Eileen Goldgeier to become General Counsel at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

In addition to serving as Associate General Counsel at NCSU since March 1997, Ms. Goldgeier served as Senior Staff Attorney and subsequently as Assistant General Counsel at Johns Hopkins University from 1992 through 1997. She was admitted to the practice of law in North Carolina in 1997 and in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 4th Circuit in 1992. Ms. Goldgeier, who holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in environmental studies from Brown University, Providence, R.I., and a J.D. from Emory University, was selected among a field of 99 candidates in a national search.

1,100 Volunteers Expected to Help Freshmen Move-In

Chancellor DePaolo Plans to Lend a Hand

Approximately 1,735 new freshmen are expected to attend UNCW this fall, and some 1,500 will move into their residence halls on campus starting at 8 a.m., Saturday, Aug. 16. The total student body is expected to be around 11,300. Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo will be one of 1,100 volunteers helping move the students into their new quarters.

The move-in starts off days of events to welcome students to campus. Faculty and staff are encouraged to join in—and to let their students know about the events as well.

New Reserve System

Randall Library has implemented a new course reserves system called ERes. This system manages and provides access to all course reserve materials assigned by faculty to support university teaching activities. In addition to including lists of books and other physical materials, ERes provides Web access to electronic journal articles and other materials in electronic form. ERes also includes links to class Web sites and other links as requested by faculty. A link to ERes will appear soon on the library's homepage. To place course materials on reserves or for additional information, visit the library reserve desk or contact John Osinski at ext. 7312 or e-mail osinskij, Jan Costley at ext. 3790 or e-mail costleyjc, Carolyn Andrews at ext. 3790 or e-mail andrewsc or Madeleine Bombeld at ext. 3278 or e-mail bombeldm.

IRB Forms

Aug. 29 is the deadline to submit the required forms for IRB approval for all faculty, staff and graduate students, who plan to include human subjects in their research during the fall semester. These forms are available at www.uncwil.edu/ora/Forms/IRB.doc. Researchers must submit a printed and signed copy of the forms to Candace Gauthier, philosophy and religion, and an electronic copy to Tiffany Mattson, sponsored programs. Researchers will be notified if they are required to present their research at the September IRB meeting. Protocols that are received after Aug. 29 may have to be delayed pending IRB approval at a future meeting.

SEANC Scholarship Raffle

Scholarship raffle tickets are available for $1 until Sept. 1. Prizes include a truck and a television. Contact Gloria at ext. 3876 or e-mail willisg.

Golf Tournament

The Department of Health and Applied Human Sciences is hosting the Eighth Annual Earl Allen Memorial Golf Tournament at noon Sept. 5 at Olde Point Golf Course in Hampstead. The field will consist of the first 30 teams of four to register. The entry fee is $75 per player, which includes cart and greens fees, range balls, two mulligans, lunch, dinner and sodas and water. For more information, contact Phoebe Moore ext. 4268.

Warwick Center Display

An exhibit titled "Women's and Gender Studies-Words Make a Difference: Scholarship from UNCW and Around the World" is on display in the Warwick Center. The Women's Center and Randall Library created and installed this exhibit, the goal of which is to teach its audience about women's and gender studies while illustrating a few of the ways in which UNCW scholars are contributing to and shaping these fields of academic inquiry. It will be on display for the next two semesters, and faculty are encouraged to include it in their teaching.

The exhibit includes books, articles and photos of UNCW faculty who teach and research these fields. All contributing faculty are thanked for allowing this showcase of their work and for agreeing to pose for the photograph.

To read about the exhibit, see

Jordan Announces Retirement

Kay Ward Appointed Acting Vice Chancellor

Vice Chancellor for Business Affairs Tim Jordan announced his retirement, effective Oct. 1. He has served the university for 31 years and almost 40 years of total state service.

In his retirement notice to Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo, Jordan stated, "When former Chancellor Leutze announced his retirement in July 2002, I assured him and the board of trustees that I would remain at UNCW as long as necessary to ensure a smooth and orderly transition for the incoming chancellor. With major budget allocation decisions in place for the current fiscal year, I believe the timing is appropriate to convey my intent to retire."

In accepting Jordan's retirement notice, DePaolo commented, "As a matter of pure self-interest, I was hopeful that I would be able to rely on your knowledge and experience for a much longer

UNCW Unveils Legacy Hall

During a press conference Aug. 18, Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo unveiled plans for a museum, the Legacy Hall atrium, part of the Regional Educational Resources Center

North Carolina Teacher Legacy Hall and honored three significant donors to the university.

UNCW professor of education, Grace Burton, Cooperative Bank and Progress Energy were recognized for contributions totaling $175,000 to the legacy hall and programs in the Watson School.

The North Carolina Teacher Legacy Hall, a museum to be housed in a three-story atrium, is the centerpiece of the 80,500-square-foot Regional Educational Resource Center currently under construction on the east side of campus that will be home to the Watson School of Education. The museum will house a timeless memorial honoring education and educators of teaching excellence from across the state.

Chancellor's Welcome

As we begin the new academic year, I extend my warmest welcome to everyone at UNCW. I also want to thank everyone who has made my first five weeks at UNCW so memorable.

The spirit and enthusiasm exhibited at move-in last Saturday provided a great start to the fall semester. I was extremely impressed with the 1,100 volunteers,

ANNOUNCEMENTS

IACUC Deadline

Sept. 5 is the deadline to submit the required forms for IACUC approval for all faculty, staff and students who plan to use vertebrate animals in any educational or research activities. The IACUC has approved new protocol and renewal forms, which are available at www.uncw.edu/ora/forms.htm. Researchers must submit a signed, hard copy and an electronic copy to Tiffany Mattson in the Office of Sponsored Programs, mattson.t. Protocols received after Sept. 5 may have to be delayed pending IACUC approval at a future meeting.

Members Sought

Weight Watchers Program

The Weight Watcher Corporate Solutions At-Work program starts a new 15-week session on campus Aug. 27. There have been renovations to the program, making it more flexible. The group meets at noon each Wednesday in the James Hall Conference Room. The fee for the 15-week session is $165 and, if paid by check, can be paid in three installments of $55 each. All three checks must be written at the time of enrollment and can be postdated. Weight Watchers accepts all major credit cards, cash, money orders and checks.

Pathways Catalog Arriving Soon

The Pathways catalog of classes will be available Sept. 4 in the Wilmington Star-News and at libraries, professional offices, WHQR, Starbucks coffee houses, Bristol Books, UNCW's Executive Development Center adjacent to the Northeast Public Library at Landfall, the Center for Marine Science at One Marvin Moss Lane and UNCW facilities at 5051 New Centre Drive.

Classes will be offered in music, art and theatre, spirituality, personal growth, professional development, regional, national and international travel, lifestyles, foreign languages, history and nonprofit management. In addition, the Tabitha Huttaff McEachern Lifelong Learning series will feature five luncheon and four dinner programs designed as educational entertainment.

Public Service and Continuing Studies will partner again this year with the College of Arts and Sciences to offer the second annual College Day Nov. 22 featuring UNCW faculty in arts and science and the professional schools of business, education and nursing. Participants can register in four one-hour classes in the natural sciences, fine arts, history, literature, film, creative writing, philosophy, religion, Spanish, criminal justice, business or other academic disciplines. Registration details can be found in the catalog.

Pathways is also available on the Internet at www.uncw.edu/dpscs/pathways.

For more information about programs call ext. 4034 or to register with credit card, ext. 3195.

Volunteer Hours

The Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) compiles a report on the number of service/volunteer hours performed by UNCW students each year. These figures, available upon request, have been useful for supportive data for grants, information for media and more.

The office also provides individual UNCW students, registered with CLES, a service transcript that documents any college volunteer work. These are helpful when filling out resumes and graduate school applications or preparing for interviews.

CLES is still accepting hours for the fiscal year 2002-03. Individuals involved in a service-learning class or a student organization that volunteers or if service is a component of a course, CLES can provide support for tracking. CLES will also add those service hours to the overall university count for this academic year.

For information on any of the above, contact Becky Long, community service coordinator, at ext. 3043 or e-mail longb.

League Organizing

The UNCW bowling league will have an organizational meeting 6 p.m. Aug. 28 at Cardinal Lanes Shipyard. At least one representative from each team should attend. Regular bowling begins Sept. 4 (practice at 5:45 p.m., bowling starts at 6 p.m.). For further information, contact Lisa Allred at ext. 3163 or e-mail at allredl or Reid Counts at ext. 7691 or e-mail at countsm.

Name Change

Sandy Williford in the Athletic Department has changed her name to Sandy Morrison. Her e-mail is now morrisonm.

IRB Forms

Aug. 29 is the deadline for all faculty, staff and graduate students who plan to include human subjects in their research during the fall semester to submit the required forms for IRB approval. These forms are available at www.uncwil.edu/ora/Forms/IRB.doc. Researchers must submit printed and signed copies of the forms to Candace Gauthier, philosophy and religion, and an electronic copy to Tiffany Mattson, sponsored programs. Researchers will be notified if they are required to present their research at the September IRB meeting. Protocols that are received after Aug. 29 may have to be delayed pending IRB approval at a future meeting.

Golf Tournament

The Department of Health and Applied Human Sciences is hosting the eighth annual Earl Allen Memorial Golf Tournament at 12 p.m. Sept. 5 at the Olde Point Golf Course in Hampstead. The field will consist of the first 30 teams of four to register. The entry fee is $75 per player, which includes cart and greens fees, range balls, two mulligans, lunch dinner and sodas and water. For more information, contact Phoebe Moore ext. 4368.

SEANC Holds Raffle

Scholarship raffle tickets are available for $1 until Sept. 1. Prizes include a truck and a television. Contact Gloria at ext. 3876 or e-mail willisg.

Warwick Center Display

An exhibit "Women's and Gender Studies—Words Make a Difference: Scholarship from UNCW and Around the World" is now on display in the Warwick Center. The Women's Center and Randall Library created and installed this exhibit, the goal of which is to teach its audience about women's and gender studies while illustrating a few of the ways in which UNCW scholars are contributing to and shaping these fields of academic inquiry. It will be on display for the next two semesters, and faculty are encouraged to include it in their teaching.

The exhibit includes books, articles and photos of UNCW faculty who teach and research these fields. All contributing faculty are thanked for allowing this to showcase their work and for agreeing to pose for the photograph.

To read about the exhibit, see <http://library.uncwil.edu/archives/events/womenstudies2.doc>.

UNCW Offers Tutoring Services

The educational lab in the Watson School of Education at UNCW is offering tutoring for children, grades K-9 in reading/language arts and math. A student of education will be matched one-on-one with each child for the tutoring sessions. Children attend one-hour sessions once or twice a week. Tutoring begins Sept. 15 through Nov. 24. The cost varies according to the number of tutoring hours. For more information call ext. 3633.

OFFICIAL NOTICES

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Lynn Allen, Science and Mathematics Education Center; Marie Campbell, nursing; Don Harty, printing services; Freddie Brown, Charles Daniels and Robert Morris, physical plant; Samantha O'Briant, university police; and Rebecca Stancil, CROSSROADS.

401(k) Transition

During the transition period between Sept. 12 through 22, transactions in the N.C. 401(k) plan will be restricted. Assets will remain invested at all times and payroll deductions will continue, however allocation changes and loan or disbursement requests will not be processed until after Sept. 22. Loan balances will transfer to Prudential and automatic payroll deduction payments will continue.

Starting on Sept. 22 employees can reallocate existing assets from the funds formerly offered by BB&T to the Prudential Retirement funds. All existing account assets offered by BB&T will automatically transfer to Prudential Retirement funds on Jan. 16, 2004.

401(k) Meetings

Representatives from Prudential Retirement Services will conduct group education seminars for state employees and current members of the N.C. 401(k) plan. The daily meetings, scheduled at 8:30 a.m., 10 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 2 p.m., or 3:30 p.m. for Aug. 26, 27, 28 and 29 and Sept. 8, 9, 10 and 11, will be held at Marriott Courtyard, 151 Van Campen Boulevard.

More information is available at www.treasurer.state.nc.us or Elizabeth Greene at ext. 3713 or Kelly Kennedy at ext. 3006.

Safety Shoes Available

Purchasing services has arranged for safety shoe vendors to be on campus 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sept. 5 and 15 in the physical plant parking lot. Employees who are required to wear safety shoes and have supervisor approval may select their safety shoes from these mobile showrooms. Departmental budgets must support $70 of the approved purchases while the employee is responsible for any difference. For more information, call Claude Brown, purchasing, ext. 3155.

State of the University Address

The Student Government Association invites the campus community to the "State of the University" address given by Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo and SGA President Zachary Wynne at 6 p.m. Aug. 26 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. A reception will follow the program.

Family Weekend

The campus community is invited to celebrate Family Weekend, Sept. 26 through 28. As part of the weekend festivities, Matchbox Twenty will perform in Trask Coliseum 7 p.m. Sept. 27.

As of Sept. 2, UNCW faculty and staff can purchase tickets at the information center in the University Union. The first ticket with UNCW faculty/staff ID is $30, additional tickets (up to three on the day of purchase) for $35 each. General public tickets go on sale Sept. 8. For ticket prices and additional information, contact the Campus Activities and Involvement Center at ext. 3827.

Literacy Volunteers Needed

period of time as I embarked on my tenure as chancellor. Nonetheless, your service and dedication to UNC Wilmington over the years are well known and will be long remembered."

A 1969 business graduate of Wilmington College, Jordan was first employed at UNCW as an accountant trainee in July 1969. Jordan left UNCW in Sept. 1970 to go to graduate school, earning a Master's Degree in Business from East Carolina University in 1971. After teaching accounting for two years at Coastal Carolina Community College, Jordan returned to UNCW in September 1973. Serving in a variety of roles over the years with increasing responsibilities in accounting and finance, Jordan was appointed vice chancellor for business affairs in July 2000.

Chancellor DePaolo has appointed Kay Ward, associate vice chancellor for finance, to serve as acting vice chancellor for business affairs, while the university undertakes a search for a permanent replacement. In announcing Ward's appointment, DePaolo said, "The business affairs division is capably staffed and well prepared to continue to support the business and operational needs of the university. I am confident that under Kay's leadership, we will experience a smooth transition." To enhance continuity, Ward's appointment will be effective Sept. 1, providing a 30-day overlap in assignments.

including faculty and staff, who helped move 1,500 freshmen into campus housing. I heard often from families who said they had taken other children to other colleges, but they had never had been treated so well. Thanks to all who helped make our new students and their families feel so welcome.

Since I started work July 14, my focus has been on learning about the campus and the community, visiting with staff in their offices, and beginning to gather and analyze data about UNCW. Now that school has started, my priority will be meeting faculty and students, learning your concerns, and then working together to chart UNCW's future direction.

I've already quickly learned that UNCW is truly a great institution, and that's because of the people who make up this campus. I intend to keep listening to your concerns and hope that together we can all focus on specific goals to help UNCW reach its fullest potential.

Best wishes on a great year,

Rosemary DePaolo

UNCW Ranking Improves

UNC Wilmington has moved from seventh to sixth among public universities in the South in the latest college rankings by U.S. News & World Report. The university is ranked after James Madison University, Mary Washington College, The Citadel, Appalachian State University and College of Charleston.

UNCW is tied for 18th, among the 131 public and private comprehensive universities in the southern region.

"This great news is the springboard we need as we work to establish UNCW as the preeminent public university in the South," said Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo.

Faculty Awarded at Annual Meeting

Three teachers were awarded the Distinguished Teaching Professorship Awards at the annual fall faculty meeting Aug. 21.

Don Habibi, professor of philosophy and religion, James Hunt, professor of management and marketing, and Mike Messina, associate professor of chemistry, were honored with "outstanding contributions" to UNCW. Each was given a medalion and $5,000 per year for three years. James Hunt was also presented with the Board of Trustees' Teaching Excellence award, which comes with a $1,500 stipend and a medallion.

The Faculty Scholarship Awards, which honors significant contributions to the university and the academic community through research, scholarship and creativity, were presented to Craig

Galbraith, professor of management and marketing, Philip Gerard, professor of creative writing, and Ned Martin, professor of chemistry. Each received $1,500 and a plaque.

The Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Award recipients included Len Lecci, associate professor of psychology, Rebecca Lee, associate professor of creative writing, Mike Perko, associate professor of health and applied humans sciences, Jack Gowan, associate professor of information system and operations management, and John Rice, associate professor of speciality studies.

The second annual Dr. J. Marshall Crews Distinguished Faculty Award was given to

Cowdrey Joins ITSD

Scott Cowdrey has joined the Information Technology Systems Division as associate vice chancellor.

Cowdrey comes to UNCW from Soka University in Irvine, Calif., where he served as director of information technology. Soka is a residential liberal arts college focusing on education in an international environment.

Cowdrey brings to UNCW extensive experience in various aspects of information technology including voice, data communications and "e-education" systems, in addition to many years in administrative management.

"Often the role of a new administrator in the information technology support division is to assess the damage and 'clean up the mess.' I am very pleased to find that UNCW's IT support infrastructure has a solid foundation and is well positioned to continue bringing technology-based enhancements to the teaching, learning and administrative operations of the campus," Cowdrey said. Questions for Cowdrey may be directed to ext. 7938 or e-mail at cowdreys.

Robb Reading

Memoirist and teacher Daniel Robb will present a reading and discussion of his Crossing the Water: Eighteen Months on an Island Working with Troubled Boys—A Teacher's Memoir, 7 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 15 in Bryan Auditorium in Morton Hall, Room 100. A reception and book signing will follow in the lobby. This event is free and open to the public.

The Buckner Lecture Series and the English and Creative Writing departments will sponsor this reading and discussion. For further information, contact the English Department at ext. 3320.

New Web Site

The Campus Activities and Involvement Center launched a new Web site Aug. 26, www.uncw.edu/stuaff/activities, to increase awareness of the numerous events sponsored by the department and its affiliated organizations. CAIC works with the over 140 student organizations registered on campus, the SGA, ACE and UNCW Presents.

The site was redesigned by Michel Fougères, webmaster, with graphic design work by Lin Cheng, a graduate student with the ITSD client services student web development team.

Faculty

Rebecca Porterfield, associate vice chancellor of academic affairs.

Carol Ann Pilgrim, professor of psychology, received the Board of Governors' Award for Excellence in Teaching. Ann Pabst, professor of biological sciences, accepted the Graduate Mentor Award.

After the awards ceremony, Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo addressed the faculty. She said, "I am extraordinarily impressed with the level of research, outreach and service at UNCW."

Mark Your Calendars

- Current faculty/staff parking permits are valid until Sept. 30
- Parking registration forms are due Aug. 29
- Department-owned vehicles need to be registered and display new permits by Oct. 1.

Mascot Returns to its Warwick Perch

The reinstallation of the UNCW bronze seahawk statue, which was stolen in July from its granite base in front of the Warwick Center, was completed this morning.

The work was done by artist Dumay Gorham III, a native of Wilmington. His metalwork appears in businesses throughout the area as well as downtown bicycle racks. Gorham also created large steel jellyfish for the lobby of the Center for Marine Science.

The person who removed the Seahawk has yet to be caught.

David Gessner, a creative writing department faculty member and author of Return of the Osprey: A Season of Flight and Dumay Gorham III during the reinstallation of the UNCW seahawk.

Wonder, as well as members of the UNCW spirit team, Screamin' Seahawks, were among those gathered for the early morning repairs.

The bronze mascot seahawk is valued at $70,000. The cost of the reinstallation is approximately $500. This includes reinforcements within each leg to strengthen them to prevent future theft. None of the repair costs are covered by insurance.

CORRECTION

Last week's Campus Communique misidentified the winner of the second annual Dr. J. Marchall Crews Distinguished Faculty Award, given by the UNCW Alumni Association's Past Chair's Council.

The winner was John Bennett, professor of health and applied human sciences.

Harris Receives State Award

Sandra Harris received the 2003 State Employees' Award of Excellence in the category of public service. The award, formerly the Governor's Award of Excellence, is the highest honor a state employee may receive.

Each year UNCW submits two nominees for the state award of excellence: the UNCW Staff Award of Excellence recipient and the UNCW Faculty Teaching Excellence recipient. Due to budget constraints in 2002, the year of Harris' receipt of the UNCW staff award, the state awards were abolished. In 2003, the state awards were reinstated under a new name, and UNCW nominated Sandra Harris, along with the UNCW 2003 award winners.

Harris, an accounting technician in public service and continuing studies, has been active in various community and university activities, including New Hanover Community Action Inc., a part-time radio broadcast personality, Harbour Foundation and Community United Effort (CUE). She also graduated from UNCW with a degree in English.

For more information about the award, visit www.osp.state.nc.us/recognize/govaward.html.

About the Communique

The Campus Communique, the weekly newsletter for UNCW faculty and staff, is published Thursdays year-round except holidays and winter break.

E-mail announcements, story ideas and other submissions to communique@uncw.edu by noon Tuesday for inclusion in that week's publication. By campus mail, send to university relations, Friday Annex, Room 112, or fax to ext. 3847.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

IACUC Deadline

Sept. 5 is the deadline to submit the required forms for IACUC approval for all faculty, staff and students who plan to use vertebrate animals in any educational or research activities. The IACUC has approved new protocol and renewal forms, which are available at www.uncw.edu/ora/forms.htm. Researchers must submit a signed, hard copy and an electronic copy to Tiffany Mattson in the Office of Sponsored Programs, mattson.t. Protocols received after Sept. 5 may have to be delayed pending IACUC approval at a future meeting.

Golf Tournament

The Department of Health and Applied Human Sciences is hosting the eighth annual Earl Allen Memorial Golf Tournament at 12 p.m. Sept. 5 at the Olde Point Golf Course in Hampstead. The field will consist of the first 30 teams of four to register. The entry fee is $75 per player, which includes cart and greens fees, range balls, two mulligans, lunch, dinner and sodas and water. For more information, contact Phoebe Moore ext. 4368.

OFFICIAL NOTICES

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Evie Odom, registrar's office, and Sarah Paschall, general counsel.

401(k) Transition

This month all 401(k) contributions will automatically be directed to the investment options offered by Prudential Retirement and allocated to the new "mapped" funds. For example, contributions presently directed to Fidelity Magellan Fund will automatically be invested in Prudential's large blend portfolio consisting of 50 percent Vanguard Equity Index Portfolio, 25 percent Growth Fund of America; 25 percent Van Kampen Growth & Income Fund.

During the transition period between Sept. 12 through 22, transactions in the N.C. 401(k) plan will be restricted. Assets will remain invested at all times and payroll deductions will continue, however allocation changes and loan or disbursement requests will not be processed until after Sept. 22. Loan balances will transfer to Prudential and automatic payroll deduction payments will continue.

Starting on Sept. 22 employees can reallocate existing assets from the funds formerly offered by BB&T to the Prudential Retirement funds. All existing account assets offered by BB&T will automatically transfer to Prudential Retirement funds on Jan. 16, 2004.

Farewell to Sam Connally

A man and a boy walked together through a horde of starfish that the tide had stranded on the beach. As they walked, the boy picked up one starfish after another and threw it into the surf. The man said, "Son, why are you bothering? There are so many starfish that you can't possibly make a difference." The boy tossed another starfish into the ocean and replied, "I made a difference to that one."

You are invited to a reception to celebrate the differences that Sam has made at UNCW, in the UNC system, and in state government.

Friday, September 12
3:00 – 5:00pm
University Union Living Room

Program begins at 3:30pm

Human Resources Staff is putting together a scrapbook for Sam. Send an anecdote telling about a time Sam made a difference. Make it entertaining! You are invited to share the anecdotes at the reception. You can email your anecdote to Liz Grimes (grimesec@uncw.edu) or fax it to Liz at 910-962-3840. Let her know if you are willing to participate in the program by sharing the anecdote, or whether you would just like to add it to the scrapbook. Thanks!

UNCW Athletes' Grad Rate "Best"

According to an article in Monday's USA Today, UNCW's 89 percent athlete graduation rate is "the best this year in the NCAA's non-football-playing Division I-AAA." UNCW tied Tulsa for fourth best in Division I "overall." Bucknell's rate of 100 percent, Davidson's 97 percent in I-AA and Notre Dame's 92 percent in I-A were ahead of the Seahawks.

UNCW joined 14 other recipients of the USA Today/NCAA Academic Achievement Awards announced last week. This is the first year USA Today recognized I-AAA schools individually. Each Academic Achievement Award winner receives $20,000.

"It's wonderful to be No. 1 in anything, especially graduation rates," Wilmington athletics director Peg Bradley-Doppes told USA Today. "It's helping me explain to every student-athlete why they have to go to study hall, why they have to go to class."

Buttino Wins Film Award

UNCW professor and filmmaker Lou Buttino earned his sixth award from WorldFest Houston, one of the oldest and largest film and video competitions in North America. There were more than 4,500 category entries from 37 countries.

Buttino, who teaches in the Film Studies Department and the Master of Arts in Liberal Studies Program, won Best Documentary honors for The Lessons of September: One School Remembers. A co-production with WNET-TV in New York City, it is the story of a small high school in Brooklyn and how it came to terms with collapse of the World Trade Center.

WNET-TV has nominated the documentary for an Emmy, the DuPont-Columbia Journalism Award and a George Foster Peabody Award.

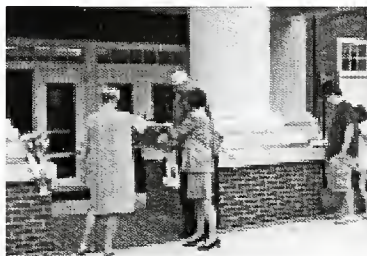

Cornerstone Hall Ribbon Cutting

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo, Vice Chancellor Pat Leonard, Provost Paul Hosier alongside 15 students cut the ribbon Sept. 10 to officially open Cornerstone Hall, the campus's new $11.6 million, 62,000-square-foot three-story residence hall houses 264 students. The residence hall houses a new learning initiative at UNCW designed exclusively for first-year students.

"Cornerstone Hall has a function, but it has a symbolic value as well. It is about creating a living-learning community. It is an important new venture for us and proves that living-learning dreams come true," Chancellor

DePaolo said.

Nine groups of 20 to 25 students who live in the hall participate in learning communities with a humanities focus.

GIS Users

Joanne Halls, earth sciences, is developing a GIS user group for any faculty, staff or graduate student interested in participating in a listserv and potentially an annual get-together. Information such as software availability, new techniques, regional news and conference announcements will be shared. If interested in joining, e-mail Halls at hallsj.

Weight Training

Four-week workshops (Sept. 6, 13, 20, Oct. 4 and Nov. 1, 8, 15, 22) are available at the Student Recreation Center to introduce basic strength training principles and develop confidence using weights. Instruction will include orientation to resistance machines, free weights and cardiovascular equipment. Come dressed to exercise. This workshop is limited to 10 participants. Women on weights: 10:15 to 11:15 a.m.; men on weights: 11 a.m. to noon.

Physics Colloquium

Laura Guy, physics and physical oceanography, will present "Optical Trapping and Manipulation of Biological Objects" at 2 p.m. Friday, Sept. 19 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

Participants Needed

The annual Latino Festival is scheduled for Oct. 26 through Nov. 1. Lucy Vasquez, chair of the festival, is looking for UNCW departments or programs interested in participating. If interested in participating, call Vasquez at 341-0007 or e-mail amigosinternatl@cs.com.

Rec Swim Hours

Campus Recreation announces the midday rec swim is now be available from noon to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday. Direct comments or questions to Bob Gough, coordinator, at ext. 7758.

Managing Grants

The Office of Sponsored Programs has developed a seminar series to keep faculty and staff current on the changing face of research administration. The next seminar will be "Managing Your Grant," from 8:30 to 10 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 24 in the University Union, Room 105. The seminar will detail paying people, making purchases and travel. All grants are subject to UNCW policies. Sandie Moore and John Finn will help navigate through the many how-to's of administering grant money. All PI's and administrative support staff are invited and will learn to apply the AARF test. To register, e-mail Michelle Starks at starksm.

Facilitator Needed

A faculty or staff member is needed to facilitate a 20- to 30-minute discussion after the showing of the documentary Bowling for Columbine, at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 15 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100. The Association for Campus Entertainment and Center for Leadership Education and Service are co-sponsoring the showing. The film is a lead-in event to the following day's lecture "The Call to Leadership" by Arianna Huffington, California gubernatorial candidate, at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16 in Kenan Auditorium. Faculty are encouraged to announce these events in class and incorporate them into class curriculum, if appropriate. If interested in facilitating, contact Shelly Hoover at ext. 3797 or e-mail hoovers.

Mentoring Program

The Women in Leadership Mentoring Program is an opportunity for female students and professional women to come together to share experiences, discuss current issues and learn from each other. The Center for Leadership Education and Service is seeking faculty and staff to serve as mentors. In addition, faculty and staff are encouraged to make class announcements to undergraduate and graduate women students of the opportunity to be mentored by a professional woman. The kickoff event will be held at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 24 in the University Union, Glass Room. If interested in participating in this program, contact Emily Gorman-Fancy at ext. 3877 or by e-mail at eag6519@uncw.edu.

ODK Members

Joanne Nottingham, faculty advisor of the UNCW ODK chapter, is developing a contact list of ODK members. If a member, contact Nottingham at ext. 3832 or e-mail at nottinghamj.

Spring 2004 Graduation Filing Deadline

The application deadline for spring 2004 graduation is Nov. 17.

Seniors may apply online at www.uncw.edu/reg and click on the graduation application link, or stop by the Registrar's Office in James Hall.

Faculty are requested to announce this deadline change in all 300 and 400 level classes.

OFFICIAL NOTICES

Prohibited Agreements

Some internship employers have begun asking UNCW faculty and staff to sign Indemnity and Hold Harmless Agreements, transferring from the employer to UNCW any liability for personal claims, wrongful death or property damage arising out of the performance of their student internship program.

UNCW's General Counsel has informed UNCW Career Services that there is a list of "Prohibited Contract Clauses" which the N.C. Attorney General has published for state agencies (including UNC schools). Number three on that list of prohibited clauses is "Hold-Harmless or Indemnification Clauses, Both in Tort and Contract, in Favor of the Contractor." Therefore, UNCW and all state agencies lack the authority to agree to indemnify and hold harmless another entity, and no UNCW faculty, staff or student should sign such an agreement.

With regard to the broader issue of authority to sign contracts for UNCW, this authority is limited to the chancellor, with only clearly defined written delegations of authority issued to some vice chancellors and other employee positions. A faculty or staff member does not have authority to sign any internship agreement on behalf of UNCW unless they hold some office to which that authority has been delegated in writing. Therefore, faculty members have the authority to sign only learning agreements that set forth with the student and the internship employer what learning is to take place during the internship experience, but not to sign contracts acting for the campus at large or binding the university.

Faculty or staff members wanting to discuss these issues may contact Thom Rakes or Karen Thompson, career services, ext. 3174.

Registration Difficulties

Due to the recent switch over in e-mail servers, human resources online training registration forms submitted prior to Thursday, Sept. 4 were not received by HR, and faculty and staff are requested to re-register for any classes submitted online prior to that date. Submitters would have received a message indicating that successful submission had occurred, but this was incorrect. The web site for online registrations is <https://cgi2.ocis.uncwil.edu/hr/trainingform.htm> or from HR's home page under Training and Staff Development. HR apologizes for any inconvenience this may cause. Contact Carol Noble at ext. 3160 with any questions.

401(k) Transition

This month all 401(k) contributions will automatically be directed to the investment options offered by Prudential Retirement and allocated to the new "mapped" funds. For example, contributions presently directed to Fidelity Magellan Fund will automatically be invested in Prudential's large blend portfolio consisting of 50 percent Vanguard Equity Index Portfolio, 25 percent Growth Fund of America; 25 percent Van Kampen Growth & Income Fund.

During the transition period, Sept. 12 through 22, transactions in the N.C. 401(k) plan will be restricted. Assets will remain invested at all times and payroll deductions will continue, however allocation changes and loan or disbursement requests will not be processed until after Sept. 22. Loan balances will transfer to Prudential and automatic payroll deduction payments will continue.

Starting on Sept. 22 employees can reallocate existing assets from the funds formerly offered by BB&T to the Prudential Retirement funds. All existing account assets offered by BB&T will automatically transfer to Prudential Retirement funds on Jan. 16, 2004.

UNCW "Bod Pod"

The Exercise Science Lab in Trask Coliseum, Room 115, part of the Department of Health and Applied Human Sciences, acquired over $100,000 of new equipment and renovations during summer 2003. State-of-the-art exercise science equipment and instrumentation was incorporated into the laboratory. These include the "Bod Pod," which assesses body composition, and a metabolic cart able to calculate energy expenditure while assessing body composition, as well as a metabolic cart to calculate energy expenditure while walking, running, cycling and more. These items, among others, will further strengthen the Exercise Science Program and enhance the capacity for students to be involved with scientific research investigations.

Scholarship Benefit

The Got-Em-On Live Bait Club will host the sixth annual Scholarship Golf Tournament on Saturday, Sept. 27 at the Cape Golf and Racquet Club. All proceeds from the event will be used to fund scholarships for UNCW marine science graduate students. The format will be captain's choice, handicapped and flighted. Teams or singles should be at the Cape at 11 a.m. with a shotgun start at 12:30 p.m. Registration is $55 for men and $45 for women. A social will follow at the clubhouse. The tournament is trying to recruit sponsors: a corporate sponsorship ($500) includes brochure and advertising space, a hole sign, and a team; an executive sponsorship ($300) gets a hole sign and a team; a hole sponsorship is $100 for a sign. For more information, contact Randy or Sue Gibson at 458-9735 or e-mail at randy@uncwil.edu

SECC: Rise to the Needs of Others!

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo and State Employees Combined Campaign (SECC), Co-Chairs Dean Virginia W. Adams and Vice Chancellor Tim Jordan, invite all staff and faculty to participate in this year's combined campaign. More detailed SECC information will be available on Monday, Sept. 15, on the Web site www.uncw.edu/dpscs/secc. Visitors to this Web site who register will be eligible for pre-campaign drawings taking place Sept. 25. The campaign runs from Sept. 26 to Oct. 31.

Once the campaign gets underway on Sept. 26, employees contributing a minimum of $1 or more by Friday of each campaign week will be included in drawings for weekly giveaways. Over 100 gifts will be given away during the campaign. These include lunches, dinners, tickets to area attractions, season passes to local performances, sailing and cruises on the river or waterway, and more. This year's randomly drawn "Triumphant Seahawk" will receive: one year's parking privileges, dinner for two with Chancellor DePaolo (date to be arranged), one Fort Fisher Aquarium mug with five complimentary aquarium tickets, two tickets for a Wrightsville Beach harbor cruise and a gift tote—complete with items required to be a "Triumphant Seahawk" success. Contributing to the campaign ensures eligibility for this year's assortment of prizes and provides assistance to families and individuals whose needs may otherwise be neglected without this support. Assist UNCW in this combined effort while "Rising to the Needs of Others!"

"Ask the Candidate Forums" Scheduled

The Council of Neighborhood Associations (CONA) in conjunction with WAAV radio, the Star-News and UNCW will sponsor two candidate's forums in preparation for the Oct. 7 City of Wilmington election. All forums begin at 7 p.m. and will be held at Warwick Center Ballroom. The first forum will be Thursday, Sept. 18, featuring seven candidates for Mayor of the City of Wilmington. The Thursday, Sept. 25 forum will be for the 16 candidates Wilmington City Council.

Both forums will utilize a panel format featuring the following panelists who will question the candidates: Scott Brooks, WAAV News; Jon Evans, news anchor and managing editor of News Channel 3 – WWAY-TV; Ken Murphy of WECT-TV6; Si Cantwell, columnist for the Star-News; and Jane Kopczynski representing the Council of Neighborhood Associations. Dr. Earl Sheridan, political science, will join the panel Sept. 18.

Donn Ansell, talk show host for WAAV, will be the moderator. Welcoming and introductory remarks will be made by Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo (Sept. 18), and Dr. Raymond Burt, assistant vice chancellor for academic affairs, (Sept. 25).

The public is encouraged to attend and participate. Questions from the floor will be entertained. The forum will be broadcast live on WAAV, 980 AM, and the Learning Network by UNCW-TV on Time Warner Cable Channel 5 and Charter Cable 12.

TECHNOLOGY CORNER

The Technology Corner from ITSD, serves as an area highlighting items of interest for faculty and staff. Training opportunities and events will be updated periodically. Check this area for information technology details. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

ITSD Virus Update

ITSD and its departments have a variety of techniques for handling recent virus outbreaks. A preventative measure that can be taken is to visit www.uncw.edu/compserv/compsys/WindowsLiveUpdate.htm to get security patches and service packs to stay current.

It is up to the user to go to the Web site and install these critical updates to keep computers running smoothly.

ITSD Client Service Virus Information Resource Center at www.uncw.edu/virus refers users to links with details regarding obtaining, installation and configuration of anti-virus software. This site will also provide detailed information on how to deal with any specific viruses.

Remember it is important to have a system for backing up files from a computer's hard drive into a removable device.

Call the Technology Assistance Center Help Desk at ext. 4357 for further help.

UNC CAUSE @ UNCW

HURRICANE POLICY UPDATE

With hurricane season in high gear, the timing is right to remind the university community about adverse or catastrophic weather policies. Should a hurricane threaten Southeastern North Carolina, UNCW will initiate emergency actions based on two triggers.

When New Hanover County announces a voluntary evacuation of the beaches, UNCW officials will implement a no-grading policy and revoke the attendance policy, actions designed to encourage students to leave campus, aiding in a quick campus evacuation when it becomes mandatory. When New Hanover County announces a mandatory evacuation of the beaches, UNCW will officially close to everyone except pre-designated essential emergency personnel. Residence halls will be completely evacuated and locked, all classes will be cancelled for the duration of the storm and until further notice, and access to university grounds and buildings will be denied.

As these events develop, a broadcast phone message and a mass e-mail message will be sent to students, faculty, and staff giving information on official closing times, Hurricane Hotline numbers, and any special instructions. Faculty, staff and students should also stay tuned to local media for closing and re-opening announcements.

While the university is officially closed, only employees who have been pre-designated as "essential" should report to work. Employees required to work will be compensated in accordance with the "Extra Time" policy. Employees not required to work will not have to make up lost time.

While the university remains open, in the event of threatening weather or unsafe traveling conditions, employees who are not able to travel to work, or who need to leave early, must charge the lost time to vacation or bonus leave or accrued comp time, or the time must be made up.

September 2003

HURRICANE CHECK LIST

General Information for Offices and Departments

PRIOR TO HURRICANE SEASON

- Review emergency plans, including the Hurricane Operations Plan and any office or departmental emergency plans. Make sure all employees are familiar with these plans and procedures.
- Update staffing changes and emergency contact information for office and department.
- Check emergency supply inventory. Order any needed items. Make emergency personnel aware of these supplies.

HURRICANE WATCH – 36 hours prior to storm arrival

- Keep abreast of weather and the hurricane by checking local news stations periodically.
- Stay tuned for news from university decision-makers on next steps and major decisions.
- Begin preliminary hurricane preparations:
 - Review hurricane checklist.
 - Cancel or postpone events, meetings, and/or activities.
 - Back up critical computer files; store in a safe place.
 - Verify emergency supplies are on hand such as plastic or trash bags for wrapping equipment.

HURRICANE WARNING – 24 hours prior to storm arrival

- Complete hurricane checklists and procedures as indicated in emergency plans.
- Take actions to protect offices, labs, and equipment:
 - Close and lock all windows.
 - Disconnect all electrical equipment and plugs.
 - Move equipment off of floor and cover with provided plastic.
 - Prepare a voice mail for telephone extensions stating that UNCW has closed due to emergency weather conditions due to a hurricane and will reopen when conditions permit. Leave the Hurricane Hotline telephone number on voicemail: 910/962-3991 or toll free 888/657-5751 for the latest UNCW information.
 - All personnel should notify their supervisor when hurricane office preparations have been completed and they are planning to leave campus.
 - Close all blinds and close and lock office doors.
- Ensure emergency personnel check in with the EOC as needed.
- Evacuate personnel from offices and departments.

DURING THE HURRICANE

- No representatives from offices and departments should remain on campus during the hurricane unless they are designated emergency personnel who must remain on campus for the duration of the storm or they are directed to do so by the EO Coordinator (Associate Vice Chancellor for Business Affairs – Business and Support Services).
- Stay tuned to local news and the UNCW Hurricane Hotline for the latest weather conditions and university closing and opening information.

Chancellor Taps Robert Tyndall to Oversee Public Service

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo announced that she has asked Dr. Robert E. Tyndall to add senior management oversight of the Division for Public Service and Continuing Studies to his current responsibilities as associate provost and vice chancellor for the Information Technology Systems Division.

Tyndall will assume the new duties Sept. 30 upon the retirement of Dr. James Edmundson, who has served as interim vice chancellor for public service since June. This will be Edmundson's second retirement from UNCW, having served 25 years in the field of continuing education. Tyndall will retain his new duties until a new person arrives after a national search is conducted, likely by July 1, 2004.

"Bob Tyndall has wide-ranging experience in university leadership, working as professor, dean, and vice chancellor, and his record in establishing outreach initiatives in distance education and service to public schools is outstanding," said DePaolo. "I've asked him to apply his leadership skills to analyzing and managing the university's critical public service mission, just as he developed an overall framework strategically to align UNCW's information technology resources."

"I am honored by the confidence the chancellor has placed in me," Tyndall said. "It is critical that service to UNCW's region and the professional community never be viewed as an add-on. Our outreach efforts must be linked to the university's day-to-day life. I hope my temporary service in this capacity will provide a strong foundation for the new public service leader fully to develop Chancellor DePaolo's vision for this area."

WECT to Broadcast from UNCW-TV

WECT-TV Channel 6 will broadcast their morning show, Carolina in the Morning, from Lakeside Hall Studio starting at 5:30 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 24.

The focus of the show will be the expansion of the facilities, and will include interviews with Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo, Coach Brad Brownell and Bill Bolduc, communication studies.

Closed Classes May Greet Isabel

UNCW administrators decided that effective 2 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 17 the university will invoke a voluntary evacuation for students. Effective at 2 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 17, classes and events will be canceled through Friday, Sept. 19. The university will be closed on Thursday for faculty and staff. Faculty and staff should monitor the local media for future updates.

Call the Hurricane Hotline at ext. 3991 or 888/657-5751 or check the news and events Web site at www.uncw.edu/news.

Open Forums

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo will hold open forums for faculty and staff 3 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 24 in Warwick Center Ballroom. This will be the first of a series of open forums giving faculty and staff the opportunity to hear and discuss issues relating to the benchmarking study currently underway. At the forums, the chancellor will present preliminary findings and solicit ideas and suggestions from faculty and staff. If unable to attend next week's forum, a second forum will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Physics Colloquium

Laura Guy, physics and physical oceanography, will present "Optical Trapping and Manipulation of Biological Objects" at 2 p.m. Friday, Sept. 26 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

Managing Grants

The Office of Sponsored Programs has developed a seminar series to keep faculty and staff current on the changing face of research administration. The next seminar will be "Managing Your Grant," from 8:30 to 10 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 24 in the University Union, Room 105. The seminar will detail paying people, making purchases and travel. All grants are subject to UNCW policies. Sandie Moore and John Finn will help navigate through the many how-to's of administering grant money. All PI's and administrative support staff are invited and will learn to apply the AARF test. To register, e-mail Michelle Starks at starksm.

Braveheart Tour

Larry Usilton, history, will conduct a tour of the British Isles during spring vacation, March 4 through 14. The so-called "Braveheart Tour" is the ninth installment of the "Medieval Sampler" travel series, which seeks to expose students, faculty staff and community members to the medieval delights—castles, cathedrals, and more—of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland. This year's tour will focus on the life and age of the Scottish freedom fighter, William Wallace. For more information on this trip, contact Usilton at ext. 3312 or e-mail usiltonl.

Mentoring Program

The Women in Leadership Mentoring Program is an opportunity for female students and professional women to come together to share experiences, discuss current issues and learn from each other. The Center for Leadership Education and Service is seeking faculty and staff to serve as mentors. In addition, faculty and staff are encouraged to make class announcements to undergraduate and graduate women students of the opportunity to be mentored by a professional woman. The kickoff event will be held at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 24 in the University Union, Glass Room. If interested in participating in this program, contact Emily Gorman-Fancy at ext. 3877 or by e-mail at eag6519@uncw.edu.

Research Revolution

Into the Body is the second film of the free six-part "Research Revolution," which aims to increase the public's understanding of scientific discovery and technological transformation in the 20th century. This film, about robotics, genetically modified food and body implants, will be shown at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 23 at Cape Fear Museum. William McCarthy, history, and Timothy Ballard, biological sciences, will lead the discussion following the film.

Our Genes, Our Choices, a Fred Friendly Seminar on genetic testing and issues of privacy, will be shown at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 30 in Randall Library.

For more details visit http://library.uncwil.edu/research_revolution/ or contact Sue Cody at ext. 7409 or by e-mail at codys.

Scholarship Benefit

The Got-Em-On Live Bait Club will host the sixth annual scholarship golf tournament on Saturday, Sept. 27 at the Cape Golf and Racquet Club. All proceeds from the event will be used to fund scholarships for UNCW marine science graduate students. The format will be captain's choice, handicapped and flighted. Teams or singles should be at the Cape at 11 a.m. with a shotgun start at 12:30 p.m. Registration is $55 for men and $45 for women. A social will follow at the clubhouse. The tournament is trying to recruit sponsors: a corporate sponsorship ($500) includes brochure and advertising space, a hole sign, and a team; an executive sponsorship ($300) gets a hole sign and a team; a hole sponsorship is $100 for a sign. For more information, contact Randy or Sue Gibson at 458-9735 or e-mail at Randygibson@Allstate.com or Pat Harrill at 458-4362 or e-mail patscharters@email.com.

"Ask the Candidate Forums" Rescheduled

The Council of Neighborhood Associations (CONA) in conjunction with WAAV radio, the Star-News and UNCW will sponsor two candidate's forums in preparation for the Oct. 7 City of Wilmington election. All forums begin at 7 p.m. and will be held at Warwick Center Ballroom. The first forum has been rescheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 1, featuring seven candidates for Mayor of the City of Wilmington. The Thursday, Sept. 25 forum will be for the 16 candidates for Wilmington City Council.

The public is encouraged to attend and participate. Questions from the floor will be entertained. The forum will be broadcast live on WAAV, 980 AM, and the Learning Network by UNCW-TV on Time Warner Cable Channel 5 and Charter Cable 12.

America in Iraq

The public program "America in Iraq: What Next?" is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 23 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100. Panelists include James Leutze, chancellor emeritus; Remonde Kleinberg, political science; Lisa Pollard, history; and Robert Toplin, history. The event is free and open to the public.

Panelists will consider the events and decisions that led to war and America's commitment to rebuild Iraq. They will offer judgments about the best course of action in view of recent history. For additional information, contact Robert Toplin at ext. 3318, at 793-6451 or by e-mail at toplinrb.

SECC: Rise to the Needs of Others!

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo and State Employees Combined Campaign (SECC), Co-Chairs Virginia W. Adams and Tim Jordan invite all staff and faculty to participate in this year's combined campaign. Visitors to the Web site www.uncw.edu/dpscs/secc will be eligible for pre-campaign drawings taking place Sept. 25. The campaign runs from Sept. 26 to Oct. 31.

Once the campaign gets underway on Sept. 26, employees contributing a minimum of $1 or more by Friday of each campaign week will be included in drawings for weekly giveaways. Over 100 gifts will be given away during the campaign. These include lunches, dinners, tickets to area attractions, season passes to local performances, sailing and cruises on the river or waterway, and more. This year's randomly drawn "Triumphant Seahawk" will receive: one year's parking privileges, dinner for two with Chancellor DePaolo (date to be arranged), one North Carolina Aquarium at Fort Fisher mug with five complimentary aquarium tickets, two tickets for a Wrightsville Beach harbor cruise and a gift tote—complete with items required to be a "Triumphant Seahawk." Contributing to the campaign ensures eligibility for this year's assortment of prizes and provides assistance to families and individuals whose needs may otherwise be neglected without this support. Assist UNCW in this combined effort while "Rising to the Needs of Others!"

OVER-THE-COUNTER DRUGS AND MEDICINES

Over-the-counter drugs and medicines may now be reimbursable under your Health Care Spending Account effective January 1, 2004. The expenses that may be reimbursed depend on whether the drug or medicine treats a specific medical condition or is used mostly for a person's general good health. Drugs and medicines which are primarily used for a person's general good health (e.g., mouthwash) may only be reimbursed if it is used to treat a specific medical condition and proper documentation from the doctor or dentist is submitted. Most over-the-counter drugs or medicines are eligible; cosmetic, toiletry, or sundry items are "not" eligible.

Eligible Expenses (Examples)

- Allergy medicine
- Laxatives
- Antacids
- Medical ointments (Neosporin)
- Athletes foot medicine
- Pain relievers (aspirin, Tylenol)
- Cold/sinus medicines
- Nicotine patches and gum
- Cough syrup
- Sore muscle medicines (Ben Gay)
- Hemorrhoid medicine

Expenses Requiring Additional Documentation (Examples)

- Medicated Shampoo
- Mouthwash
- Dietary Supplements
- Vitamin Supplements
- Nutritional Supplements

Ineligible Expenses (Examples)

- Vitamins for general good health
- Facial creams
- Deodorants
- Toothpaste
- Bug repellent
- Sunscreens

Required Documentation

A store receipt showing the place of purchase is required and must include the date of purchase, name of the item and the amount charged. For expenses requiring additional documentation, a letter of medical necessity from your physician or dentist will be required.

For more information, contact Kelly Ann Kennedy, benefits counselor, ext. 3006.

Real Food on Campus is a real hit!

Wagoner renovations popular with students and employees

"I like it! Bringing the food out to the dining area is the best improvement," Travis Meaney, sophomore, said of the newly renovated Wagoner Hall and its new Real Food on Campus (RFoC) dining concept.

What started as a floor repair project evolved into a complete overhaul of Wagoner Hall and an entirely new dining concept according to Dick Fauson, auxiliary services director. In addition to the floor repair, the dining hall was renovated adding arches between the old serving and dining areas. New chairs and stools, selected by students, were also added. These changes completed over the summer break allowed campus dining to introduce RFoC, a true restaurant-style dining experience with fresh foods cooked right before your eyes and food preparation and serving stations scattered throughout the seating areas.

"Now you can grab a stool and watch while your server chops, stirs and sautés," said JP Fesperman, campus dining director.

A brick-oven pizza station was also installed during the renovations. Marco Esposito, sophomore, lived in Schwartz Hall last year and lives off campus this year, but still comes to eat at Wagoner. "It's the best place to socialize." He added, "The arches are beautiful. The lights are great. I don't think most people realize how much nicer Wagoner is this year. The pizza oven is great, and the pizza is much better."

"I think the food's better now," said Corey Donovan, junior. "I do like the way they are heating sandwiches now, but an extra sandwich line would be great. And I really like the new fruit they added - like plums - instead of just apples and bananas."

John Lukomski, a senior exchange student, compared the new Wagoner to the dining facility at the University of Mississippi. "It's more modern. The layout is nicer. You can get to everything easier. It's very comfortable."

While most students applaud the made-fresh-just-for-you food, a few noted that lines were rather long during peak times at the beginning of the semester. Increased training, better anticipation of rushes and different menus with more quick-serve options have alleviated the lines according to Fesperman.

Students aren't the only ones appreciating the changes at Wagoner. Because of the positive response from faculty and staff, campus dining is now offering special discounted meal plan memberships for employees. Sold in 10, 25 or 50 meal denominations, faculty/staff meal plan memberships may be purchased with cash or check at Wagoner Hall. For complete details, contact campus dining at ext. 3960. You may also purchase single all-you-care-to-eat meals ($4.28 for breakfast, $5.51 for lunch or $6.37 for dinner plus tax). Faculty and staff may use UNSea card flex dollars at all campus dining locations.

Edmundson Retires from UNCW

James C. Edmundson is retiring from the University of North Carolina at Wilmington, as of Sept. 30. Throughout his career Edmundson has overseen and directed new initiatives and endeavors including the Global Virtual University program between UNCW and three universities in Japan and the undergraduate extension degree program in Jacksonville, N.C., in cooperation with the Camp Lejeune Marine Base and Coastal Carolina Community College. Early in his career, he taught and was a dean in the North Carolina community college system and also established and administered the career education curriculum laboratory for the state of Florida.

Edmundson came to UNCW, from a four-year stint at Fayetteville State University, to build its continuing education program. From 1978-91, the lifelong learning program expanded to the Office of Special Programs and included summer school, extension courses, summer conferences and the contract extension program with three regional community colleges. In 1991 Edmundson was promoted to assistant vice chancellor in academic affairs.

Edmundson officially retired from UNCW in 1993 but was asked to return in 1995 to spearhead the off-campus extension program in Jacksonville. After a year of groundwork, the degree program officially began in 1996. When academic affairs assumed responsibility for the program in 2001, more than 500 students were enrolled in the UNCW extension degree programs in Jacksonville.

In 2001, Edmundson launched the university's Executive Development Center (EDC), which moved from an unknown entity and few staff to a facility that served more than 7,000 people last year with a professional staff of four, in addition to student interns and community support from the surrounding businesses.

He became acting vice chancellor for the Division for Public Service and Continuing Studies in July when Michelle R. Howard-Vital resigned to take a position with UNC General Administration.

A retirement reception recognizing Edmundson will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 25 in the University Union Living Room.

Sam Connally Receives Award

The director of state personnel, Thomas H. Wright, awarded the Order of the Long Leaf Pine to Sam Connally at his going away reception earlier this month. The award is one of the highest awards given to North Carolina citizens and commemorates 30 years of service with the state. At the reception, Wright said that Connally was a voice of "unequalled dedication" and service to the employees to whom he served as well as an asset to the statewide personnel system.

Chancellor's Open Forum

At the first open forum of the semester, Sept. 24, Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo and Ken Spackman, director of university planning, presented a series of slides comparing UNCW to other institutions. Attendees to the forum were allowed response time in an attempt to help define and solve budgetary, growth and identity issues at the university. The second forum is scheduled from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13.

SECC: Rise to the Needs of Others!

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo and State Employees Combined Campaign (SECC), Co-Chairs Virginia W. Adams and Tim Jordan invite all staff and faculty to participate in this year's combined campaign. Visitors to the Web site www.uncw.edu/dpscs/secc will be eligible for pre-campaign drawings taking place Sept. 25. The campaign runs from Sept. 26 to Oct. 31.

Once the campaign gets underway on Sept. 26, employees contributing a minimum of $1 or more by Friday of each campaign week will be included in drawings for weekly giveaways. Over 100 gifts will be given away during the campaign. These include lunches, dinners, tickets to area attractions, season passes to local performances, sailing and cruises on the river or waterway, and more. This year's randomly drawn "Triumphant Seahawk" will receive: one year's parking privileges, dinner for two with Chancellor DePaolo (date to be arranged), one North Carolina Aquarium at Fort Fisher mug with five complimentary aquarium tickets, two tickets for a Wrightsville Beach harbor cruise and a gift tote—complete with items required to be a "Triumphant Seahawk." Contributing to the campaign ensures eligibility for this year's assortment of prizes and provides assistance to families and individuals whose needs may otherwise be neglected without this support. Assist UNCW in this combined effort while "Rising to the Needs of Others!"

Research Revolution Continues

Randall Library presents the third documentary film in the Research Revolution viewing and discussion series at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 30 at 7:00 in the Library Auditorium. Our Genes, Our Choices: Who Gets to Know? is an intense, provocative and yet sometimes humorous discussion of the wide reaching and serious implications of genetic testing. William McCarthy, history, and Diane Dodd, biological sciences, will lead the discussion. The film will also be presented 2 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 7 at Cape Fear Museum. For more information, call Sue Cody at ext. 7409 or visit http://library.uncwil.edu/research_revolution/.

Cox Steps Down

Philip Gerard has been appointed interim chair of the Department of Creative Writing, so that Mark Cox may pursue a book project to be published by University of Pittsburgh Press.

Gerard will chair until spring semester when Philip Furia will take on the remainder of Cox's term through spring 2005.

Moviemakers Series

The rescheduled Rachel Wimberly lecture is from 2 to 4 p.m. Friday, Sept. 26 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100. Wimberly has worked as director of development for a Los Angeles-based entertainment company, working from inception of the screenplay through theatrical release on such films as Deep Blue Sea and The Family Man, starring Nicholas Cage. In addition, Wimberly has worked as producer and writer for CNN Business News and as senior writer for Script magazine.

Wimberly will discuss the path a screenplay takes from the moment it's "signed on" by an agent or literary manager until it goes before the cameras. UNCW students will also have the opportunity of pitching their screenplay ideas and receiving valuable feedback from this industry professional. A sign-up sheet for students will be posted outside the film studies office.

From 2 to 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 3 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100 Pat Hingle will be the guest speaker. He has worked as a professional actor for over 50 years, performing in live television, in theater and in hit movies, such as Batman (1990) and its sequels, where he plays Commissioner Gordon.

All Moviemaker talks are free and open to the public. For further information, call ext. 7502.

SOLC Rescheduled

The Student Organization Leadership Conference planned for Sept. 19 and 20 was cancelled. A modified version of the conference will be offered from 2 to 8:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 3 in the University Union and Warwick Center.

Originally this conference was part of the re-registration process for all 150 student organizations, however, as the new conference date is after the Sept. 24 re-registration deadline for organizations, this conference is no longer a requirement.

Student groups are still expected to send two delegates on Oct. 3, but if they cannot it will not affect their active status.

Check the Campus Activities and Involvement Center Web site at www.uncw.edu/activities for more up-to-date information or phone Faydra Stratton at ext. 7601.

Vol. XXIII No. 11 October 2, 2003

Elizabeth King Humphrey, Editor

Chancellor's Open Forum: New Date

The second open forum is scheduled from 3 to 5 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 2 in the King Hall auditorium. The change was made to enable faculty with Monday/Wednesday teaching schedules to attend the open forums. The other forum, scheduled for Monday, Oct. 13 is cancelled.

The chancellor is encouraging responses to help define and solve budgetary, growth and identity issues at the university. A comparison to other universities will be presented. All faculty and staff are welcome to attend.

Bryde's Whale Subspecies Mystery

A group of scientists believe a new subspecies of Bryde's whale was discovered on Carolina Beach. UNCW's William McLellan and Ann Pabst, Smithsonian Institute scientists and volunteers took samples from a stranded whale in March that had died from starvation. Pabst, who runs the university's stranding program, and McLellan autopsied the whale.

According to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the "possible subspecies of Bryde's whale appears to be unique from other Bryde's whales studied." McLellan told the Star-News that a whale found along the South Carolina coast in 1992 has provided the nearest match of the Carolina Beach find. The scientists will need more information to solve this puzzle. For more information, visit the NOAA Web site at www.noaanews.noaa.gov/stories/s2094.htm.

Documentary Airs

UNCW-TV's latest public television documentary, Troubled Waters: The Illusion of Abundance, airs at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 8 on UNC-TV. Narrated by UNCW's Chancellor Emeritus James R. Leutze, the hour-long program explores the global, national and statewide crisis regarding water.

"This is a story about water: The role it plays in our lives and the crisis we are in," says Leutze as the program opens. "It is a quiet crisis slowly creeping across continents, including our own. We take water for granted. We don't give it a second thought unless something drastic happens like a drought. Only then do we realize how crucial water is to our lives."

Interviewees include North Carolina Governor Mike Easley, who discusses the drought's impact on agriculture. He became the first Southern governor to ask the federal government for agricultural drought relief.

Chancellor Emeritus James Leutze speaking with Sandra Postel, director of the Global Water Policy Project, during the filming of Troubled Waters, a UNCW educational documentary airing at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 8 on UNC-TV.

The University Union/Warwick Center fall break hours are as follows: 7 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Oct. 9 and 10; closed Saturday, Oct. 11; and open 5 to midnight, Sunday, Oct. 12.

OSP Seminar

The Office of Sponsored Programs has developed a seminar series to keep faculty and staff current on the changing face of research administration. The next seminar will be "Institutional Review Board: New Policies, Procedures and Forms for the Use of Human Subjects," from 2:30 to 4 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 7 in the University Union, Room 105. The seminar will detail the new IRB policies, procedures and forms for research using human subjects. Tiffany Mattson will help individuals determine when a protocol is needed, how to complete the new forms and which new policies affect them. All PIs, co-investigators and research staff are invited to attend. To register, e-mail Michelle Starks at starksm.

Moviemaker Series

Actor Pat Hingle will be the guest speaker from 2 to 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 3 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100. He has worked as a professional actor for over 50 years, performing in live television, in theater and in hit movies, such as Batman (1990) and its sequels, where he plays Commissioner Gordon. All Moviemaker talks are free and open to the public. For further information, call ext. 7502.

Mammograms

The New Hanover Regional Medical Center's Coastal Care van will conduct mammograms from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16. Employees and students, 40 and older, are eligible to register for screenings. Space is limited and women must have a doctor's orders to have a mammogram. Call ext. 4135 by Wednesday, Oct. 15 for the screening. This event is sponsored by Health Promotion Services and the Student Health Center. Contact ext. 4135 with any questions.

Theatre Season

The University Theatre announces the first production of its 2003-04 season, Boys' Life, directed by Ed Wagenseller, arts and theater. The comedy will be performed at 8 p.m. Oct. 1 through 4 and 2 p.m. Oct. 5 in the SRO Theatre in Kenan Hall.

Boys' Life follows the story of three friends through their journey into adulthood and the inevitable responsibilities that they must take on. The New Yorker calls Boys' Life "a balanced and intelligent comment on the battle of the sexes."

Rec Center Hours

Phased Retirement

The annual enrollment period for tenured faculty who wish to enter phased retirement for the 2004-05 academic year is Sept. 24 through Oct. 24. Enrollment information is available at www.uncw.edu/hr/phased.htm. To participate in phased retirement faculty must be eligible to receive a retirement income from either the Teachers' and State Employees' Retirement System (TSERS) or the Optional Retirement Plan (ORP). The minimum criterion for TSERS is age 50 with 20 years of service or age 60 with five years of service. For ORP members, the criterion is age 50 with five years of service. Informational meetings will be held from 4 to 5 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 8 and 9 in the HR training room, 5051 New Centre Drive. To register for a session or to receive an enrollment packet, e-mail mcdowellj or call ext. 3712.

Isabel Timekeeping

The university was closed on Thursday, Sept. 18 due to Hurricane Isabel. Employees using the monthly time sheet (HR2.10), should enter eight hours in Col 10, with the code "CW." Time will not have to be made up. Employees who were on vacation, sick, leave without pay for the period will remain on leave. SPA employees who worked during the period that the university was closed should work with their supervisors to complete their timesheets. Call human resources at ext. 3160 with any questions.

Document Imaging in Accounts and Travel

The Accounting Department has announced that Accounts Payable and Travel sections will begin imaging of all documents on Sept. 22. Accounts Payable and Travel join FAVSO and Purchasing in utilizing this technology. The scanning equipment will not accept smaller paper sizes, therefore it is requested that all receipts or original documents smaller than 8 1/2 x 11 inches be taped with clear tape (not stapled) to an 8 1/2 x 11 inch sheet of paper. Effective Oct. 1, send documents on the 8 1/2 x 11 inch paper. Contact Ann Blake at ext. 3172 or blakem with any questions.

Workshop Postponed

The NIH: eRA Commons workshop announced in the Faculty/Staff Training Manual for Thursday, Oct. 2 has been postponed until NIH gets closer to the implementation phase. NIH is behind in the production phase of the Commons. The Office of Sponsored Programs will announce the workshop once it has been rescheduled.

Thanks

Joan Greene, environmental health and safety, and Dana McKoy, office of the dean of students, extend sincere thanks to all of their UNCW friends for their many kind expressions of sympathy due to the recent loss of Joan's husband and Dana's stepfather.

Surplus Viewing Times

In order to give customers the time and attention needed while making selections, the surplus property staff has set aside 8:30 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday for viewing surplus property.

Debaters Needed

The government of Honors, Cornerstone and International House halls is sponsoring monthly debates between professors on various political and social issues. The government staff believes these debates will let students hear reasoned, intellectual arguments and see professors inside the residence halls. The format of each debate is as follows: (1) both professors get seven to 10 minutes to present their initial point of view; (2) each professor gets five minutes to present a rebuttal; and (3) Students will be able to ask the professors questions.

The first debate—on the issue of the legalization of gay marriage in the U.S.—is at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 21 in Cornerstone Residence Hall. The organizers are seeking two professors to provide opposing viewpoints to the issue. If interested in participating, please contact Travis Matthews at ext. 7376 or e-mail him at tbm4733@uncw.edu.

Asia Lecture

The second of a two-part lecture series, "America's Relations with Asia," will be held from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 7, in King Hall, Room 101. It is sponsored by the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures along with the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill's Carolina Asia Center, Curriculum in Asian Studies and General Alumni Association. The lecture series is free and open to the public. W. Miles Fletcher, chair of curriculum in Asian studies at UNC-CH, will discuss "The U.S. and East Asia: New Roles in an Era of Rapid Change." For more information, contact Yoko Kano in the UNCW Department of Foreign Languages and Literature at ext. 7214.

Ricks Lecture

Christopher Ricks, a literary critic and professor, will hold a reading and discussion at the 4 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13 in King Auditorium, King Hall. Ricks will be giving a talk on "Poetry and Pain." This event is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by the Buckner Lecture Series and the UNCW Department of English. A reception, at 3 p.m., will precede the discussion and a book signing will follow it. For further information, contact the UNCW English Department at ext. 3320.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

University Relations

Vol. XXIII No. 11 October 9, 2003

Elizabeth King Humphrey, Editor

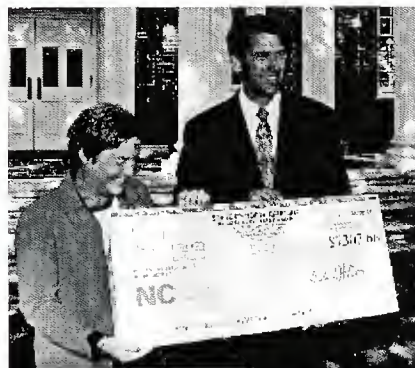

Strong First Week for Campaign

In the first week of the State Employees Combined Campaign 208 UNCW participants contributed a total of $21,319. For more information about the campaign and the many incentives yet to be awarded, visit the UNCW SECC Web site at www.uncw.edu/dpscs/secc/main.htm and select incentives from the green menu bar across the top of the Web page.

The "extra early" Seahawk winners are:

Gregory A. Bechtel, nursing,

Emily Bliss receiving a check for $7,307 from Richard Moore, state treasurer, Oct. 2. The money, which will probably be put towards student scholarships, resulted from funds located by the treasurer's office in the unclaimed property program. Some of the errant dollars dated back to 1992 and was as little as $3.84.

Miller Produces PSA About Ocean

This month, television viewers will begin to see the first public service announcement (PSA) from the Shifting Baselines Media Campaign, designed to call attention to the severe state of ocean decline. Directed and written by filmmaker/marine biologist Randy Olson, with UNCW's Steven Miller as a producer and founding member of the campaign, the spot takes a different approach from other environmental PSAs and uses humor to make its point. Starring popular comic actor Jack Black (School of Rock, Shallow Hal, Orange County), the "Ocean Symphony" PSA also features other well known actors.

"I got involved with this project because the oceans are in serious trouble," said Miller, director of UNCW's National Undersea Research Center. He added, "We wanted to do something different, something that would reach audiences who don't typically watch public TV or the Discovery Channel. We tried to produce something entertaining—not the usual gloom and doom stuff—that will get people thinking about the condition of our oceans."

For more details visit www.shiftingbaselines.org.

Budget Cuts Elicit Personal Stories

UNCW's Student Government Association is soliciting stories from UNCW students, faculty, staff and others as a statewide effort by the UNC Association of Student Governments (UNCASG) to collect personal stories about tuition increases and budget cuts. The UNCASG has created the Web site www.personalstories.org where peoples' stories can be read.

UNCASG's goal is to compile 1,600 stories, 100 from each of the 16 campuses, by the end of November. The collected stories will be published in a book that will be given to every member

Lottery Panel

The prosed N.C. education lottery will be the focus of a panel discussion and public forum at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16 in Warwick Center ballroom. Admission is free and all are encouraged to attend. The program is sponsored by the Department of Communication Studies. Contact Randy Bobbitt at ext. 7635.

Beetle Raffle

A 2003 sunflower yellow VW Seahawk Beetle courtesy of Bob King, class of 1966, is being raffled to raise $50,000 or more for merit scholarships through the UNCW Alumni Association. The VW is valued at $19,500. Each raffle ticket for $25 will assist deserving students in receiving a UNCW education. Call the Office of Alumni Relations at ext. 2682, Bob King AutoMall at 799-3520 or any alumni board member about making a ticket purchase. The winning ticket will be drawn at the Homecoming men's basketball game on Jan. 24. There is no need to be present to win.

Story Time

The Seahawk Perch, UNCW's Center for Commuter and Non-Traditional Student Services, invites all faculty and staff with children ages three to 10 to Children's Story Adventures. This unique program is offered from 3:30 to 5 p.m. every Wednesday in the children's literature section of Randall Library (upstairs) and is designed to give parents uninterrupted time to study or research, while their children enjoy readings of age-appropriate literature by volunteers. If interested in registering a child or volunteering, contact the Seahawk Perch at ext. 7371 or e-mail seahawkperch@uncw.edu.

Gene Squad Film

Randall Library presents the fourth documentary film in the Research Revolution series viewing and discussion series on Tuesday, October 14 at 7 p.m. in the library auditorium. The Gene Squad traces the development of forensic DNA sampling and profiling. William McCarthy, history, and Midori Albert, anthropology, will lead the discussion. The film will also be presented at Cape Fear Museum at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 21. For more information, call Sue Cody at ext. 7409 or visit http://library.uncwil.edu/research_revolution/.

Debaters Needed

The first debate sponsored by the government of Honors, Cornerstone and International House halls — on the issue of the legalization of gay marriage in the U.S. — is at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 21 in Cornerstone Hall. The organizers are seeking two professors to provide opposing viewpoints to this issue. If interested in participating, contact Travis Matthews at ext. 7376 or e-mail him at tbm4733@uncw.edu.

The government is sponsoring monthly debates between professors on various political and social issues. The government staff believes these debates will let students hear reasoned, intellectual arguments and see professors inside the residence halls. The format of each debate is as follows: (1) both professors get seven to 10 minutes to present their initial point of view; (2) each professor gets five minutes to present a rebuttal; and (3) Students will be able to ask the professors questions.

Free Reading

Christopher Ricks, a literary critic and professor, will hold a reading and discussion at the 4 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13 in King Auditorium, King Hall. Ricks will be giving a talk on "Poetry and Pain." This event is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by the Buckner Lecture Series and the UNCW Department of English. A reception, at 3 p.m., will precede the discussion and a book signing will follow it. For further information, contact the English department at ext. 3320.

Noontime Basketball

Campus recreation invites all interested faculty and staff to join in basketball games: 12 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday; 12:15 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday in the Student Recreation Center.

African Cinema Lecture

The Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures and the French Club will host a talk by Kandiora Dramé, chair of the French department at the University of Virginia. The event will take place at 7 p.m. Oct. 16 in Lakeside Hall, Room 143. His topic will be "The Lion and the Hunter: African Cinema in the Postcolonial Era." This lecture is free and open to the public. A reception will follow. For more information, contact Pascale Barthe at ext. 3048.

The deadline for the Campus Communique is 12 p.m. Tuesday for inclusion in that week's publication.

E-mail
communique@uncw.edu
with submissions.

of the North Carolina General Assembly, University Board of Governors, chancellors and trustees as evidence of how their recent decisions are affecting students.

The SGA of UNCW wants to exceed the contribution of 100 stories. To contribute or for information, contact Abigail Riley at ext. 3553 or ajr6722@uncw.edu.

Spring 2004 Graduation Filing Deadlines

The application deadline for spring 2004 graduation is Nov. 17. Seniors may apply online at www.uncw.edu/reg and click on the graduation application link, or stop by the Registrar's Office in James Hall. Faculty are requested to announce this deadline change in all 300 and 400 level classes.

The graduation application deadline for graduate students expecting to receive their master's degree in spring 2004 is Monday, Nov. 17. Master's degree candidates should come to the Graduate School office located on the second floor of James Hall and fill out the appropriate paperwork.

Resource Center Site

UNCW's Women's Resource Center has launched its Web site at www.uncw.edu/wrc. The site offers information about the women's studies minor, a dynamic calendar of campus activities related to issues of women, gender and sexuality, profiles of prominent women and links to other resources and programs on- and off-campus. It also invites users to sign up for the WRC's "(f)e-mail list," a distribution list that will circulate event reminders, volunteer opportunities and other information.

Midnite Madness

A week-long celebration featuring music, contests and other festivities will culminate with Midnite Madness on Friday, Oct. 17, officially signaling the beginning of the UNCW 2003-04 basketball season.

The week begins at 4 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 14, with a "Hot Shot" contest at the Student Recreation Center. Dinner and photos with the Seahawk mascot are scheduled from 5 to 7 p.m. in Wagoner Hall and a Powder Puff football game runs from 7 to 10 p.m.

On Wednesday, Oct. 15, free ice cream will be distributed by the Seahawk men's and women's basketball teams in the commons area near the heart of campus.

Thursday's activities start at 11:30 a.m. with a concert by Georgia Avenue on the commons. An open mic night will be held at the Hawk's Nest at 6:30 p.m., and the women's soccer team battles Colonial Athletic Association rival George Mason at 7 p.m. at the UNCW Soccer Stadium.

On Friday, Oct. 17, the men's soccer team plays George Mason at 7 p.m. and a "Fan Jam" gets under way at 9 p.m. with a live band, Rubber Band, inflatable games and contests in the Hanover Hall parking area. Music will be provided by radio personality Brian Paiz and local station Coast 97.3.

The doors open to Trask Coliseum at 10:30 p.m. and Midnite Madness begins at 11 p.m. Both basketball teams will conduct dribbling and shooting exhibitions. The event will also include dunk contests and the finals of the Lip Sync contest.

Parking Lot A
will close at 12 p.m.
Friday, Oct. 17 due to the
Midnite Madness Fan Jam.

BOOKSTORE NOTES

This section features information of interest to faculty and staff about the UNCW Bookstore and, in the future, will expand to include other business and support services.

For questions about the UNCW Bookstore, call Andy Shaffer at ext. 7187.

Special Discounts and Services

The bookstore offers UNCW faculty, staff and departments a 20 percent discount on purchases including clothing, supplies, general reading books, giftware, greeting cards and backpacks. Faculty and staff may also pick up a discount card in the bookstore for 10 percent off at the Barnes & Noble Superstore located on College Road. UNCW ID is required for all purchases.

Adopted textbooks, special orders, discounted merchandise, class rings, health and beauty aids, food snacks and beverages are not eligible for discount.

UNCW's faculty authors and recording artists are highlighted in the bookstore and its Web site. To ensure a recent publication is included, contact Yvonne Jansen, the UNCW bookstore, at ext. 3188.

The UNCW bookstore can also be of assistance with departmental events such as lectures and author signings and to support your events by featuring in-store displays that include event signage and appropriate merchandise. To discuss these opportunities, contact Andy Shaffer at ext. 7187.

Dates to Remember

From 9 to 10 a.m. Oct. 23 - Faculty and student coffee break in Morton Hall.

Oct. 17 - Spring semester book orders due.

Oct. 31 - Halloween Fest, a pumpkin carving, candy and savings event.

UN Debate

The Political Science and History departments are sponsoring a debate, as part of "The People Speak: America Debates Its Role in the World," a nationwide event including hundreds of debates, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 14 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100. A question-and-answer period follows the debate.

Paige Tan, political science, hosts the debate while Robert Toplin, history, will moderate.

For more information, contact Paige Tan at tanp or ext. 3221. "The People Speak: America Debates Its Role in the World" is jointly funded by the Open Society Institute, the Rockefeller Brothers Fund and the United Nations Foundation.

For more information about this program or to nominate a student, visit www.uncw.edu/stuaff/doso/comm.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA
ABSTRACT OF APPLICATION FOR GRANT, CONTRACT, OR COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT

Title: North Carolina Middle Math Project

Principal Investigator(s)/Project Director(s): Mrs. Karen Shafer

Dr. Ann Crawford

INSTRUCTIONS

Items to be Included in the Abstract

The Abstract should be plainly written, limited to not more than one page, and in sufficient detail to summarize:

1. the purpose(s) or problems(s),
2. the hypothesis(es) or objective(s), and
3. the method(s) of the project.

The North Carolina Middle Math Project (NCM²) is a collaboration between the Mathematics and Science Education Network (MSEN) of the University of North Carolina and the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction (NCDPI). The goal is to improve mathematics education in grades 6-8 across the entire state of North Carolina, supporting teachers in their professional development and providing academic renewal and financial recognition to support their retention. Nine MSEN mathematics and science education centers, located throughout the UNC system, will combine their efforts and the talents of faculty, school system administrators, and middle school mathematics teachers.

The project will form an NCM² Leadership Network combining teams from each MSEN center including university mathematicians, university mathematics educators, school district administrators, and highly qualified middle school mathematics teachers (two teachers from each center). The Leadership Network will assist NCDPI in revision of the North Carolina Standard Course of Study and revision of the state tests, including End of Grade Tests and the End of Course Test for Algebra I.

The NCM² Leadership Network will develop a series of three graduate-level courses for middle school mathematics teachers, one each in the content areas of statistics and data analysis, geometry and measurement, and number and algebra. Initial course outlines and planning will be done with the full participation of the team members in summer 2001. Courses will then be designed and offered by the university faculty to the administrators and teachers during 2001-02. The classes will be team taught with each faculty member rotating instruction on an hourly basis.

In 2002-03, the MSEN centers will provide these courses to a total of 135 teachers statewide (15 teachers in each of the nine regions). The teachers will use this course work in obtaining National Board Certification in Early Adolescence/Mathematics and as the foundation for obtaining master's degrees in middle school mathematics education. Project classes will be offered during the academic year to enable teachers to complete additional degree coursework in the summers.

Strong First Week for Campaign

In the first week of the State Employees Combined Campaign 208 UNCW participants contributed a total of $21,319. For more information about the campaign and the many incentives yet to be awarded, visit the UNCW SECC Web site at www.uncw.edu/dpscs/secc/main.htm and select incentives from the green menu bar across the top of the Web page.

The "extra early" Seahawk winners are:

Gregory A. Bechtel, nursing,

Emily Bliss receiving a check for $7,307 from Richard Moore, state treasurer, Oct. 2. The money, which will probably be put towards student scholarships, resulted from funds located by the treasurer's office in the unclaimed property program. Some of the errant dollars dated back to 1992 and was as little as $3.84.

Miller Produces PSA About Ocean

This month, television viewers will begin to see the first public service announcement (PSA) from the Shifting Baselines Media Campaign, designed to call attention to the severe state of ocean decline. Directed and written by filmmaker/marine biologist Randy Olson, with UNCW's Steven Miller as a producer and founding member of the campaign, the spot takes a different approach from other environmental PSAs and uses humor to make its point. Starring popular comic actor Jack Black (School of Rock, Shallow Hal, Orange County), the "Ocean Symphony" PSA also features other well known actors.

"I got involved with this project because the oceans are in serious trouble," said Miller, director of UNCW's National Undersea Research Center. He added, "We wanted to do something different, something that would reach audiences who don't typically watch public TV or the Discovery Channel. We tried to produce something entertaining—not the usual gloom and doom stuff—that will get people thinking about the condition of our oceans."

Budget Cuts Elicit Personal Stories

UNCW's Student Government Association is soliciting stories from UNCW students, faculty, staff and others as a statewide effort by the UNC Association of Student Governments (UNCASG) to collect personal stories about tuition increases and budget cuts. The UNCASG has created the Web site www.personalstories.org where peoples' stories can be read.

UNCASG's goal is to compile 1,600 stories, 100 from each of the 16 campuses, by the end of November. The collected stories will be published in a book that will be given to every member

In front of Warwick Center, Director of Athletics Peg Bradley-Doppes and the Seahawk mascot presented Jeanneal Guy with a certificate for tickets to the men's 2003-04 basketball season and a Seahawk Club shirt. Guy received these for locating the Seahawk statue, stolen earlier this year.

Lottery Panel

The proposed N.C. education lottery will be the focus of a panel discussion and public forum at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16 in Warwick Center ballroom. Admission is free and all are encouraged to attend. The program is sponsored by the Department of Communication Studies. Contact Randy Bobbitt at ext. 7635.

Beetle Raffle

A 2003 sunflower yellow VW Seahawk Beetle courtesy of Bob King, class of 1966, is being raffled to raise $50,000 or more for merit scholarships through the UNCW Alumni Association. The VW is valued at $19,500. Each raffle ticket for $25 will assist deserving students in receiving a UNCW education. Call the Office of Alumni Relations at ext. 2682, Bob King AutoMall at 799-3520 or any alumni board member about making a ticket purchase. The winning ticket will be drawn at the Homecoming men's basketball game on Jan. 24. There is no need to be present to win.

Story Time

The Seahawk Perch, UNCW's Center for Commuter and Non-Traditional Student Services, invites all faculty and staff with children ages three to 10 to Children's Story Adventures. This unique program is offered from 3:30 to 5 p.m. every Wednesday in the children's literature section of Randall Library (upstairs) and is designed to give parents uninterrupted time to study or research, while their children enjoy readings of age-appropriate literature by volunteers. If interested in registering a child or volunteering, contact the Seahawk Perch at ext. 7371 or e-mail seahawkperch@uncw.edu.

Gene Squad Film

Randall Library presents the fourth documentary film in the Research Revolution series viewing and discussion series on Tuesday, October 14 at 7 p.m. in the library auditorium. The Gene Squad traces the development of forensic DNA sampling and profiling. William McCarthy, history, and Midori Albert, anthropology, will lead the discussion. The film will also be presented at Cape Fear Museum at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 21. For more information, call Sue Cody at ext. 7409 or visit http://library.uncwil.edu/research_revolution/.

Debaters Needed

The first debate sponsored by the government of Honors, Cornerstone and International House halls—on the issue of the legalization of gay marriage in the U.S.—is at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 21 in Cornerstone Hall. The organizers are seeking two professors to provide opposing viewpoints to this issue. If interested in participating, contact Travis Matthews at ext. 7376 or e-mail him at tbn4733@uncw.edu.

The government is sponsoring monthly debates between professors on various political and social issues. The government staff believes these debates will let students hear reasoned, intellectual arguments and see professors inside the residence halls. The format of each debate is as follows: (1) both professors get seven to 10 minutes to present their initial point of view; (2) each professor gets five minutes to present a rebuttal; and (3) Students will be able to ask the professors questions.

Free Reading

Christopher Ricks, a literary critic and professor, will hold a reading and discussion at the 4 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13 in King Auditorium, King Hall. Ricks will be giving a talk on "Poetry and Pain." This event is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by the Buckner Lecture Series and the UNCW Department of English. A reception, at 3 p.m., will precede the discussion and a book signing will follow it. For further information, contact the English department at ext. 3320.

Noontime Basketball

Campus recreation invites all interested faculty and staff to join in basketball games: 12 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday; 12:15 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday in the Student Recreation Center.

African Cinema Lecture

The Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures and the French Club will host a talk by Kandioura Dramé, chair of the French department at the University of Virginia. The event will take place at 7 p.m. Oct. 16 in Lakeside Hall, Room 143. His topic will be "The Lion and the Hunter: African Cinema in the Postcolonial Era." This lecture is free and open to the public. A reception will follow. For more information, contact Pascale Barthe at ext. 3048.

The deadline for the Campus Communique is 12 p.m. Tuesday for inclusion in that week's publication.

E-mail
communique@uncw.edu
with submissions.

The SGA of UNCW wants to exceed the contribution of 100 stories. To contribute or for information, contact Abigail Riley at ext. 3553 or ajr6722@uncw.edu.

Spring 2004 Graduation Filing Deadlines

The application deadline for spring 2004 graduation is Nov. 17. Seniors may apply online at www.uncw.edu/reg and click on the graduation application link, or stop by the Registrar's Office in James Hall. Faculty are requested to announce this deadline change in all 300 and 400 level classes.

The graduation application deadline for graduate students expecting to receive their master's degree in spring 2004 is Monday, Nov. 17. Master's degree candidates should come to the Graduate School office located on the second floor of James Hall and fill out the appropriate paperwork.

Resource Center Site

UNCW's Women's Resource Center has launched its Web site at www.uncw.edu/wrc. The site offers information about the women's studies minor, a dynamic calendar of campus activities related to issues of women, gender and sexuality, profiles of prominent women and links to other resources and programs on- and off-campus. It also invites users to sign up for the WRC's "(f)e-mail list," a distribution list that will circulate event reminders, volunteer opportunities and other information.

Midnite Madness

A week-long celebration featuring music, contests and other festivities will culminate with Midnite Madness on Friday, Oct. 17, officially signaling the beginning of the UNCW 2003-04 basketball season.

The week begins at 4 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 14, with a "Hot Shot" contest at the Student Recreation Center. Dinner and photos with the Seahawk mascot are scheduled from 5 to 7 p.m. in Wagoner Hall and a Powder Puff football game runs from 7 to 10 p.m.

On Wednesday, Oct. 15, free ice cream will be distributed by the Seahawk men's and women's basketball teams in the commons area near the heart of campus.

Thursday's activities start at 11:30 a.m. with a concert by Georgia Avenue on the commons. An open mic night will be held at the Hawk's Nest at 6:30 p.m., and the women's soccer team battles Colonial Athletic Association rival George Mason at 7 p.m. at the UNCW Soccer Stadium.

On Friday, Oct. 17, the men's soccer team plays George Mason at 7 p.m. and a "Fan Jam" gets under way at 9 p.m. with a live band, Rubber Band, inflatable games and contests in the Hanover Hall parking area. Music will be provided by radio personality Brian Paiz and local station Coast 97.3.

The doors open to Trask Coliseum at 10:30 p.m. and Midnite Madness begins at 11 p.m. Both basketball teams will conduct dribbling and shooting exhibitions. The event will also include dunk contests and the finals of the Lip Sync contest.

Parking Lot A
will close at 12 p.m.
Friday, Oct. 17 due to the
Midnite Madness Fan Jam.

BOOKSTORE NOTES

This section features information of interest to faculty and staff about the UNCW Bookstore and, in the future, will expand to include other business and support services. For questions about the UNCW Bookstore, call Andy Shaffer at ext. 7187.

Special Discounts and Services

The bookstore offers UNCW faculty, staff and departments a 20 percent discount on purchases including clothing, supplies, general reading books, giftware, greeting cards and backpacks. Faculty and staff may also pick up a discount card in the bookstore for 10 percent off at the Barnes & Noble Superstore located on College Road. UNCW ID is required for all purchases.

Adopted textbooks, special orders, discounted merchandise, class rings, health and beauty aids, food snacks and beverages are not eligible for discount.

UNCW's faculty authors and recording artists are highlighted in the bookstore and its Web site. To ensure a recent publication is included, contact Yvonne Jansen, the UNCW bookstore, at ext. 3188.

The UNCW bookstore can also be of assistance with departmental events such as lectures and author signings and to support your events by featuring in-store displays that include event signage and appropriate merchandise. To discuss these opportunities, contact Andy Shaffer at ext. 7187.

Dates to Remember

From 9 to 10 a.m. Oct. 23 - Faculty and student coffee break in Morton Hall.

Oct. 17 - Spring semester book orders due.

Oct. 31 - Halloween Fest, a pumpkin carving, candy and savings event.

UN Debate

The Political Science and History departments are sponsoring a debate, as part of "The People Speak: America Debates Its Role in the World," a nationwide event including hundreds of debates, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 14 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100. A question-and-answer period follows the debate.

Paige Tan, political science, hosts the debate while Robert Toplin, history, will moderate.

For more information, contact Paige Tan at tanp or ext. 3221. "The People Speak: America Debates Its Role in the World" is jointly funded by the Open Society Institute, the Rockefeller Brothers Fund and the United Nations Foundation.

Revised July 2003

OVER-THE-COUNTER DRUGS AND MEDICINES

Over-the-counter drugs and medicines may now be reimbursable under your Health Care Spending Account effective January 1, 2004. The expenses that may be reimbursed depend on whether the drug or medicine treats a specific medical condition or is used mostly for a person's general good health. Drugs and medicines which are primarily used for a person's general good health (e.g., mouthwash) may only be reimbursed if it is used to treat a specific medical condition and proper documentation from the doctor or dentist is submitted. Most over-the-counter drugs or medicines are eligible; cosmetic, toiletry, or sundry items are "not" eligible.

Eligible Expenses (Examples)

- Allergy medicine
- Antacids
- Athletes foot medicine
- Cold/sinus medicines
- Cough syrup
- Hemorrhoid medicine
- Laxatives
- Medical ointments (Neosporin)
- Pain relievers (aspirin, Tylenol)
- Nicotine patches and gum
- Sore muscle medicines (Ben Gay)

▪ Medicated Shampoo
▪ Mouthwash
▪ Dietary Supplements
▪ Vitamin Supplements
▪ Nutritional Supplements

Ineligible Expenses (Examples)

- Vitamins for general good health
- Deodorants
- Bug repellent
- Facial creams
- Toothpaste
- Sunscreens

Required Documentation

A store receipt showing the place of purchase is required and must include the date of purchase, name of the item and the amount charged. For expenses requiring additional documentation, a letter of medical necessity from your physician or dentist will be required.

Seminar Series

Office of Sponsored Programs Presents

Designing a Budget That Survives Real Life!

Date: Oct. 15, 2003

Time: 2:30—4:00

Location:

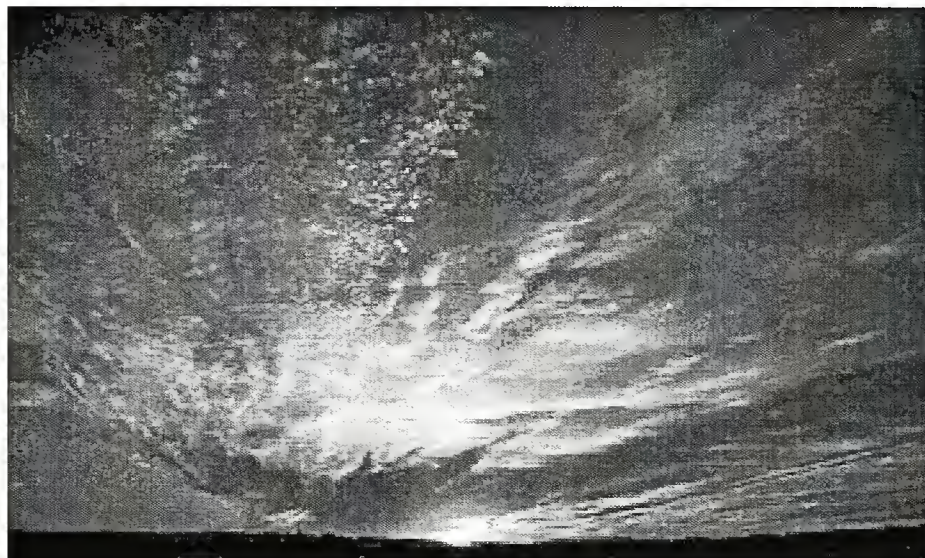

University Union
Room 206

Facilitator:

Pamela Whitlock,
Director, OSP

To Register:

E-mail Michelle Starks,
starksm@uncw.edu

This session addresses the challenges of designing a budget that withstands the award process. Discussion will center around the importance of developing a financial plan during the proposal phase which translates easily and cleanly into UNCW's accounting system upon award. It will stress the necessity for clear, early communication among the many partners involved in successful project management PI, OSP, departments, accounting, purchasing, and the many other units that support grant activities.

Highlights

- Importance of programming early
- FAQ's
- Budgets can be friendly if you let them

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

University Relations

Vol. XXIII No. 11 October 16, 2003

Elizabeth King Humphrey, Editor

Amy Staples, second Sherman Emerging Scholar, on campus Oct. 22-25

Sherman Scholar

Amy Staples, assistant professor of history at Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro, has been named the second Sherman Emerging Scholar in the Department of History. Staples was selected in a national competition for this distinction. In the capacity of Sherman Emerging Scholar, Staples will visit Wilmington Oct. 22 through 25, conduct informal seminars with faculty and students, guest lecture in several classes and present a public lecture. Her public lecture, "Imagining an International Order Based on Development and Peace: Thoughts on the Past and a Future," will be delivered at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 23 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. A reception will immediately follow the lecture in the lobby of the Warwick Center.

State Fair Focus

In celebration of the North Carolina State Fair's 150th anniversary, Professor Emeritus of History Melton A. McLaurin has written The North Carolina State Fair: The First 150 Years. Copies will be available during the state fair from Oct. 17 through Oct. 26, and McLaurin will be on hand at the fair to autograph copies in Dorton Arena at Raleigh. With an annual attendance of 700,000 visitors, the fair is the state's largest event and is the largest 10-day agricultural fair in the country.

McLaurin will also appear on North Carolina People with William Friday at 9 p.m. Friday, Oct. 17 and 5:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 19 on UNC-TV; State of Things from 12 to 1 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16 on WUNC-FM Public Radio; and a future broadcast of UNC-TV's North Carolina Now.

Morton Dies at 106 Years

Former English professor Margaret Shannon Morton died at her home in Henderson on Oct. 11 at the age of 106. In 1981 the campus humanities building was dedicated as Morton Hall in her honor. She was one of the original faculty members who began teaching at Wilmington College in 1947. Miss Morton was the first full-time teacher in the English department and was also its first chair. She was named dean of women in 1963. Morton retired as professor emerita in 1965 after 18 years of service.

UNC-TV Airs Film by UNCW's Vincent

The short film Conversation with Kafka directed by Renee Vincent, professor in the UNCW Art and Theatre Department, was selected to air on UNC-TV's North Carolina Visions at 11 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 25. This series spotlights North Carolina filmmakers. Adapted from an early Franz Kafka short story, "Conversation with a Supplicant," the film is the story of a conflicted young writer and his artistic obsessions with the city of Prague's unique characteristics. The film was shot on location in Prague, Czech Republic, as well as in Wilmington. Vincent bases this film's success on the collaboration from UNCW, including students, faculty and staff and many professionals and vendors in the Wilmington community. For information visit www.conversationwithkafka.com or www.uncv.org/ncvisions.com.

The following list includes performances sponsored this fall by the Department of Music. (This is not a complete list.):

- 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 19 in Kenan Auditorium - Mary Jo White, flute; Richard Thomas, cello; Phil Singleton, violin; Karen Rice, piano; and Bernard McWilliams, guest artist violist, will play works for flute and strings. Admission is $5 for adults, $2.50 for faculty, staff, senior citizens and children under 12. UNCW students are admitted free with a valid student ID.
- 8 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 19 - UNCW Chamber Singers and Orchestra in the Church of the Servant, Joe Hickman, conductor, Nancy King soprano.
- 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 23 - Evening of Brass Concert in Kenan Auditorium, Christofer Ackerman, director, Jerald Shynett, director, Dan Johnson, director.

For details call the music department at ext. 3390.

Lecture Series Begins

Arianna Huffington will speak at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16 at Kenan Auditorium on the topic, "The Call to Leadership." The lecture will be followed by a question-and-answer session and a book signing in the lobby. Her visit launches the Leadership Lecture Series, a Campus Activities and Involvement Center program. For more information about the lecture series, visit www.uncw.edu/stuaff/arts.

Lottery Panel

The proposed N.C. education lottery will be the focus of a panel discussion and public forum at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16 in Warwick Center ballroom. Admission is free and all are encouraged to attend. The program is sponsored by the Department of Communication Studies. Contact Randy Bobbitt at ext. 7635.

Library Films Continue

Cape Fear Museum presents the fourth documentary film in the Research Revolution viewing and discussion series at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 21 in the Williston Auditorium. The Gene Squad traces the development of forensic DNA sampling and profiling. William McCarthy, history, and Midori Albert, anthropology, will lead the discussion. The project is a joint project of Randall Library and the Cape Fear Museum. The next film in the series, What's Up with the Weather, is to be shown at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 28 in Randall Library. For more information, call Sue Cody at ext. 7409 or visit http://library.uncwil.edu/research_revolution/.

African Cinema Lecture

The Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures and the French Club will host a talk by Kandoura Dramé, chair of the French Department at the University of Virginia. The event will take place at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16 in Lakeside Hall, Room 143. His topic will be "The Lion and the Hunter: African Cinema in the Postcolonial Era." This lecture is free and open to the public. A reception will follow. For more information, contact Pascale Barthe at ext. 3048.

Debaters Needed

The first debate sponsored by the government of Honors, Cornerstone and International House halls—on the issue of the legalization of gay marriage in the U.S.—is at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 21 in Cornerstone Hall. The organizers are seeking two professors to provide opposing viewpoints to this issue. If interested in participating, contact Travis Matthews at ext. 7376 or e-mail him at tbm4733@uncw.edu.

The government is sponsoring monthly debates between professors on various political and social issues. The government staff believes these debates will let students hear reasoned, intellectual arguments and see professors inside the residence halls. The format of each debate is as follows: (1) both professors get seven to 10 minutes to present their initial point of view; (2) each professor gets five minutes to present a rebuttal; and (3) students will be able to ask the professors questions.

Noontime Basketball

Campus recreation invites all interested faculty and staff to join in basketball games: 12 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday; 12:15 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday in the Student Recreation Center.

Planned Construction Activities

- Due to inclement weather, the road closure for Price Drive has been postponed to 6 p.m. Friday, Oct. 17 through Saturday, Oct. 18 for the installation of a ductbank behind S&BS.
- Expect delays on Randall Drive and temporary interruptions at the entrances to lots D and G - the week of Oct. 13

For more information, view the construction impact map at www.uncw.edu/ba/facilities/impact.html.

SECC Update

Ninety-five UNCW employees pledged $8,389 to the State Employees Combined Campaign during the second week bringing the total to $29,708. Over 300 employees have contributed.

Through the SECC, a donation of $10 a month provides resources and alternatives for people in circumstances such as senior citizens unable to live independently or children in need of daycare. In the past two weekly drawings, more than 60 items have been given to UNCW employees contributing to this campaign. There are three more weeks, and more incentives are available. Visit the UNCW SECC Web site at www.uncw.edu/dpscs/secc/main.htm to contribute and learn more about the final three UNCW SECC drawings.

This week's Early Soaring Seahawk prize winners are: Christopher F. Dumas, economics and finance, a two-hour Intracoastal Waterway tour; Katie L. Haselden, curricular studies, two CAA baseball tournament tickets; Mary C. Keesee, FAVSO, a Palm Pilot; Rebecca Porterfield, academic affairs, one N.C. Aquarium at Fort Fisher mug with five complimentary tickets; Tony C. Copeland, ITSD, Jack A. Tompkins, computer science, Ghassam G. Goudarzi, facilities and design, and Ann Stapleton, biological sciences, two complimentary tickets to the N.C. Aquarium at Fort Fisher; Margaret Bradley-Doppes, athletics, two complimentary tickets to the Cape Fear Museum; Stephen C. Harper, management and marketing, two complimentary tickets to the Cape Fear Museum; Bettie Glenn, nursing, two complimentary tickets for Henrietta sightseeing tours; Christie F. Prentice, academic affairs, two one-time general admission tickets to Airlie Gardens, concert series or arts festival; Michael McQuery, telecommunications, two complimentary tickets to the Louise Wells Cameron Art Museum; Julia M. Barrett, athletics, two $5 gift certificates to Jackson's BBQ; Libbie M. Schaffer, chemistry, $50 gift basket from Temptations.

Charity Shopping Day

SEANC representatives are selling tickets for Belk's Charity Shopping Day Saturday, Nov. 1. Purchase a $5 ticket and receive a 20 percent discount throughout the store with 10 percent off in the home department. Early bird specials will allow ticket holders to deduct the $5 price from items of $25 or more. The ticket price also includes a chance in a raffle for $1,000 towards paying off a Belk's charge card or receiving a gift certificate.

The proceeds will support the SEANC District 62 scholarship fund, which has benefited several UNCW faculty and staff families.

For tickets or information, contact Gloria Willis at ext. 3876, Gloria Sasser at ext. 3509, Gloria Crowell at ext. 2301 or Tommy Guinn at ext. 3100.

Faculty Reception

The Interfraternity Council, the governing body of all UNCW fraternities, is holding a faculty reception to celebrate the IFC's scholarship month from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 23 in the University Union, Living Room. An R.S.V.P. is requested by Monday, Oct. 20 to Ivey Graham, greek affairs coordinator, at grahami.

Non-Trad Nominations

The Seahawk Perch, UNCW's center for commuter and non-traditional student services, is seeking nominations for their Non-Trad of the Month Award. "Non-trad" refers to undergraduate students who entered college a year or more after high school graduation, are working to support themselves or their families, have dependents in their care, are married or divorced, are serving in the armed forces or are veterans. For more information about this program or to nominate a student, visit www.uncw.edu/stuaff/doso/comm.

Rushkoff to Speak

Author and NPR commentator Douglas Rushkoff will speak on the topic "Scared Stupid: Why America Resists Media Literacy," 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 27 at Kenan Auditorium. A question-and-answer session and book signing will follow the lecture. Rushkoff is a professor of Media Culture at New York University. UNCW Student Media will screen "The Merchants of Cool," Rushkoff's PBS Frontline documentary, at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 22 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100. Randy Bobbitt of the Department of Communication Studies will moderate a panel discussion following the screening.

Int'l Travel Funds

Faculty applications for international travel funds for spring 2004 are due in the Office of International Programs by Oct. 23. Applications are available from department chairs or attached to the PDF edition of the Campus Communique. Send to Robin Williams, Office of International Programs.

Photo Reception

A "Meet and Greet" reception will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 20 to showcase "Power of Place: Hamlin Garland's Mitchell County, Iowa – A Photographic Essay," with the photography of Jon Morris and commentary by Kurt Meyer. The exhibit and lectures are sponsored by UNCW Department of English; Keith Newlin, English; the General College and Randall Library. For more information please contact Beth Roberts, Randall Library at ext. 3270.

The panel will address issues associated with the spread of illness and disease via the world's transportation systems.

Bookstore Notes

This section features information of interest to faculty and staff about the UNCW Bookstore and, in the future, will expand to include other business and support services. For questions about the UNCW Bookstore, call Andy Shaffer at ext. 7187.

Book orders for spring semester 2004 are due Friday, October 17. Here are some FAQs to help faculty and staff as they finalize their orders.

How do I order an instructor's copy?

Publishers now require faculty members to order these copies. Occasionally, using the information you provide, they may also send additional ancillary items. Call the bookstore or visit the Faculty Center Network at the Web site (<http://uncw.bkstore.com>) for publisher contact information.

What are my options regarding used vs. new texts for my students?

Because our students have requested more used texts, we work to secure as many used texts as possible, unless the text is a new edition. We always order workbooks as new—there is not much use in a workbook that has already been completed. If you have a strong preference that a percentage of books be new and used, or if they should all be new, you can list that request on the adoption form. However, there is really no way to mandate new books for your students—with the options available to them, they would just purchase the used books somewhere else.

Why is buyback so important?

Until we fill our need, students receive 50 percent of the purchase price for their textbook if the instructor has ordered that same book for the upcoming semester. This represents the single-best way to reduce the overall cost of textbooks for our students, and is the most efficient supply chain process for the bookstore. Not only can students get more money at buyback, but we will also have more used books to sell next semester.

How are out-of-print books handled?

At different times during the ordering process, we may be notified that a book is out of print. As soon as we find out that a book has "gone O.P.," we work hard to find an adequate supply of the title. If we cannot find sufficient books, the instructor is notified so alternative materials may be chosen.

How are new edition texts handled?

Sometimes the publisher makes a substitution for the old edition (sending the new 6th edition instead of the 5th edition) without notification. This is often only discovered by the bookstore upon receipt of the book. Although we have no control over this, we are committed to keeping faculty informed of any changes as soon as we know of them.

If you have any questions about this process, contact Ryan Bell or Andy Shaffer at ext. 3188.

Coffee Break in Morton Hall

Faculty, staff and students are invited to join us in Morton Hall, Thursday, October 23 from 9 to 10 a.m. for coffee, doughnuts and more. Bookstore staff will be on hand to answer any questions.

International Programs Faculty Travel Funding Request

DePaolo Reports Study to UNCW BOT

On the final day of the board of trustees meetings last week, Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo presented the UNCW benchmarking study of other institutions of higher education to which UNCW is either comparable or aspires.

Chancellor DePaolo is using the study and her open forums to discuss the direction UNCW should take under her leadership. The study has been narrowed to seven universities (College of William and Mary, University of Richmond, James Madison University, Appalachian State University, College of Charleston, Murray State University and UNC Charlotte) to enable a better understanding of UNCW's strengths and weaknesses. Information that the chancellor and Ken Spackman, university planning, revealed during the presentation included the competitive amount of research UNCW conducts in comparison with other nationally ranked universities known as "research institutions."

Information about the chancellor's benchmark study may be viewed at www.uncw.edu/planning/benchmarks/.

Ragland to Visit UNCW Letter Writers

The Honors Scholars program and Leadership Wilmington corresponded with Master Sgt. Rich Ragland while he served with the U.S. Marines in Iraq. Almost 100 faculty, staff and students wrote letters, sent pictures and a UNCW T-shirt to Ragland while he was stationed overseas. Now back in the U.S., Ragland would like to meet the letter writers and supporters to talk about his experiences. The honors office is holding an opportunity for the campus community to meet with Ragland at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 29 in the honors scholar's office in Randall Library. Contact Bo Dean at ext. 4181 to RSVP. Light refreshments will be served during the event.

Student-Athletes Recognized

At the October Faculty Senate meeting, the athletics department received a commendation for UNCW student-athletes obtaining one of the highest graduation rates nationally. The department is planning to display the commendation in Trask Coliseum.

In addition to the campus recognition, Director of Athletics Peg Bradley-Doppes will represent UNCW on Friday, Nov. 7, when the Seahawks are honored by USA Today and the NCAA at the third annual Academic Achievement Awards presentation at USA Today headquarters in McLean, Va.

Overall, 15 NCAA member colleges and universities will be

SECC Update

The UNCW State Employees Combined Campaign is entering its fourth week. So far, 307 out of 1,775 UNCW employees have contributed a total of $36,822 to the campaign. Contributions, regardless of the amount, can make a difference for someone who is less fortunate. For instance, UNCW SECC contributions may help provide transportation for a chemotherapy patient or support an animal shelter.

This year the campaign has awarded 45 UNCW employees with incentives — 15 prizes will be awarded next week, and the final drawing for the grand prize will take place Nov. 3. To learn more about the last two UNCW SECC drawings, visit the UNCW SECC Web site at www.uncw.edu/dpscs/secc/main.htm. The winners of the Oct. 20 drawing are: Kay M. Ward, business affairs, dinner for two with Dr. DePaolo; Cynthia Ho, athletics, two complimentary tickets to Dr. Elliott Engel's Churchill lecture and dinner; Maxine L. Padgett, curricular studies, ocean or waterway sailing with Judge Burnett; Kenneth Lapen, facilities planning and design, choice of computer software valued at $50; Deborah W. Ward, university advancement, North Carolina Aquarium at Fort Fisher mug with five complimentary tickets to the aquarium; Alina M. Szmant, CMS, Lisa L. Laverick, payroll, Lori Speakman, ITSD, Malou D. Stokes, Seahawk Club, two complimentary tickets to the North Carolina Aquarium at Fort Fisher; Eileen S. Goldgeier, chancellor's office, two complimentary tickets to the Cape Fear Museum; Elizabeth I. James, project design and management, Harbor Cruise, Wrightsville Beach; Robert T. Brown, psychology, four complimentary tickets to the U.S.S. North Carolina battleship; Dana L. Fischetti, university advancement, two complimentary tickets to the Louise Wells Cameron Art Museum; Layne Schwier, athletics, two complimentary tickets to the Burgwin-Wright House; Catherine F. Morris, earth sciences, $15 gift certificate to Szechuan Restaurant.

Charity Shopping Day

representatives are selling tickets for Belk's Charity Shopping Day Saturday, Nov. 1. Purchase a $5 ticket and receive a 20 percent discount throughout the store with 10 percent off in the home department. Early bird specials will allow ticket holders to deduct the $5 price from items of $25 or more. The ticket price also includes a chance in a raffle for $1,000 towards paying off a Belk's charge card or receiving a gift certificate. The proceeds will support the SEANC District 62 scholarship fund, which has benefited several UNCW faculty and staff families. For tickets or information, contact Gloria Willis at ext. 3876, Gloria Sasser at ext. 3509, Gloria Crowell at ext. 2301 or Tommy Guinn at ext. 3100.

Nominate Students

USA Today is looking for nominations for its 2004 All-USA Academic Team, to be announced in February 2004. Criteria are designed for student scholars who also have leadership roles on and off campus. Visit <http://allstars.usatoday.com> to download nomination forms due Monday, Dec. 1. Questions should be directed to Carol Skalaski at 703/854-5890 or allstars@usatoday.com.

honored at the ceremony, with each receiving $20,000 to use for additional scholarships, to initiate support programs or to strengthen existing programs.

"This is a landmark day in the history of our program," said Bradley-Doppes. "I will be representing UNCW, but this honor is being presented because of the outstanding work done by our student-athletes, coaching staff and support staff. This was truly a team effort."

UNCW is being singled out for finishing first among non-football playing NCAA Division I schools for freshman student-athlete graduation rates. UNCW graduated 89 percent of its 36 freshmen student-athletes who entered in 1995. For all Division I institutions, the Seahawks tied with Tulsa for fourth place behind Bucknell, Davidson and Notre Dame.

DePaolo Reports Study to UNCW BOT

On the final day of the board of trustees meetings last week, Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo presented the UNCW benchmarking study of other institutions of higher education to which UNCW is either comparable or aspires.

Chancellor DePaolo is using the study and her open forums to discuss the direction UNCW should take under her leadership. The study has been narrowed to seven universities (College of William and Mary, University of Richmond, James Madison University, Appalachian State University, College of Charleston, Murray State University and UNC Charlotte) to enable a better understanding of UNCW's strengths and weaknesses. Information that the chancellor and Ken Spackman, university planning, revealed during the presentation included the competitive amount of research UNCW conducts in comparison with other nationally ranked universities known as "research institutions."

Information about the chancellor's benchmark study may be viewed at www.uncw.edu/planning/benchmarks/.

Ragland to Visit UNCW Letter Writers

The Honors Scholars program and Leadership Wilmington corresponded with Master Sgt. Rich Ragland while he served with the U.S. Marines in Iraq. Almost 100 faculty, staff and students wrote letters, sent pictures and a UNCW T-shirt to Ragland while he was stationed overseas. Now back in the U.S., Ragland would like to meet the letter writers and supporters to talk about his experiences. The honors office is holding an opportunity for the campus community to meet with Ragland at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 29 in the honors scholar's office in Randall Library. Contact Bo Dean at ext. 4181 to RSVP. Light refreshments will be served during the event.

Student-Athletes Recognized

At the October Faculty Senate meeting, the athletics department received a commendation for UNCW student-athletes obtaining one of the highest graduation rates nationally. The department is planning to display the commendation in Trask Coliseum.

In addition to the campus recognition, Director of Athletics Peg Bradley-Doppes will represent UNCW on Friday, Nov. 7, when the Seahawks are honored by USA Today and the NCAA at the third annual Academic Achievement Awards presentation at USA Today headquarters in McLean, Va.

Overall, 15 NCAA member colleges and universities will be

SECC Update

The UNCW State Employees Combined Campaign is entering its fourth week. So far, 307 out of 1,775 UNCW employees have contributed a total of $36,822 to the campaign. Contributions, regardless of the amount, can make a difference for someone who is less fortunate. For instance, UNCW SECC contributions may help provide transportation for a chemotherapy patient or support an animal shelter.

This year the campaign has awarded 45 UNCW employees with incentives—15 prizes will be awarded next week, and the final drawing for the grand prize will take place Nov. 3. To learn more about the last two UNCW SECC drawings, visit the UNCW SECC Web site at www.uncw.edu/dpscs/secc/main.htm. The winners of the Oct. 20 drawing are: Kay M. Ward, business affairs, dinner for two with Dr. DePaolo; Cynthia Ho, athletics, two complimentary tickets to Dr. Elliott Engel's Churchill lecture and dinner; Maxine L. Padgett, curricular studies, ocean or waterway sailing with Judge Burnett; Kenneth Lapen, facilities planning and design, choice of computer software valued at $50; Deborah W. Ward, university advancement, North Carolina Aquarium at Fort Fisher mug with five complimentary tickets to the aquarium; Alina M. Szmant, CMS, Lisa L. Laverick, payroll, Lori Speakman, ITSD, Malou D. Stokes, Seahawk Club, two complimentary tickets to the North Carolina Aquarium at Fort Fisher; Eileen S. Goldgeier, chancellor's office, two complimentary tickets to the Cape Fear Museum; Elizabeth I. James, project design and management, Harbor Cruise, Wrightsville Beach; Robert T. Brown, psychology, four complimentary tickets to the U.S.S. North Carolina battleship; Dana L. Fischetti, university advancement, two complimentary tickets to the Louise Wells Cameron Art Museum; Layne Schwier, athletics, two complimentary tickets to the Burgwin-Wright House; Catherine F. Morris, earth sciences, $15 gift certificate to Szechuan Restaurant.

Charity Shopping Day

SEANC District 62 representatives are selling tickets for Belk's Charity Shopping Day Saturday, Nov. 1. Purchase a $5 ticket and receive a 20 percent discount throughout the store with 10 percent off in the home department. Early bird specials will allow ticket holders to deduct the $5 price from items of $25 or more. The ticket price also includes a chance in a raffle for $1,000 towards paying off a Belk's charge card or receiving a gift certificate. The proceeds will support the SEANC District 62 scholarship fund, which has benefited several UNCW faculty and staff families. For tickets or information, contact Gloria Willis at ext. 3876, Gloria Sasser at ext. 3509, Gloria Crowell at ext. 2301 or Tommy Guinn at ext. 3100.

Nominate Students

USA Today is looking for nominations for its 2004 All-USA Academic Team, to be announced in February 2004. Criteria are designed for student scholars who also have leadership roles on and off campus. Visit <http://allstars.usatoday.com> to download nomination forms due Monday, Dec. 1. Questions should be directed to Carol Skalaski at 703/854-5890 or allstars@usatoday.com.

Int'l Travel Funds

Thursday, Oct. 23 is the deadline for faculty applications for international travel funds for spring 2004. Applications are available from department chairs or attached to the PDF edition of the Campus Communique. Send to Robin Williams, Office of International Programs.

Managing Grants

The seminar "Managing Your Grant: Just When You Thought You Had It Made..." will be held from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 6 in the University Union, Room 105. The event is sponsored by the Office of Sponsored Programs and will teach how to pay people, make purchases, travel or do anything else with grant dollars. All grants are subject to UNCW policies. Sandie Moore will help navigate the many how-to's of spending grant money. All PI's and administrative support staff are invited and learn to apply the AARF test. To register, e-mail Michelle Starks at starksm.

Physics Colloquium

Haiyan Gao, professor of physics, Duke University and Triangle Universities Nuclear Laboratory, will present "A New Search on Neutron Electric Dipole Moment" at 2 p.m. Friday, Oct. 24 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

Carnival for Kids

The Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) invites children (grades K through 5) of UNCW faculty, staff and students to the annual Halloween Carnival for Kids Thursday, Oct. 30 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. The carnival includes games, prizes, food, trick-or-treating in the dorms and the spookiest haunted circus in Wilmington. Space is limited and reservations are required for this free event. Call CLES at ext. 3877 or stop by University Union, Room 212 to reserve a space for children to participate at either 5 or 6:30 p.m. Children must be accompanied by an adult. Area nonprofit agencies are also invited to bring participants and must register in advance. Call Becky Long at ext. 3043 for information.

Festival Latino Films

As part of the week-long Festival Latino, sponsored by Amigos International, the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures and the Latin American Studies program will screen two films from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 29. Peter Thomas will introduce El norte (director: Gregory Nava, 1984) in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100; Regina Félix will introduce Central do Brasil (director: Walter Salles, 1998), in Lakeside Hall, Room 130. There will be post-viewing discussions for both films. The public is welcome and admission is free.

Service Hours and CLES

Each semester the Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) collects the number of community service hours completed by UNCW students. All deans, department heads, faculty members and staff, who are involved with collecting community service hours for their discipline/area, are invited to attend a meeting from 4 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 5 in University Union, Room 105. This meeting will inform participants about the process to collect the data. Contact Shelly Hoover or Becky Long at ext. 3877 about attending the meeting or with any questions.

YWCA Event

The YWCA of Lower Cape Fear will host its second annual fundraising event 4:30 to 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 8 at 2815 South College Road. Events include swimming, dinner catered by Carolina Sunset Barbeque, games, door prizes and more. Contact Sue Combs at combsc or ext. 3262 to get tickets or pick them up at the YWCA. The prices are $12 for adults, $5 for children older than 4 years.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Daniel Johnson, music, had his article "Learning Styles and the Music Educator" published in the August issue of the Journal of the Australian Band & Orchestra Directors' Association. Johnson's article, "The Effect of Mathematical Models on Rhythm Instruction" was published in the fall 2003 issue of Contributions to Music Education.

William Cooper, chemistry and CMS, received $43,671 from the University of Washington to test the injection of ozone using a venture mixing system, as a design modification in the ship's ballast water intake for the control of nuisance organisms.

Alina Szmant, biological sciences, is a co-principal investigator for a genome-wide approach to the study of cnidarian symbiosis, which received an NSF grant of $1,021,353.

Nancy Grindlay, earth sciences and CMS, received $69,018 from NSF for a collaborative investigation on the effects of cold, thick lithosphere on the deformation of slowly slipping mega-transforms.

Andy Shepard, CMS and NURC, is pictured and mentioned in the article "Science in the High Seas: The Oculina Banks Research Cruise" published in the autumn 2003 edition of Coastwatch.

Several UNCW staff and faculty are mentioned in the article "Eye on UNCW Web Site Offers Live Views of Campus," which appears in CONVERGE, an online magazine. The article may be viewed at www.centerdigitaled.com/converge/?pg=magstory&id=65966.

Courtney Hackney, biological sciences, received the North Carolina Coastal Federation's First Pelican Award for an editorial suggesting the abolishment of Coastal Area Management Act.

Phil Furia, creative writing, will be the guest of the WHQR/Star-News Book Club at 5:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 27. The club will discuss Skylark, Furia's biography of Johnny Mercer.

honored at the ceremony, with each receiving $20,000 to use for additional scholarships, to initiate support programs or to strengthen existing programs.

"This is a landmark day in the history of our program," said Bradley-Doppes. "I will be representing UNCW, but this honor is being presented because of the outstanding work done by our student-athletes, coaching staff and support staff. This was truly a team effort."

UNCW is being singled out for finishing first among non-football playing NCAA Division I schools for freshman student-athlete graduation rates. UNCW graduated 89 percent of its 36 freshmen student-athletes who entered in 1995. For all Division I institutions, the Seahawks tied with Tulsa for fourth place behind Bucknell, Davidson and Notre Dame.

Diversity Committee Begins Its Work

The UNCW Diversity Initiative Planning Committee is formed and has developed a plan of action. As one of the first acts of the committee, a definition of diversity, which was approved by the UNCW Board of Trustees at their meeting Oct. 17, was adopted.

The committee is a product of the Chancellor's Task Force on Diversity. By appointing Denis Carter, associate vice chancellor of academic affairs, as chair of this diversity committee, Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo is following the recommendations set forth in the final report of the Chancellor's Task Force on Diversity publicized in April. Carter is charged with creating a campus-wide, comprehensive plan, strategy and timetable.

According to Carter, one way to view diversity is to hold a coin. On one side of the coin is diversity while the other side of the coin is inclusion—one cannot have one side without the other.

The goal of the committee is to create an inclusive campus considering students, faculty, administrators, staff, alumni and community needs. A report to the chancellor is expected to be finalized in April 2004.

Carter invites faculty and staff to become involve and e-mail him at carterd or call his office at ext. 3540.

Nominate Students

USA Today is looking for nominations for its 2004 All-USA Academic Team, to be announced in February 2004. Criteria are designed for student scholars who also have leadership roles on and off campus. Visit <http://allstars.usatoday.com> to download nomination forms due by Monday, Dec. 1. Questions should be directed to Carol Skalaski at 703/854-5890 or allstars@usatoday.com.

Managing Grants

The seminar "Managing Your Grant: Just When You Thought You Had It Made..." will be held from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 6 in the University Union, Room 105. The event is sponsored by the Office of Sponsored Programs and will review how to pay people, make purchases, travel or do anything else with grant dollars. All grants are subject to UNCW policies. Sandie Moore will help navigate the many how-to's of spending grant money. All PI's and administrative support staff are invited and learn to apply the AARF test. To register, e-mail Michelle Starks at starksm.

Carnival for Kids

The Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) invites children (grades K through 5) of UNCW faculty, staff and students to the annual Halloween Carnival for Kids Thursday, Oct. 30 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. The carnival includes games, prizes, food, trick-or-treating in the dorms and the spookiest haunted circus in Wilmington. Space is limited and reservations are required for this free event. Call CLES at ext. 3877 or stop by the University Union, Room 212 to reserve a space for children to participate at either 5 or 6:30 p.m. Children must be accompanied by an adult. Call Becky Long at ext. 3043 for more information.

Service Hours and CLES

Each semester the Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) collects the number of community service hours completed by UNCW students. All deans, department heads, faculty members and staff who are involved with collecting community service hours for their discipline/area are invited to attend a meeting from 4 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 5 in University Union, Room 105. This meeting will inform participants about the process to collect the data. Contact Shelly Hoover or Becky Long at ext. 3877 about attending the meeting or with any questions.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT WILMINGTON DEAN, COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

www.uncw.edu

The University of North Carolina at Wilmington, one of 16 campuses in the UNC system, seeks an accomplished, dynamic individual to undertake leadership of the College of Arts and Sciences beginning July 1, 2004. The university is committed to the central role of the liberal arts and sciences within a comprehensive university, to the development of diversity in enrollment and employment, and to an expanding international presence on campus.

Located in Wilmington, NC, UNCW enrolls approximately 11,000 students and has consistently achieved regional and national recognition for the quality of its academic programs. A public institution committed to teaching, research, and service, the university enjoys a cordial and productive relationship with the greater Wilmington community and the surrounding eight-county region.

Role of the Dean

As chief academic officer of the college, the Dean reports directly to the Provost and oversees 21 departments offering 43 undergraduate and 14 graduate programs, 42 disciplinary and interdisciplinary minors, 11 pre-professional programs, and two undergraduate and three graduate certificate programs. At the college level the Dean is responsible for the following areas: review of initiatives in curriculum and program development, faculty and staff actions, budget administration, academic facilities planning and use, strategic planning, and fundraising initiatives. At the university level, within the Division of Academic Affairs, the Dean articulates a vision for the college, represents the opinions and viewpoints of the college faculty, and participates in planning and setting policies and processes for the effective administration of all academic units both on and off campus.

The College of Arts and Sciences enrolls almost 9,000 students each semester and employs 375 full-time faculty, nearly 200 part-time faculty, and more than 60 support staff. At present the Dean is assisted by three associate deans, a budget officer, and a development officer.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Academic credentials within one of the arts or sciences disciplines, demonstrating achievement in teaching, scholarship, and service appropriate to the rank of professor with tenure
- Knowledge of key academic issues in the liberal arts and sciences, with experience in curriculum development
- Considerable experience as an administrator in an academic setting; especially desirable is experience as a department chair or associate dean
- Demonstrated engagement in grant and contract activity

- Demonstrated ability to balance needs of diverse programs and departments
- Excellent communication skills and consultative leadership style
- Proven success in recruitment and retention of a diverse faculty and in personnel management
- Effective budget management, particularly in times of declining resources
- Success in fundraising and advancement activities

Application Procedures:

Screening of application will begin December 5, 2003 and will continue until the position is filled. Letters of application describing administrative experience and philosophy, as well as curriculum vitae, should be sent to Dr. Barbara Waxman, Search Committee Chair, via <http://hrsearch.uncw.edu> . MS Word or Adobe PDF attachments are preferred. For questions regarding the online application process contact Andrea Powell at 910-962-3854. Finalists will be contacted for the names, addresses, and e-mail addresses of five references. Under North Carolina law, applications and related materials are confidential personnel documents and not subject to public release. UNCW is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Minorities and women are strongly encouraged to apply.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT WILMINGTON

Introducing SEACopy !!

We are excited to offer an innovative web-based service system for our Ditto's customers. This system utilizes our digitally networked Ditto's equipment, with Xerox demand print software, to allow you, the customer, to get copy job estimates, initiate and/or authorize a copy job, using any services Ditto's offers! Anytime, day or night, from any PC with Internet access to UNCW's web pages. And we provide free delivery to your office.

SEACopy is simple to use. Access to the system allows each user to submit digital files for copying, to order re-prints, get online quotes, edit digital files online, and obtain a complete copy history of each file submitted for copying.

Imagine the possibilities...

- You can send course packs, class handouts, syllabi, tests, presentations, and any other copy center work that you can submit digitally, to print at Ditto's.
- Working with limited funds? Dynamic job estimating feature allows you to tailor your print job options to your allotted funds. YOU are in control!
- To cut unnecessary costs, print only what you need – if later, you need more, just re-print from the stored file!
- Need to update your course materials? Tailor a presentation to a particular audience? Access the stored file, edit, and submit to print.
- Using a protected system and designated server, only you and Ditto's production staff have access to see the work you submitted for production.
- System controls establish who is authorized/allowed to charge work to any budget number(s), so there are no mis-charged copies/unauthorized charges hitting your accounts.
- Department managers can choose to de-centralize authority to any / all users in the department, or centralize to designated persons (your treasured admin. staff).

Interested in a presentation to your staff or group? Call Don Harty, at extension 3563.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT WILMINGTON

November 6, 2003

Members of the campus community,

In the November/December Campus Activities & Involvement Center calendar, a graphic was used to promote ACE's Open Mic Night scheduled for November 20, 2003. It has been brought to our attention by members of the university community that this graphic is inappropriate and offensive. On behalf of the department of Involvement & Campus Activities, we apologize for our insensitivity and careless oversight. As contributors toward the educational mission of this university, we will use this as a "teachable moment" for our administrative and student staff, and implement new processes to provide greater assurance that we can avoid this from occurring again in the future.

Angie Roth
Associate Director for Involvement and Campus Activities.

Vol. XXIII No. 13 November 6, 2003

Elizabeth King Humphrey, Editor

Yahoo! Delivers Seahawk Sports

Students, alumni and fans across the country will be able to support UNCW athletics by listening to real-time coverage of Seahawk games and coaches shows on the Internet.

UNCW officials announced a partnership with Yahoo! Sports (<http://sports.yahoo.com>) to deliver real-time audio broadcasts of Seahawk sports throughout the 2003-04 year. By logging on to either www.UNCWsports.com or Yahoo!Sports and selecting one of two subscription options, fans can access live audio broadcasts of games, press conferences, coach's shows and related athletic department events.

In addition, a portion of the revenue from each subscription goes directly back to each school, so fans will be supporting the Seahawks financially as well.

Peg Bradley-Doppes, UNCW's athletic director said, "Yahoo has a wide listening audience and we want to bring Seahawk games to as many of our fans as possible."

Regional Poverty Conference at UNCW

The departments of Social Work and Political Science will host a conference to discuss the state of social development in the region. Sponsors for the conference include UNCW, the Eastern N.C. Poverty Committee and the City of Wilmington. The event will be held from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 13 in the Warwick Center Ballroom.

The conference offers information-based briefings on the inequalities in jobs, income and education in Pender, Brunswick and New Hanover counties. The registration fee for the conference is $10, which includes a box lunch. For more information contact Lynn Smithdeal, social work, at ext. 3426.

Outage Notice: Hoggard, Hanover, Web

Due to an emergency situation which must be remedied before an unplanned failure occurs, crews will be replacing an electrical cable serving Hoggard Hall and Hanover Hall beginning at 6:30 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 8. The anticipated time to replace the cable is 6 to 8 hours. During this time there will not be network access to any computing service on or off campus—no Internet, e-mail, Web server, FRS, SIS access, etc.

In addition, during this time, there will not be electrical power to Hoggard Hall or Hanover Hall (the Natatorium and Trask Coliseum will not be affected).

Paul Winter Consort Change

Paul Winter Consort will perform Paul Winter's Earth Mass (Missa Gaia) at 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 8 in Kenan Auditorium. This reflects a new location from previous announcements. The free, community performance is co-presented by the Arts in Action Performance Series, the UNCW Department of Music and Church of the Servant. This liturgical performance features the Paul Winter Consort, guest vocalist Marva Robinson, the voices of wolf, whale, eagle, harp seal, Amazonian musical wren, Russian loon, and the choruses of UNCW and Church of the Servant.

Admission is free and seating passes are given to those standing in line at approximately 12 noon. There will be an environmental fair on the Kenan Auditorium lawn prior to the program. For information, contact Campus Activities and Involvement Center at ext. 3827 or visit www.uncw.edu/arts.

Additionally, the Paul Winter Consort will perform at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 7 as part of the Arts in Action Performance Series. For tickets, call the Kenan Box Office at 910/962-3500.

Open Forum

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo's next open forum is scheduled for 3 p.m.

Thursday, Nov. 6
in the Warwick Center Ballroom

Rushkoff Lecture

The Douglas Rushkoff lecture "Scared Stupid: Why America Resists Media Literacy" is rescheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, Nov. 10 in Warwick Center Ballroom. For questions about ticket exchanges or refunds, contact Shannon Hooker at ext. 7600. Rushkoff was originally scheduled for Monday, Oct. 27. The event is cosponsored by UNCW Student Media. Visit www.uncw.edu/arts for details.

Holman Canceled

The discussion by memoirist Virginia Holman scheduled for Monday, Nov. 10 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100 is canceled. At this time, her visit has not been rescheduled.

Schweitzer Lecture

Kenneth S. White, M.D., of Wilmington Plastic Surgery, is this year's Albert Schweitzer Honors Scholar. White will give a lecture to the UNCW Honors Program freshmen at 12:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 13 in King Hall Auditorium. This is a free, public event sponsored by the Honors Scholars Program and Randall Library.

SECC Update

As of the Oct. 31 deadline, 514 contributors pledged $49,722 to the UNCW State Employees Combined Campaign. Late pledges will be accepted until Friday, Nov. 14. Metta L. King, Randall Library, won the final SECC drawing, which included one year's parking privileges, dinner for two with Dr. DePaolo, five complimentary passes to the North Carolina Aquarium at Fort Fisher and a mug, two Wrightsville Beach harbor cruise tickets, a $5 gift certificate from Jackson's BBQ, and a UNCW gift tote. Contributions to the 2003 UNCW State Employees Combined Campaign will benefit countless individuals.

Holiday Bazaar

The Cape Fear Optimist Ladies Auxiliary is hosting their third annual Holiday Bazaar from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 15. The bazaar will be held at the Cape Fear Optimist Clubhouse on North Kerr Avenue. The bazaar will feature local crafters and vendors, baked items and concessions. The CFO ladies auxiliary is a nonprofit organization benefiting the youth of Wilmington. For details contact S. Ludlum in the student health center at ext. 7847.

Campus Yard Sale

The Student Government Association and the Inter-Organizations Council will host their second yard sale to benefit student organizations from 7:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 8. There is no fee to participate and it is open to the public.

Academic Nominations

Contact the honors office at ext. 4181 or the second floor of Randall Library for applications or help with processing the USA Today 2004 All-USA Academic Team applications. Criteria are designed for student scholars who also have leadership roles on and off campus. Visit <http://allstars.usatoday.com> to download nomination forms due Monday, Dec. 1. Questions may be directed to the honors program, to Carol Skalaski at 703/854-5890 or allstars@usatoday.com.

Third CRAGBRAT

Registration is open for the third annual Campus Recreation Annual Great Bike Race around Trees (CRAGBRAT), scheduled at 10 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 8. Pre-race entry is $8 ($10 race day). Race day registration begins at 9 a.m. Stop by the campus recreation business office in the Student Recreation Center to register. Call ext. 7443 for more information.

International Week

The eleventh annual Intercultural Week will be held Feb. 9 through 14, 2004 celebrating the cultural diversity within UNCW and the Wilmington community. The planning committee encourages departments to consider sponsoring a spring semester program relevant to Intercultural week, such as a lecture, film, class presentation, workshop or performance. To suggest a program, complete the program proposal form—attached to the Communique—and return it to Miranda Boykin, Office of International Programs, Box 5965, or by e-mail. The form is due Friday, Nov. 14. Intercultural Week is sponsored by the Campus Activities and Involvement Center and the Office of International Programs. Contact Miranda Boykin at ext. 7009, or Shannon Hooker, campus activities and involvement center, ext. 7600, with any questions or to request last year's program to get some ideas for proposals.

Commencement Volunteers

The commencement committee and the Division of Student Affairs need volunteers for fall commencement Saturday, Dec. 13 in Trask Coliseum. Volunteers report for duty at 8 a.m. and are asked to stay for the entire ceremony. Duties include passing out programs, directing guests, taking tickets and removing stage decorations. All duties should be concluded by approximately noon. Staff members interested in volunteering should contact Mary Crookes, university events coordinator, at ext. 7505 or crookesm.

Directory Listing Corrections

• The correct phone and mail box numbers for Carlene Jackson, university advancement, are ext. 2660 and mail box number 5990. These were incorrectly printed in the telephone directory.

• The fax number for the National Testing Program listed on page 5 and 34 should be ext. 7617.

Series Ending

Randall Library presents the last documentary film in the Research Revolution viewing and discussion series at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 11 in the library auditorium. Natural Connections looks at biodiversity through the work of scientists in five ecological habitats. William McCarthy, history, and Gregory Chandler, biological sciences, will lead the discussion. The film will also be presented at Cape Fear Museum at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 18. For more information, call Sue Cody at ext. 7409 or visit http://library.uncwil.edu/research_revolution/.

Breakfast Reception

The Office of Facilities is hosting a retirement breakfast for James Ford, landscaping supervisor, from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 13 in the Office of Facilities, Conference Room 2.

Film and Discussion

Due to high turnout at the previous showing, the Association for Campus Entertainment and Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) will co-present the documentary film, Bowling for Columbine, at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 12 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100 followed by a discussion facilitated by Jesse Waters, English. Contact CLES at ext. 3877 with questions.

BOOKSTORE NOTES

This section features information of interest to faculty and staff about the UNCW Bookstore and, in the future, will expand to include other business and support services. For questions about the UNCW Bookstore, call Andy Shaffer at ext. 7187.

Spring Book Orders

Reminder: Book orders were due Oct. 17 and a lot of the spring booklist is still outstanding. The sooner the bookstore receives orders, the sooner proper quantities of used and new books can be obtained—taking into consideration publisher issues and buying used copies from students.

Call Ryan Bell or Andy Shaffer at ext. 3188 for assistance in placing a spring semester book order.

Bookstore Coffee Break

The bookstore will host a coffee break from 9 to 10 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 18 in Cameron Hall. Faculty, staff and students are invited to enjoy refreshments and bookstore staff will be on hand to answer questions.

TECHNOLOGY CORNER

The Technology Corner from ITSD serves as an area highlighting items of interest for faculty and staff. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

IT Innovations Awards

Abstracts for the IT Innovation Awards are due Monday, Nov. 17. The awards will be in two separate categories focusing on enhancing the teaching and learning processes. For more information, select www.uncw.edu/itsd/innovation.html.

Technology Training

Technology training schedules and class handouts are available at www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/schedule.html. Call the TAC to register for classes at ext. 4357.

CBT: "Just in Time" Training

Client Services' Computer Based Training (CBT) is available to all faculty, staff and students. This "Just in Time" system offers over 100, individually-paced, desktop technology training classes for free. For access, view www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/cbt.html and follow directions to enter the CBT site.

Planned Construction Activities

- Throughout November, traffic delays and parking disruptions are expected along Hamilton Road due to bike path construction. Park in the Trask lots (K or K extension) when parking is not available along tennis courts.
- Beginning Nov. 6, parking for Auxiliary Services (behind Warwick Center and across from the recreation fields) will be closed. Visitors to Auxiliary Services are encouraged to park in Lot M (at the Price/Riegel intersection).
- During the week of Nov. 17, the service parking area east of the University Union will be closed.
- Planned power outages are necessary to complete the primary electrical distribution work on the following buildings: Randall Library, 6 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 15 until 12 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 16; King Hall, 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 15 until 12 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 16. Users of these buildings are asked to plan accordingly. Building residents should unplug all electrical items before leaving work on Friday, Nov. 14.

For more information, view www.uncw.edu/ba/facilities/impact.html.

Dittos Extended Hours

Dittos will be open to 8:00 p.m. during the following dates: Monday, Nov. 17 to Thursday, Nov. 20; Monday, Nov. 24 and Tuesday, Nov. 25; Monday, Dec. 1 to Friday, Dec. 5; Monday, Dec. 8 to Thursday, Dec. 11.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Adam Ammons, Randall Library; Steve Drew, institutional research; Bregetta Garnett, accounts payable; Mark Grosser, Charles Raymer, Darrell Stutson, physical plant; Carolyn Goodwine, admissions; Elizabeth Humphrey, university relations; Vivian Martin, campus services; Delmar McGowan III and Welzie Metcalf, purchasing services; Carolina Priester, psychology; Cynthia Retchin, financial systems; Debra Strikol, VCAA; Tara Thompson, VCITS, and Yvonne Sidberry, university police.

TIAA-CREF at UNCW

The UNCW TIAA-CREF representative, Al Gonzalez, will be available for consultations from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Nov. 10 in Human Resources, 5051 New Centre Drive. To schedule an appointment, call 800, 842-2003 ext. 3522.

AFLAC Rep Visits

An AFLAC representative will be available for campus meetings or individually arranged sessions from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 6 in the University Union, Room 204. Contact Betty Matlock at bmatlock@aflac.com or 910/612-4411 to sign-up.

Shared Leave

Patricia Aburahmeh, psychology, and Shannon Miles, financial aid, need shared leave donations. Send vacation leave donations to Alice Maile in human resources.

Upcoming HR Courses

For information on all classes, register online or download registration forms, visit www.uncw.edu/hr. Questions may be directed to ext. 3160.

- It Takes All Types, from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 11 at 5051 New Centre, HR Training Room. This interactive workshop will introduce the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator to participants to examine personality preferences and gain insight into one's personality type.

- Fixed Assets from 9 to 10 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 12 at 5051 New Centre, HR Training Room. Everything about a fixed asset will be addressed in this workshop—annual inventory, lost or stolen equipment and how to fill out the forms.

- Internal Audit from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 13 at 5051 New Centre, HR Training Room. This workshop defines the purpose and role of the Internal Audit Department within the university community.

NC Flex

Friday, Nov. 7 is the final day for the annual enrollment period for NC Flex. Participants in the medical expense or dependent day care spending accounts must submit a new form for deductions starting in January. Benefit elections made during the enrollment period take effect Jan. 1, 2004. Contact Kelly Kennedy at ext. 3006 with any questions.

CAS Dean Search

UNCW is "seeking an accomplished, dynamic individual to undertake leadership of the College of Arts and Sciences beginning July 1, 2004." To read the advertisement seeking a replacement for Dr. Jo Ann Seiple, who is retiring, view pages 11 and 12 in the PDF version of the Campus Communique or the inserts in the HTML version.

Nursing Career Fair

Regional employers will be on campus from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 17 in the Warwick Center Ballroom to recruit nurses for summer externships and full time nursing positions. A list of attendees can be viewed at www.uncw.edu/stuaff/career/nursingfair.htm. The event is free and open to the public. Career Services is sponsoring the fair. Address questions to Leslie Rand-Pickett at ext. 3770 or randpickettl.

Study Abroad Fair

The Study Abroad Fair will take place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 19 outside the University Union on the Campus Commons. The fair will include information on all of UNCW's semester, year and summer study abroad offerings, presented by the faculty directors and staff of the Office of International Programs. Also available will be prizes, refreshments and the chance to meet with international students/returning students from the various programs. Rain site: Warwick Center, Ballroom 5.

Food Program

The Adopt-A-Family project invites groups on campus to purchase groceries for a Thanksgiving meal for an area family. Cost is around $50 for each food basket, depending upon the number of people in the home. An informational meeting will be held at 5 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 11 in University Union, Room 212. Participants are encouraged to attend in order to pick up information about the family, the food list and delivery plans. A representative of St. Mary Social Ministries, which provides the names of the families in need, will be at the meeting to share information about the project.

Biological Sciences Events

The departmental seminar, "Bottlenose Dolphin Signature Whistles: Fact or Fallacy?" presented by Laela S. Sayigh, associate professor of biology, will be presented at 2 p.m. Friday, Nov. 7 in Dobo Hall 103.

*Menus subject to change

Garland Exhibition

Randall Library is showcasing, "The Power of Place: Hamlin Garland's Iowa" a photographic essay and book exhibition through Dec. 8. Kurt Meyer, a native of Mitchell County, Iowa, and Jon Morris, his photographer-colleague, roamed the county searching for places that corresponded with text drawn from Hamlin Garland's writings.

Beetle Raffle

Raffle tickets are available at the University Union information desk for the 2003 sunflower yellow VW Seahawk Beetle courtesy of Bob King. The car is being raffled to raise $50,000 or more for merit scholarships through the UNCW Alumni Association. Each raffle ticket costs $25. The drawing will take place Jan. 24 at the Homecoming men's basketball game. For information, contact the Office of Alumni Relations at ext. 2682.

CLEP Offered

Students could receive credit for what they already know by earning qualifying scores on one or more of the 34 College Level Examination Program (CLEP) examinations offered through the Computer-based Testing Center. The UNCW National Testing Program office offers CLEP tests (two 45-minute sections at a cost of $70) to UNCW students Monday through Saturday. Students can shorten the time it takes to earn a degree and save money. Call ext. 7444 for further information.

Spring 2004 Graduation Filing Deadlines

The application deadline for spring 2004 graduation is Nov. 17. Seniors may apply online at www.uncw.edu/reg and click on the graduation application link or stop by the Registrar's Office in James Hall. Faculty are requested to announce this deadline change in all 300 and 400 level classes.

The graduation application deadline for graduate students expecting to receive their master's degree in spring 2004 is Monday, Nov. 17. Master's degree candidates should come to the Graduate School office located on the second floor of James Hall and fill out the appropriate paperwork.

Spring Reserve Requests

Faculty need to review spring course reserve lists and submit them to the library. Since Randall Library processes nearly a thousand items each spring semester, lists will not be guaranteed available with the start of classes unless received before December 1. Reminder: Reserve lists from previous semesters will not be automatically converted.

Submit lists via campus mail, e-mail or bring them to the Reserves/Media desk. If any questions, contact Carolyn Andrews, Jan Costley or John Osinski at ext. 3790.

FLU SHOTS

Employee flu shots will be available from 2 to 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 6 in the University Union Living Room. The cost is $10, cash or check.

Below is an alphabetized listing of when shots will be given. If your last name begins with:

K-P	Thursday, Nov. 6	2 to 3:45 p.m.
Q-Z	Thursday, Nov. 6	3:45 to 5:30 p.m.

Be prepared to remain for 10 minutes following the injection.

If unable to participate during a designated time, select one of the other times. It is not necessary to call Health Promotion Services to make an appointment. Any questions, call Brooke Sumner in Health Promotion Services at ext. 4135.

The Campus Communique will not be published the following dates, due to the university holiday schedule:

Thursday, Nov. 27

Thursday, Dec. 25

Thursday, Jan. 1

Recycling Moved

Recycling has transferred from campus services to physical plant. For recycling requests, contact the work order desk at ext. 3101 and a work order will be processed. For general recycling questions, call Robert Warren at ext. 3107. The recycling Web page is currently being updated and will soon be accessed from the Office of Facilities home page (www.uncw.edu/ba/facilities/index.html). This Web page will feature general recycling information and contact information.

Commencement News

Commencement will be at 9:45 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 13 in Trask Coliseum. Robing rooms for faculty will be Trask 119 and 117. To help the faculty marshals and volunteers, arrive by 9:15 a.m. An attendant will be present, and the doors will be locked during the ceremony to ensure the safety of personal property left in the rooms. The ceremony will begin promptly at 9:45 a.m. It is requested that faculty assemble by 9:30 a.m. for the academic procession. The procession will form in the corridor and will be arranged according to academic rank with faculty emeriti and professors at the beginning. Copies of the order of march will be posted in the corridors, and the faculty marshals will assist in arranging the processional. Following the exit of the platform party at the end of the ceremony, faculty will follow the faculty marshals out of the gymnasium. Contact Mary Crookes, university events coordinator, at ext. 7505 with questions.

Institutional Animal Care

The Office of Sponsored Programs has developed seminars to keep faculty and staff current on the research administration changes. The next available OSP seminar is from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 18, University Union, Room 105. Protection of animals in both educational and research activities involves regulatory, administrative and ethical challenges. Tiffany Matson will address issues, such as when is a protocol required; finding the forms; regulations governing compliance for the care and use of animals; policies and procedures. To register, e-mail Michelle Starks at starksm.

401(k) Rep

The UNCW Prudential 401(k) representative, Prabh Kaur, will be on campus from 11 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 to 2 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 13 in the University Union, Room 105 to discuss the recent transition from BB&T to Prudential, including how contributions are being invested and how you can elect to "opt-out" of the automatic swapping of BB&T funds to Prudential's investments. The "opt-out" option is offered to those members who, after reviewing the Prudential Retirement investment options, decide to keep the funds formerly offered by BB&T. Monday, Dec. 1 is the deadline to opt-out of the Friday, Jan. 16, 2004 automatic swapping and keep a participant's current investment line-up. However, this option does not allow for future contributions to the BB&T funds.

An additional meeting will be held for law enforcement officers from 3:15 to 4:15 p.m. in the University Police conference room. Contact Kelly Kennedy at ext 3006.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Lou Buttino, film studies and the MALS graduate program, will have a premiere screening of his new documentary, Broken Brotherhood: Vietnam and the Boys from Colgate, at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 11 at the Hamilton Theater in Hamilton, New York.

William Harris, earth sciences, Karen Shafer and Sue Kezios, SMEC, presented "UNCW Science Graduate Students as Resources in Middle Schools, NSF GK-12 Program" at the 115th annual meeting of the Geological Society of America in Seattle.

Gregory Dietl, CMS, and colleagues from University of California at Davis, presented "Post-Pliocene Reduction in Competition Revealed by Fossil Record of Gastropod Drilling Predation on Bivalve Prey within Seagrass Ecosystems of Florida" at the 115th annual meeting of the Geological Society of America in Seattle.

Walter Gray, geology, presented "Improving Science Units in Elementary Education" at the 115th annual meeting of the Geological Society of America in Seattle.

James Merritt and Michael Mallin, CMS, received $30,000 from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to conduct bi-monthly water quality sampling in the New River for the U.S. Marine Corps Base at Camp Lejeune.

Timothy Black, physics and physical oceanography, received $11,707 from Tulane University to fund the project "Neutron Interferometry and Neutron Wave Schrodinger Wave Optics."

Cathy Barlow and Carol Thomas, education, received $300,000 from the U.S. Department of Education as a supplement to a previous grant for the Coalition for Transition to Teaching designed to enable midcareer professionals to become educators.

Arthur Frankel, social work, received $25,000 from UNCW to evaluate the process and outcomes of an NSF grant putting UNCW graduate students into New Hanover County schools classrooms.

Maurice Stanley, philosophy and religion, presented the paper, "A Terrible Sublimity: Kant and the Big Bang," at the North Carolina Religious Studies Association conference at UNC-Charlotte Friday, Oct. 24.

Jim McNab, international programs, authored "Bloc-Notes Culture: l'année 2002," an interpretation of current events in France, which appears in the October 2003 issue of French Review, the national journal of French studies.

Ann Pabst, biological sciences and CMS, and Erin Meagher, biological sciences, received $1,655 from the American Museum of Natural History to investigate how wild bottlenose dolphins in Sarasota, Fla. change their whole body conductance in response to seasonal changes in water temperature.

James Merritt and Steve Ross, CMS, received $31,000 from the Friends of the North Carolina State Museum of Natural Sciences to facilitate cooperative projects among UNCW, the museum and the U.S. Geological Service related to coastal and deep sea fisheries studies.

Joseph Pawlik, biological sciences, received $9,090 funding from the United States-Israel Binational Science Foundation to determine the frequency of marine sponges that are photosynthetically active in various marine environments.

P.J. Lapaire, foreign languages and literatures, offered a one-hour multi-media presentation at the meeting of the Foreign Language Association of North Carolina in Winston-Salem on "The Non-French And Non-Francophone Influences On Contemporary French Music."

Dianne Matthews, national testing, and Ann Greene, printing services, spent a week in Reynosa, Mexico, building a 12' by 25' cement block home under the auspices of Faith Ministries, Inc., which works to help build housing in the Reynosa area.

Dennis S. Kubasko Jr., education and specialty studies, and William R. Veal, UNC CH, co-authored "Biology and Geology Teachers' Domain Specific Pedagogical Content Knowledge of Evolution" which was published in the summer edition of the Journal of Curriculum and Supervision, Volume 18, Number 4.

Wilson Freshwater, CMS, received $18,760 from the NSF in a project that will include training students to develop expertise in red algal systematics and monographic methodology; disseminating information about the red algal family; and producing a series of monographs.

Alina Szmant, biological sciences and CMS, received $94,015 from NOAA to better understand where large batches of spawn, released by a specific coral, go and to streamline procedures for a new ecological index developed under previous funding.

Kenan Trust Funds Chair in Marine Sciences at UNCW

UNCW Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo announced that the William R. Kenan Jr. Charitable Trust has granted $667,000 to UNCW to establish a William R. Kenan Jr. Chair in Marine Sciences in memory of Owen G. Kenan. A Chapel Hill businessman and philanthropist, Owen G. Kenan served as a member of the UNCW Board of Trustees for seven years until his death Sept. 2, 2002.

When matched with $333,000 by the State of North Carolina's Distinguished Professorship program, this will become UNCW's first million dollar chair and the only William R. Kenan Jr. Chair to be designated by the Kenan Trust to a specific discipline among the more than 100 awarded to date to colleges and universities across the country.

"Customarily we allow universities to determine the best use of the William R. Kenan Jr. professorships," commented Dr. Richard M. Krasno, executive director of the trust headquartered in Chapel Hill. "This chair is designated in Owen Kenan's honor and recognizes Owen's affection for marine science and his great respect for the marine science program at UNCW."

Dr. DePaolo commented, "Marine science is a key program for UNC Wilmington. To have this incredible support from the Kenan Trust to help us move forward in marine science is critical to our future as a university. We are very appreciative to have the confidence of the Kenan Trust demonstrated by this distinguished professorship."

James R. Leutze, chancellor emeritus, alongside his wife, Margaret Gates, listening to speakers at the dedication ceremony of Lakeside Hall as Leutze Hall. The $8 million, 54,000-square-foot building opened in August 2001 and is the newest of UNCW's classroom buildings. About 150 people turned out for the ceremony.

Professor Awarded Fulbright

English professor Lee Schwener plans to teach during the 2004 spring semester in Skopje, the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia.

Lee Schwener will lecture to English majors in the Philology Department at the University St. Kiril i Metodij in Skopje. Schwener's stay in Macedonia is a part of the Fulbright Faculty Scholar program.

Schwener is interested in the Fulbright program and teaching in the Balkans because he feels that the program is important for the United States and UNCW in particular.

International Week

Proposals are due Friday, Nov. 14 for the 11th annual Intercultural Week to be held Feb. 9 through 14 celebrating cultural diversity. The planning committee encourages departments to consider sponsoring a spring semester program relevant to the week, such as a lecture, film, class presentation, workshop or performance. To suggest a program, complete the program proposal form and return it to Miranda Boykin, Office of International Programs, Box 5965, or by e-mail. Intercultural Week is sponsored by the Campus Activities and Involvement Center and the Office of International Programs. Contact Miranda Boykin at ext. 7009, or Shannon Hooker, campus activities and involvement center, ext. 7600, with questions or to request last year's program to get ideas for proposals.

Education Panel

Watson School of Education and career services are sponsoring an education panel of experts "What I Know Now That I Wish I Knew Then" at 4 p.m. Monday, Dec. 1 in the Center Stage Café, Warwick Center. This panel includes human resource personnel, an elementary school principal and teachers from New Hanover County Schools who will talk to students interested in teaching as a career. Round-table discussions will follow for students to get more one-on-one interaction with each of the panelists. Faculty and staff are encouraged to tell students interested in exploring teaching as a career to attend this event. The event is free, and free food will be available. For more information, contact Diane Reed, career services, at ext. 3174 or Barbara Joyner, Watson School of Education, at ext. 4142.

Retirement Reception

Celebrating 20 years of service to UNCW, campus services is hosting a retirement reception for Doris Moore, postal services manager, from 3 to 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 21 at the Center Stage Café in Warwick Center.

Seeking Volunteers

The Commencement Committee and the Division of Student Affairs need volunteers for fall commencement Saturday, Dec. 13 in Trask Coliseum. Volunteers report for duty at 8 a.m. and are asked to stay for the entire ceremony. Duties include passing out programs, directing guests, taking tickets and removing stage decorations. All duties should be concluded by approximately noon. Staff members interested in volunteering should contact Mary Crookes, university events coordinator, at ext. 7505 or crookesm.

Final Revolution

Cape Fear Museum presents the last documentary film in the Research Revolution viewing and discussion series at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 18 in the Williston Auditorium. Natural Connections looks at biodiversity through the work of scientists in five ecological habitats. William McCarthy, history, and Gregory Chandler, biological sciences, will lead the discussion. The project is a joint project of Randall Library and the Cape Fear Museum. For information, call Sue Cody at ext. 7409 or visit http://library.uncwil.edu/research_revolution/.

TECHNOLOGY CORNER

The Technology Corner from ITSD serves as an area highlighting items of interest for faculty and staff. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

IT Innovations Awards for Funding and Development

Abstracts for the IT Innovation Awards are due Monday, Nov. 17. The awards will be in two separate categories focusing on enhancing the teaching and learning processes. For more information, select www.uncw.edu/itsd/innovation.html.

Technology Training

Technology training schedules and class handouts are available at www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/schedule.html. Call the TAC to register at ext. 4357.

CBT "Just In Time" Training

Client Services' Computer Based Training (CBT) is available to all faculty, staff and students. This "Just in Time" system offers over 100, individually-paced, desktop technology training classes for free. For access, view www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/cbt.html and follow directions to enter the CBT site.

Nursing Career Fair

Regional employers will be on campus from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 17 in the Warwick Center Ballroom to recruit nurses for summer externships and full-time nursing positions. A list of attendees can be viewed at www.uncw.edu/stuaaff/career/nursingfair.htm. The event is free and open to the public. Career services is sponsoring the fair. Address questions to Leslie Rand-Pickett at ext. 3770 or randpickettl.

Commencement News

Commencement will be at 9:45 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 13 in Trask Coliseum. Robing rooms for faculty will be Trask 119 and 117. To help the faculty marshals and volunteers, faculty should arrive by 9:15 a.m. An attendant will be present, and the robing room doors will be locked during the ceremony to ensure the safety of personal property left in the rooms. The ceremony will begin promptly at 9:45 a.m. It is requested that faculty assemble by 9:30 a.m. for the academic procession. The procession will form in the corridor and will be arranged according to academic rank with faculty emeriti and professors at the beginning. Copies of the order of march will be posted in the corridors, and the faculty marshals will assist in arranging the processional. Following the exit of the platform party at the end of the ceremony, faculty will follow the faculty marshals out of the gymnasium. Contact Mary Crookes, university events coordinator, at ext. 7505 with questions.

Institutional Animal Care

The Office of Sponsored Programs has developed seminars to keep faculty and staff current on the research administration changes. The next available OSP seminar is from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 18, University Union, Room 105. Protection of animals in both educational and research activities involves regulatory, administrative and ethical challenges. Tiffany Matson will address issues, such as when a protocol is required, finding the forms, regulations governing compliance for the care and use of animals, policies and procedures. To register, e-mail Michelle Starks at starksm.

Upcoming HR Courses

For information on all classes, register online or download registration forms, visit www.uncw.edu/hr. Questions may be directed to ext. 3160.

- Internal Audit from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 13 at 5051 New Centre, HR Training Room. This workshop defines the purpose and role of the Internal Audit Department within the university community.

- Emotional Intelligence at Work from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 18 at 5051 New Centre, HR Training Room. Come learn why emotional intelligence may be more important to performance and success than IQ or technical competence.

- Performance Management from 9 to 11 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 19 at 5051 New Centre, HR Training Room. This course prepares supervisors and managers to create conditions for their employees' success on the job. Topics include work plans, coaching, providing feedback and conducting performance evaluations.

401(k) Rep

The UNCW Prudential 401(k) representative, Prabh Kaur, will be on campus from 11 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 to 2 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 13 in the University Union, Room 105 to discuss the recent transition from BB&T to Prudential, including how contributions are being invested and how you can elect to "opt-out" of the automatic swapping of BB&T funds to Prudential's investments. The "opt-out" option is offered to those members who, after reviewing the Prudential Retirement investment options, decide to keep the funds formerly offered by BB&T. Monday, Dec. 1 is the deadline to "opt-out" of the Friday, Jan. 16 automatic swapping and keep a participant's current investment line-up. However, this option does not allow for future contributions to the BB&T funds.

An additional meeting will be held for law enforcement officers from 3:15 to 4:15 p.m. in the University Police conference room. Contact Kelly Kennedy at ext 3006.

Postal Services

The USPS has issued another semipostal stamp along with the Breast Cancer Research and the Heroes stamp. Purchasers of the Stop Family Violence stamp contribute to a nationwide fight against domestic violence. Proceeds of this stamp will be used to help agencies nationwide to provide shelters for women in need, individual and group counseling, legal assistance, court and social service advocacy, emergency transportation, needed food and clothing, and prevention programs. Each stamp will sell for 45 cents and will be valid for postage at the one-ounce, first class mail rate. Holidays stamps are also available at UNCW postal services.

Scholarships Established

The Landfall Foundation announced Nov. 11 the establishment of scholarships for UNCW, Cape Fear Community College and Brunswick Community College students who work at least 10 hours a week at the Country Club of Landfall or the Landfall Council of Associations. Effective for the 2004-05 academic year, the scholarships will provide half the cost of tuition and fees each semester. In addition to the scholarships, the foundation granted UNCW $2,800 for public presentations commemorating the Brown vs. Board of Education Supreme Court decision.

Lunch Buffet

The lunch buffet is offered 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesdays and Fridays in the University Union Glassroom. The cost is $5.50 per person.

Friday, Nov. 14 – BBQ pork, BBQ tofu, baked mac and cheese, cole slaw, collards, succotash.

Tuesday, Nov. 18 – Chicken pot pie, Creole-style eggplant, orzo, great northern beans, green beans.

Aquarius Aquanauts

The last Aquarius science mission of 2003 began Nov. 10 with a six-person crew led by principal investigator, Dr. Mark Hay of the Georgia Institute of Technology. Hay's team will use its experience in marine ecology and chemical ecology to investigate how grazers, specifically parrotfish and surgeonfish, affect seaweeds and corals in the Florida Keys National Marine Sanctuary.

During each Aquarius mission, anyone with Internet access can watch live Web cameras, read expedition journals from the aquanauts, view project summaries and pictures and more at the NURC/UNCW Aquarius Web site at www.uncw.edu/Aquarius.

Celebrate at the EDC

The UNCW Executive Development Center (EDC) at Landfall is available for holiday functions. The EDC offers a full-range of catering, event planning and convenient parking in its state-of-the-art meeting facility. The center can accommodate up to 150 banquet style or from 10 to 200 people reception style. Call ext. 3578 for information, including available university-discounted rates.

Jazz at UNCW

The Department of Music presents the UNCW Jazz Guitar Ensemble in conjunction with the Jazz Lab Band 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 13 in Kenan Auditorium. The UNCW Jazz Guitar Ensemble or "Wire Choir," directed by Robert Russell, is a group performing multiple-guitar arrangements drawn from a wide variety of jazz styles. The UNCW Jazz Lab Band is directed by Christofer Ackerman and performs a variety of jazz styles and provides students with performance opportunities.

CLES Programs

The Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) continues its Angel Tree program through Dec. 3. Individuals or groups are invited to sponsor a youth from the Boys and Girls Home of Lake Waccamaw by providing holiday gifts for that young person. Cost is around $50 per child and information like clothes sizes and gift possibilities are provided. Angel Trees will be located in the lobbies of the University Union and Randall Library.

The week of Nov. 17 is National Hunger and Homelessness Awareness Week. Faculty are encouraged to tell students about various events during this week. A "Faces of Homelessness" panel presentation is scheduled at 7 p.m. Monday, Nov. 17 in University Union, Room 105. A representative from Good Shepherd Ministries will participate along with homeless individuals. Volunteers are needed to collect canned food at area grocery stores. Meet at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 18 in the CLES office in University Union, Room 212. Warwick Center Ballroom at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 19 is the place for the annual Hunger Banquet, presenting issues of world hunger by students from the social work department. Participants of the Washington, D.C. alternative fall break service trip will share their experiences at 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 20 in the University Union Living Room. For information on these programs or to sign up to participate, call Lauren McCullough at ext. 3877 or Becky Long at ext. 3043, or come by the CLES office in University Union, Room 212.

Cine Noir

The Black Arts Alliance is accepting submissions for the third annual Cine Noir: A Festival of Black Film. The deadline is Dec. 31 and the entry fee is $25 per submission. For official rules, applications and information contact Rhonda Bellamy, Cine Noir Festival Chair, c/o Black Arts Alliance, Inc., 1013 Shadow Moss Court Wilmington, NC 28412 or at 910/350-2681. The jury festival and screenings will be held March 4-7, 2004, in Wilmington. Competition categories are feature length, short subject, animation and documentary. A cash prize of $500 will be awarded to the first place entry in each category. In 2003, the festival featured more than 20 films, many being screened in North Carolina for the first time and several were world premieres. Tours of Screen Gems Studios and other allied industries are planned.

A "Paint Out"

Landfall Foundation is sponsoring a Plein Air Paint Out Nov. 13 through 15. Watch artists paint at the following sites: Downtown Wilmington at Azalea Coast Gifts, Flowers and Candles, 2 Ann Street; Horseshoe Lake, Landfall, Eastwood Road; Summer Rest Road, Wrightsville Beach. Then attend a wine and cheese reception from 6 to 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 15 at Fountainside Gallery at Lumina Station on Eastwood Road to view for purchase more than 40 pieces of art. Forty percent of all sales will benefit the community through the Landfall Foundation. Information is available at Fountainside Gallery 256-9550.

Holiday Bazaar

The Cape Fear Optimist Ladies Auxiliary is hosting its third annual holiday bazaar from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 15. The bazaar will be held at the Cape Fear Optimist Clubhouse on North Kerr Avenue. The bazaar will feature local crafters and vendors, baked items and concessions. The ladies auxiliary is a nonprofit organization benefiting the youth of Wilmington. For details contact S. Ludlum in the student health center at ext. 7847.

Beetle Raffle

Raffle tickets are available at the University Union information desk for the 2003 sunflower yellow VW Seahawk Beetle courtesy of Bob King. Thursday, Jan. 1

Bike Ride Support

Tim Harris, printing services, is asking for donations to assist a little league player he coaches. Fourteen-year-old Stephen Ross has lived with Type 1 diabetes for four years, and in May 2004 the Ross family has a chance to participate in a 30- to 60-mile Ride to Cure Diabetes bicycle fundraiser in Monterey, Calif. They must raise $17,500 to be able to take part. If interested in making a tax-deductible donation, make a check out to the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation (JDRF) and send it to the attention of Tim Harris c/o Printing Services. Information may be found at <http://home.ec.rr.com/sandpeddlers/>.

Spring 2004 Graduation Filing Deadlines

The application deadline for spring 2004 graduation is Nov. 17. Seniors may apply online at www.uncw.edu/reg and click on the graduation application link or stop by the Registrar's Office in James Hall. Faculty are requested to announce this deadline change in all 300 and 400 level classes.

The graduation application deadline for graduate students expecting to receive their master's degree in spring 2004 is Monday, Nov. 17. Master's degree candidates should come to the Graduate School office located on the second floor of James Hall and fill out the appropriate paperwork.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Andrew Shepard, NURC/CMS, received $124,815 from the South Atlantic Fishery Management Council to design, construct and field test an autonomous underwater vehicle to allow for offshore mapping efforts.

Paul A. Townend, history, received the American Conference for Irish Studies James S. Donnelly Sr. Prize for books on history and social sciences for Father Mathew, Temperance and Irish Identity.

Pascale Barthe and Scott Juall, French, attended the Sixteenth Century Studies conference Oct. 30 to Nov. 2 in Pittsburgh. Barthe presented a paper on 16th century travel to the Middle East; Juall's talk focused on Renaissance travels through Western Europe.

Jim Bailey, sociology and criminal justice, presented "Gun Shot Residue Pattern Enhancement on Fabric: An Alternative Chemical Method Utilizing Sodium Hypochlorite" at the Third European Academy of Forensic Science meeting in Istanbul, Turkey, Sept. 22 through 27. The conference proceedings are published in Forensic Science International, Elsevier Publishing Co., Volume 136, No. 1, September 2003.

Tara MacPherson, Mike Mallin and Larry Cahoon, CMS and biological sciences, presented "Biological and Geological Influences on Tidal Creek Oxygen Uptake" at the Estuarine Research Federation meeting in Seattle, Wash.

John Whitehead, economics and finance, and a coauthor had "A Contingent Valuation Estimate of the Benefits of Wolves in Minnesota" appear in the journal Environmental and Resource Economics, Volume 26, 2003.

Hana Noor Al-Deen, communication studies, accompanied 17 students from communication studies and the UNCW Advertising Chapter to the 47th annual Advertising Career Conference Oct. 24 and 25 in New York City. Students toured BBH, an international advertising agency, and attended advertising workshops. The event was sponsored by Advertising Women of New York.

W. Frank Ainsley, earth sciences, was the planner and local arrangements coordinator for the 35th annual conference of the Pioneer America Society held in Bridgetown, Barbados Oct. 12 through 16. In addition to six paper sessions, Ainsley led two day-long historic architectural field trips around the island.

Ron Vetter, computer science, was a guest speaker at the Electric Power Research Institute Power Quality Interest Group meeting on Oct. 21. His talk was titled "Power Expectations for a Leading Edge Center for Computer Science and Information Systems."

"The stated purpose of the program is to build mutual understanding between the people of the United States and other countries," Schweninger said. "In these times, mutual understanding is of critical importance."

While in Macedonia, Schweninger plans to teach a course in American culture (including literature) and a course in contemporary American literature on the American short story. His own research and writing tends to be on the subject of American Indian literature, but he also studies early American writers and nature writers.

Harper Named Distinguished Professor of Entrepreneurship

Stephen C. Harper is the first Progress Energy/Betty Cameron Distinguished Professor of Entrepreneurship in the Cameron School of Business.

Established in November 2000 with a gift from the CP&L Foundation, now Progress Energy, to honor long-time CP&L director, Daniel D. Cameron, the private gift was given to be matched by the UNC Board of Governors and the State of North Carolina. The endowment provides funds for a salary supplement and supports research and development.

Larry Clark, dean of the Cameron School of Business, said the purpose of an endowed professorship is to attract and retain outstanding faculty. With this professorship, the Cameron

School of Business joins more than 40 universities, including some of the top business schools in the country, which have positions for distinguished professors of entrepreneurship.

"Because of Dr. Harper's very strong national reputation, it is quite probable that UNCW would have lost Steve to one of these other professorship opportunities had Progress Energy and Dan Cameron not combined to make our new distinguished professorship a reality," Clark said.

"I am delighted to be selected for the Progress Energy/Betty Cameron Distinguished Professor of Entrepreneurship," said Harper, professor of management, who joined the faculty at UNCW in 1976. "The generosity of Progress Energy and Dan and Betty Cameron have made it possible for me to continue my career at UNCW."

The endowed professorship will allow Harper to direct even more of his attention to the field of entrepreneurship, the subject of his fifth book now nearing completion after more than 2,200 hours of research over the last four years.

"I will be increasing my teaching of entrepreneurship, leading emerging ventures, and fostering entrepreneurial initiatives in established companies, and I plan to bring more entrepreneurs to campus to speak to our students and faculty. I am also developing a SWAT (Swift Advisory Team) program, which may be a joint effort by the Cameron School of Business and the Coastal Entrepreneurial Council," he said.

Harper noted that he will not be acting alone in fostering entrepreneurship education, research and service. "The Cameron School of Business has numerous faculty who are interested in various facets of entrepreneurship. I am excited about what we may be able to do and how we can play an even greater role in fostering

Dennison Receives $1 Million Grant

Darwin Dennison, professor of health and applied human sciences, received a $1.2 million grant from the American Cancer Society to conduct a nutrition intervention experimental study with school children.

The three-year intervention study will be directed at middle school students and their parents in rural southeastern North Carolina. Designed as a comprehensive approach to combating poor nutrition and physical activity behaviors, the study will involve teachers, food service personnel and administrators.

The objectives of the study are to increase fruit and vegetable consumption; decrease fat, sodium and sugar consumption; and increase physical activity levels of the students. The study will include training sessions, workshops and experiential learning for participants.

The research management team in the Department of Health and Applied Human Sciences is positioned with the experience to conduct this multi-faceted study.

Holiday Hours

During Thanksgiving break, Randall Library's hours will be: 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 25; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 26; closed, Thursday, Nov. 27; 1 to 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 28 and Saturday, Nov. 29; and 3 p.m. to 12 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 30.

University Union/Warwick Center hours will be: 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 26; closed, Thursday, Nov. 27 through Saturday, Nov. 29; 5 p.m. to 12 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 30.

Education Panel

Watson School of Education and career services are sponsoring the panel discussion "What I Know Now That I Wish I Knew Then" at 4 p.m. Monday, Dec. 1 in Center Stage Café, Warwick Center. The panel includes human resource personnel, an elementary school principal and teachers from New Hanover County Schools who will talk to students interested in teaching as a career. Round-table discussions will follow for students to have one-on-one interaction with panelists. The cost is $7.90 for adults, $3.69 for children three to 12 and free for children under three. The menu includes carved roast turkey breast with fricassee gravy, mashed potatoes, cornbread dressing, ham with sweet and sour sauce, green beans almandine, orange glazed baby carrots, sautéed vegetable medley, alfredo summer vegetable cavatappi, Caesar and tossed salads, antipasto, bananas foster, pecan pie, apple pie, death by chocolate cake, dinner rolls and butter and assorted beverages.

Seeking Volunteers

The Commencement Committee and the Division of Student Affairs need volunteers for fall commencement Saturday, Dec. 13 in Trask Coliseum. Volunteers report for duty at 8 a.m. and are asked to stay for the entire ceremony. Duties include passing out programs, directing guests, taking tickets and removing stage decorations. All duties should be concluded by approximately noon. Staff members interested in volunteering should contact Mary Crookes, university events coordinator, at ext. 7505 or crookesm.

Bookstore Notes

This section features information about the UNCW Bookstore and, in the future, will expand to include other business and support services. For questions about the UNCW Bookstore, call Andy Shaffer at ext. 7187.

Book Orders Due

Book orders were due Oct. 17, but over 30 percent remain outstanding. The sooner book orders are received, the more used books can be purchased from students. For assistance in placing an order, contact Ryan Bell or Andy Shaffer at ext. 3188.

Families in Need

Phi Sigma Pi, the national co-ed honor fraternity, and the UNCW Bookstore are teaming up to help local families in need for Thanksgiving. Canned goods and non-perishable items will be collected in the UNCW Bookstore prior to Friday, Nov. 21. Those who donate will receive a UNCW Bookstore discount coupon.

Holiday Gala

The second annual UNCW Bookstore Holiday Gala will be Wednesday, Dec. 10. Faculty and staff are invited to enjoy holiday treats, extra savings, free gift wrapping and a chance to visit with bookstore staff.

CAIC Awards

UNCW Student Ambassadors are the recipients of the October Making a Difference Award presented by the Campus Activities and Involvement Center. This monthly award is given to a student organization for the difference it has made on campus or in the community. An honorary Making a Difference Award was being given in memory of Jessica Cheek, UNCW Circle K community service chair, who was killed in a car accident Oct. 17.

Fall Semester Grading

SEAWEB will open for grading at 8 a.m. Dec. 4. Grades are due at 2 p.m. Dec. 16.

Technology Corner

The Technology Corner from ITSD serves as an area highlighting items of interest for faculty and staff. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

MS Office Tip

To print a contact address on an envelope or label directly from Outlook, open a blank Word document and select "tools, letters and mailings" and then select "envelopes and labels. Choose either the "envelopes" or "labels" tab. Click the "address book" icon to add an address. In the "show names from the" box, choose the name of the folder that contains the person you want on the envelope or label (this folder will usually be "contacts"). Choose the person, double-click, then select "add to document." You can add a return address by selecting "options." Insert your envelope or labels into the printer and click "print."

Coming Soon REMEDY Incident Tracking

The Information Technology Systems Division, along with the Technology Assistance Center, will be making it easier to report or track a technology issue with the new Remedy Web Interface system. This client-directed system, an addition to the Remedy Call-Tracking System, will allow faculty and staff to draw up and track their own trouble tickets on the Web, along with other user options. Details regarding user requests will also be accessible through the Web interface.

Physics Colloquium

Horst Meyer, professor of physics from Duke University, will present "Dynamic Behavior of Fluids near Their Liquid-Vapor Critical Point" at 2 p.m. Friday, Nov. 21 in DeLoach, Hall 212. Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

Moviemaker Lectures

Lainie Johnston, a producer of The Angel Doll, is the film studies Moviemaker lecturer from 2 to 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 21 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100. Johnston served as a producer on The Angel Doll, an independent, 35 mm feature film directed by her late husband, Sandy Johnston, a prolific and award-winning Wilmington filmmaker. Based on the best-selling book by North Carolina author Jerry Bledsoe (Bitter Blood, A Gift of Angels), the film was made in Wilmington and stars Keith Carradine, Pat Hingle and Nick Searcy.

All Moviemaker events are free and open to the public. For more information contact the Film Studies Department at ext. 7502 or visit the Web site www.uncw.edu/filmstudies.com.

Directory Correction

The correct phone number for Miranda Boykin, international student advisor, is ext. 7009. It is listed incorrectly in the UNCW Telephone Directory, page 47.

Dittos Extended Hours

Dittos will be open until 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 24 and Tuesday, Nov. 25; Monday, Dec. 1 to Friday, Dec. 5; and Monday, Dec. 8 to Thursday, Dec. 11.

Russian Christmas Concert

The UNCW Wind Symphony and the Chamber Winds, directed by Christofer Ackerman, will present "A Russian Christmas" at 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 24, in Kenan Auditorium. The concert will feature Russian Christmas Music by Alfred Reed, an original work based on an ancient Russian Christmas Carol and motivic elements inspired by the liturgical music of the Eastern Orthodox Church, and Clark McAlister's three-movement work "Woodscapes" in its entirety.

Tickets are available at the Kenan Auditorium box office, ext. 3500 one hour prior to the concert: $5 general admission; $2.50 UNCW faculty and staff, senior citizens and children under 12; free for UNCW students with valid ID.

Planned Construction Activities

- Throughout November, traffic delays and parking disruptions are expected along Hamilton Road due to bike path construction. Park in the Trask lots (K or K extension) when parking is not available along tennis courts.
 - Parking for auxiliary services (behind Warwick Center and across from the recreation fields) is closed. Visitors are encouraged to park in Lot M (at the Price/Riegel intersection).
 - Primary electrical construction will affect the following:
 - Nov 20 and 21 - Expect traffic delays as paving work is completed, weather permitting, in Westside Hall visitor parking lot, northern section of Lot G, entrances to Lot D (one entrance at a time) and Cahill Dr. crossing.
 - Nov 20 and 21 - Pedestrian traffic will be disrupted as excavation work is completed west of Randall Library.
 - Nov. 24-26 - Excavation east of the University Union will close the service parking area.
- For more information, view www.uncw.edu/ba/facilities/impact.html.

Upcoming HR Courses

For information on all classes, register online or download registration forms, visit www.uncw.edu/hr. Questions may be directed to ext. 3160.

- Building High Performance Teams from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 3 at 5051 New Centre, HR Training Room. This course explores the development and organization of effective teams - the leader's role, members' behaviors and addressing team accomplishments.

- Time Management from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 9 at 5051 New Centre, HR Training Room. Learn how to find strategies for effective time management and assess current time management habits.

Retirement Fund Option

Prudential Retirement offers UNCW employees the option of keeping their assets invested in the funds formerly offered by BB&T. If this option is chosen, investors must notify Prudential Retirement by Dec. 2.

Choosing to stay with the funds formerly offered by BB&T means investors:

- will continue to be charged an administrative fee of 0.13 percent on those assets.

- cannot participate in GoalMaker (any future election to participate in GoalMaker will cause your funds to be moved to the new investment lineup offered by Prudential Retirement).

- cannot exchange or reallocate assets into the funds formerly offered by BB&T.

To keep the funds formerly offered by BB&T, call 1-866-NC401K1 or visit www.nc401k.prudential.com

If this option is not chosen, on Jan. 16 assets in the funds formerly offered by BB&T will automatically transfer to the comparable investment options offered by Prudential Retirement.

Holiday Schedule

The university will be closed for the Thanksgiving holidays on Thursday, Nov. 27 Friday, Nov. 28.

The university will be closed for winter break on Wednesday, Dec. 24 through Sunday, Jan. 4. Holidays during this period are Dec. 24, 25, 26, 29, and Jan. 1. Required vacation days are Dec. 30 and 31 and Jan. 2. Employees may use vacation or bonus leave or accrued comp time for the required days. Supervisors are encouraged to allow employees who do not have sufficient time accrued for the required days to record "negative comp time" and make the time up.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Suzanne Grosser, Center for Marine Science; Linda Rowley, curricular studies; Kristine Wetherill, client services and Lisa Wood, Bolton Health and Wellness Center.

Retirement Reception

Campus services will host a retirement reception for Doris Moore, postal services manager, celebrating her 20 years of service to UNCW. It will be from 3 to 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 21 in Center Stage Café, Warwick Center.

Shared Leave

Elizabeth King Humphrey, university relations, needs shared leave donations. Send vacation leave donations to Alice Maile in human resources.

Commencement News

Commencement will be at 9:45 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 13 in Trask Coliseum. Robing rooms for faculty will be Trask 119 and 117. To help the faculty marshals and volunteers, faculty should arrive by 9:15 a.m. An attendant will be present, and the robing room doors will be locked during the ceremony which will begin promptly at 9:45 a.m. It is requested that faculty assemble by 9:30 a.m. for the academic procession. The procession will form in the corridor and will be arranged according to academic rank with faculty emeriti and professors at the beginning. Copies of the order of march will be posted in the corridors, and the faculty marshals will assist in arranging the processional. Following the exit of the platform party at the end of the ceremony, faculty will follow the faculty marshals out of the gymnasium. Contact Mary Crookes, university events coordinator, at ext. 7505 with questions.

Cost of Copies Reduced at Dittos

The cost of copies made at Dittos, The Copy Spot, is going down.

Effective Dec. 1, copies submitted to Dittos via SEACopy will be charged at 4 cents per single-sided copy and 7.8 cents per double-sided copy. This is a 12 percent reduction in cost. For copies submitted over the counter, the charge will be 4.25 cents per single-sided copy and 8.3 cents per double-sided copy.

Orders for course packs made through SEACopy, printing services new Web-based digital copying service, also lowers the price to students because SEACopy prices are lower than "over the counter" prices.

For more information, contact Don Harty at ext. 3563 or e-mail copycenter@uncw.edu.

Lower prices, new name

Central stores is making changes in order to be more responsive to the university community.

Kay Ward, acting vice chancellor for business affairs, announced that prices are going down, the name is changing to Suppli•EZ and, beginning Dec. 1, using Suppli•EZ for departmental purchases is optional. Departments will still need to follow university and state purchasing policies, but will be able to utilize their procurement cards more effectively as they may purchase items from other vendors even if the same item is available through Suppli•EZ.

Suppli•EZ will continue to offer easy online ordering and free, daily deliveries. While this change will give departments greater flexibility, the staff of Suppli•EZ would like to remind everyone that Suppli•EZ offers on-campus convenience, eliminating shipping costs, the need to drive off-campus or process returns and credits.

More information about Suppli•EZ can be obtained by calling ext. 3180.

Advent Service

Several Christian ecumenical campus ministry groups from campus are sponsoring Advent lessons and carols service with communion at 11 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 2 at Church of the Servant on Oriole Drive.

The Campus Communique will not be published the following dates, due to the university holiday schedule:
Thursday, Nov. 27
Thursday, Dec. 25
Thursday, Jan. 1

Spring Reserve Requests

Faculty need to review spring course reserve lists and submit them to the library. Since Randall Library processes nearly a thousand items each spring semester, lists will not be guaranteed available with the start of classes unless received before Dec. 1. Reserve lists from previous semesters will not be automatically converted.

Submit lists via campus mail, e-mail or bring them to the reserves/media desk. Direct questions to Carolyn Andrews, Jan Costley or John Osinski at ext. 3790.

University Theatre Presentation

The Last Night of Ballyhoo by Alfred Uhry is the UNCW University Theatre's second show of the 2003-2004 season. The performances will be at 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 20 through Saturday, Nov. 22 and at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 23 in Kenan Auditorium. Departments Show Off Technology

At the Technology and Digital Arts Showcase Monday, Lauryn Colatuno demonstrated video editing for her documentary on the Wilmington 10.

Despite the people hovering over her, watching her work, Lauryn Colatuno concentrated on her editing. She had to condense seven hours of footage down to just 20 minutes.

Colatuno was finishing her documentary on the Wilmington 10, which will be shown publicly at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 10 at Cinema Grill, along with other student productions.

The senior film production major was one of several UNCW students whose work was showcased at the Technology and Digital Arts Showcase, sponsored Monday by the Departments of Film Studies and Computer Science.

Seated nearby in the Bear Hall computer lab was Anthony Wenzel, a senior computer science major, who was meticulously making a stuffed teddy bear come to life as part of a group computer animation project. He's been putting in three to four hours a day in the project for the past week, and estimates another week's worth of work just to complete his portion of the project.

Ron Vetter, computer science department chair, said the students really become engrossed in their work and having access to the digital arts lab makes it easy for them. The lab, which was the focus of the showcase, is a cooperative venture between ITSD, business affairs, computer science, film studies and art departments.

In a small room across the hall, Karl Ricanek and three of his students, junior Robert Harrison, freshman Brandon Bullock and senior Steven Patrick Cash, were discussing the face recognition program they are developing with the help of an $800,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Defense.

Raffle tickets are available at the University Union information desk for the 2003 sunflower yellow VW Seahawk Beetle donated by UNCW alumnus Bob King. The car is being raffled to raise $50,000 or more for merit-based scholarships through the UNCW Alumni Association. Tickets are $25. The winner will be chosen in a random drawing Jan. 24 at the Homecoming men's basketball game. For information, contact the Office of Alumni Relations at ext. 2682.

Call for Proposals

The Learning Communities Steering Committee is seeking proposals for Learning Communities (LC) courses to be taught to first-year students in fall 2004. The deadline is Jan. 15. Proposals should link two Basic Studies courses. Stipends of $2,000 will be available to faculty members who have not taught in the LC program before; those who have will receive a $1,000 stipend. For guidelines and complete details visit the General College Web site at www.uncw.edu/gc/.

Web Page Reminder

ESSP Lecture

Laura Guy, physics and physical oceanography, will speak at 2 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. The title of her talk is "Earth Science System Program (ESSP)." Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

Dittos Extended Hours

Dittos will be open until 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 1 to Friday, Dec. 5 and Monday, Dec. 8 to Thursday, Dec. 11.

Lunch Buffet

The lunch buffets will resume early spring semester.

HR Open Forum

The UNCW community is invited to attend the open forums for the assistant to the chancellor/director of human resources candidates. The forums will include a 10- to 15-minute presentation by the candidate on a topic of interest as it relates to human resources, a question and answer session and will conclude with a reception.

Information about the candidates is attached to the Communique.

From 4 to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 9 in King Auditorium meet Steven McClure, director, human resources, Central Piedmont Community College, Charlotte.

From 4 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 10 in King Auditorium meet John Toller, assistant executive director, human resources and affirmative action, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Technology Corner

The Technology Corner from ITSD serves as an area highlighting items of interest for faculty and staff. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

Holiday Shopping

This is a reminder that faculty and staff have Dell home purchasing capability. For more information select: http://www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/purchases_faculty.html.

Faculty and staff are also entitled to a copy of Microsoft Office and Windows for home machines, and now ITSD has Norton Anti-Virus for home use available. Bring blank CD's to the Technology Assistance Center for your copy(s). You will need to bring two CD's for MS Office, one for Windows XP/2000 and one for Norton. The TAC is located in Hoggard 201. Allow five business days for your copies, to allow for the holiday rush.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Michael J. Durako, biology and CMS, presented "Landscape-Scale Approaches to the Assessment of Seagrasses in a Perturbed Subtropical Ecosystem" at the 17th international conference of the Estuarine Research Federation in Seattle, Wash. The paper was co-authored with Penny Hall and Manuel Merello from the Florida Marine Research Institute. Durako was also a co-author on a paper entitled "The Role of Thalassia testudinum Seedlings in the Recovery of Physically Disturbed Seagrass Beds," presented by former marine science graduate student, Paula E. Whitfield. Additional co-authors included W. Judson Kenworthy and Kamille Hammerstrom from NOAA and Manuel Merello.

Kim Kelly, Michel Fougères, Andrew Buchanan and William Wetherill, ITSD, presented "Eye on UNCW" at the North Carolina CAUSE Conference, a statewide technology conference for the UNC system, hosted in Wilmington. "Eye on UNCW" is an online portal including streaming video, still photos and graphics that encapsulate the UNCW experience. "Eye on UNCW" can be accessed at www.uncw.edu/news.

Roger Shew, earth sciences, and Bill Kawczynski, SMEC, presented "Earth and Environmental Science Modules for North Carolina" at the 35th annual meeting of the N.C. Science Teachers Association in Greensboro, Nov. 13.

Michel Fougères, Andrew Buchanan and William Wetherill, ITSD, gave a presentation on the SMART Project at the North Carolina CAUSE Conference. The SMART Project (Smart Media Applications for Research and Teaching), which is under the IT Innovations Committee umbrella, will identify five professors who are looking to stimulate the learning experience in the classroom through the use of technology, and then will proceed in the development of customized applications for such classes using interactive digital whiteboards. Information on the SMART Project can be accessed at www.uncw.edu/itsd/innovation.html.

Dana Little and Beverly Vagnerini, ITSD, gave a presentation on "Meeting the Growing Burden for Training Faculty to Teach Online," at the North Carolina CAUSE Conference. This presentation emphasized the ways in which UNCW has successfully integrated a new program for training faculty to teach courses on the Internet. Information about WebCT course development can be accessed at www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/online-dev.html.

Michael J. Durako, biology and CMS, was co-author on the paper "A Hierarchical Statistical Approach to the Evaluation of Seagrass Ecoinicators" presented by former marine biology graduate student John W. Hackney at the Estuarine Indicators Workshop held in Sanibel, Fla.

Jeff Brown, mathematics and statistics, Clayton Ferner, Ron Vetter and undergraduate student Mike Wood, computer science, presented "A Demonstration of Grid Services" at the North Carolina Grid Computing Initiative Forum sponsored by the University of North Carolina Office of the President and MCNC Grid Computing and Networking Services on Oct. 28-29 at the Friday Center, Chapel Hill. This forum focused on collaboration among the higher education community and other key stakeholders to establish the North Carolina Grid Computing Initiative.

as a small interdisciplinary program that sought to combine academic study of film taught by UNCW faculty with applied film production skills taught by area industry professionals. Frank Capra Jr. and EUE/Screen Gems Studios were instrumental in conceiving and supporting this joint educational effort. Five years later, film studies is now among UNCW's fastest growing majors and the program has grown into an academic department with its own faculty, equipment and facilities. The community and university cooperation that brought film studies to UNCW remains the focus of the emerging department.

Open Forum Details Consideration of Tuition Increase

When the UNCW Board of Trustees meets Friday, members will consider implementing a $360-a-year tuition increase for the next five years. In addition, administrators have proposed an increase in student fees, $56.50 for 2004-05 and $40.25 for 2005-06.

At the chancellor's open forum on the budget Friday, Kay Ward, acting vice chancellor for business affairs, presented the case in support of the increases. She explained in detail how funds are categorized under the four main headings of unrestricted, restricted, auxiliary and construction and what these funds can be used for.

As a state institution, the university can't mix different "pots of money," Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo pointed out. For example, funds for construction cannot be used for classroom supplies. She said it's important for everyone to understand the difference between what issues the university has control over locally and statewide. It's also important for people to realize "the money is simply not there."

In that vein, Ward reviewed the impact of legislative budget cuts. Over the last five years, UNCW has experienced $17,775,585 in one-time and permanent budget cuts. The university's budget was cut $8,533,450 in the legislature's last biennial budget.

During the 1990s the university was granted the ability to move operating funds from one area to another and "that has allowed us to survive," Ward noted, but not without certain consequences.

The administration tried to avoid cutting people and programs, she said, but when a person left a position, he or she was often not replaced, and the money, which would have paid for their salary and benefits, was instead channeled into operating expenses. During 2002-03, that accounted for $4,638,739.

The committee, which proposed the tuition increase, offered the following as "underlying principles/rationale/purposes/objectives" for the increase:

- UNCW must restore the actual student-faculty ratio to the FY 2001-02 level of 16:1. (It is currently closer to 17:1.)

- UNCW must continue to attract and retain high quality faculty. This would include restoring 19.44 faculty positions lost during the permanent reductions required by the state at a cost of approximately $300,000 a year for five years. Increasing faculty salaries over

RECEPTION

Chancellor DePaolo is hosting a faculty and staff holiday reception from 4 to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 16 in Wagoner Hall.

All faculty and staff are encouraged to attend.

(from left) Betty Cameron, Dr. Steve Harper, and Jeff Corbett, Progress Energy, participated in a luncheon Monday honoring Harper for being named UNCW's first Progress Energy/ Betty Cameron Distinguished Professor of Entrepreneurship in the Cameron School of Business. At the event, Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo commented that such distinguished chairs are "the kind of significant step so important to UNCW's future."

Volunteer Hours

Each semester the Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) compiles a report on the number of service/volunteer hours performed by UNCW students. These figures, available upon request, have been useful for things such as supportive data for grants, information for media articles and more.

For each of the past two years, CLES has documented 30,000 plus hours, but these numbers reflect only those which have been submitted to CLES. Staff and faculty who know of students who participated in service during this fall semester should let CLES know. Also, individuals who were involved in a class with a component of volunteering or who advised a student organization that volunteers in the community contact Becky Long, community service coordinator, about reporting hours. Phone her at ext. 3043 or e-mail longb to discuss including these hours in the university's total. Hours should be submitted by noon on Tuesday, Dec. 16, but extensions may be available.

Thesis Defense

Carlos Zavalaga will present his biological sciences graduate thesis defense 2 p.m. Friday, Dec. 12 in Dobo Hall, Room 103. The topic is "Testing the Feeding Niche Partitioning Hypothesis In The Blue-Footed Booby."

Computing Down

All university computing resources and the data network, including access to the Internet, will be down from 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20 until 9 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21 due to a power outage that is related to the primary electrical distribution improvement project.

Making a Difference

The Non-Traditional Student Organization has won the November Making a Difference award. The deadline for the December award is Monday, Dec. 15. E-mail nominations to strattonf. Visit www.uncw.edu/stuaff/activities/StudentOrgs/awards-difference.htm for more about this award.

Toys for Tots

The UNC Wilmington men's and women's basketball teams are teaming up with McDonald's and WAAV radio to benefit the United State Marine Corps "Toys For Tots" campaign.

Fans who bring a new, unwrapped toy to the athletic ticket office in Trask Coliseum will receive a ticket for free admission to the women's game Dec. 16 and/or men's game Dec. 17. The UNCW women play Coastal Carolina at 7 p.m. on Dec. 16, while the men entertain UNC Asheville at 7 p.m. on Dec. 17.

Knauss Award

Shauna N. Slingsby, a 2003 M.S. graduate in marine science, was awarded a Dean John A. Knauss Marine Policy Fellowship by the National Sea Grant Program. Slingsby completed her thesis "Patterns of Association and Interactions Between Juvenile Corals and Macroalgae in the Caribbean" in the summer of 2003. Slingsby will be an executive fellow in Washington beginning in February 2004.

Faculty/Staff Game

Thursday, Jan. 1 is the UNCW faculty/staff appreciation day for men's basketball. Tickets can be purchased for $2 each with a UNCW ID. The Seahawks will host James Madison at 2 p.m. in Trask Coliseum. For more information, call ext. 7536.

Number Changes

The following changes should be noted: Peggy Roggenstein, psychology, can now be reached at ext. 3370 and Patricia Aburameh's new number is ext. 7467.

Anderson Reception

Public Service and Continuing Studies will host a retirement reception for Annette Anderson celebrating her 21 years of service to UNCW from 3 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 17 in the Warwick Center Ballroom.

SRC Schedule

The Student Recreation Center hours are the following during final exams and intersession: 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 11; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday, Dec. 12; closed Saturday, Dec. 13 to Sunday, Dec. 14; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, Dec. 15 to Thursday, Dec. 18; closed Friday, Dec. 19 to Sunday, Dec. 21; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, Dec. 22; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 23; closed Wednesday, Dec. 24 through Saturday, Jan. 3; 4 to 10 p.m. Jan. 4; 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 5 and 6.

The rec swim hours are: 12 to 2 p.m. Monday, Dec. 8 to Friday, Dec. 12; closed Saturday, Dec. 13 to Sunday, Dec. 14; 12 to 2 p.m. Monday, Dec. 15 to Friday, Dec. 19; closed Saturday, Dec. 20 to Saturday, Jan. 3; 12 to 2 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 5 and 6.

New Return Box

Randall Library has a new library materials return box located in parking lot D (closest to the library), between the light pole and the emergency call box.

TECHNOLOGY CORNER

The Technology Corner from ITSD serves as an area highlighting items of interest for faculty and staff. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

Computer Tip: Pivot Surfing

An option in both Internet Explorer and Netscape Navigator, pivot surfing opens a completely different browser window for a new link. Click on a new link using right mouse button, instead of the left button. Select the option: "Open in a new window," which then opens the link in a new browser window. The original Web page remains open.

SMART Board Technology

The SMART board, a large, digital interactive whiteboard, is one of the latest applications in cutting edge technology to be incorporated into UNCW classrooms. The board is touch-sensitive and is written on with specialized color coded pens to emphasize specific points. The SMART board, used with a computer and an LCD projector, offers numerous teaching and learning possibilities, enabling students and teachers to see things that they cannot see in person, to view locations and artifacts in 360 degree photos, to observe real-time 3D and 4D graphing, to literally move items around on the touch screen of the whiteboard, and to interact with digital video, among other applications. For more information about applications developed collaboratively with faculty and ITSD staff for the SMART board/whiteboard select: www.uncw.edu/itsd/inn_pilots.html.

Holiday Hours

The University Union and Warwick Center hours during the intersession are: 7 to 1 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 11; 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. Friday, Dec. 12; 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 13; closed Sunday, Dec. 14; 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 15 to Friday, Dec. 19; closed Saturday, Dec. 20 and Sunday, Dec. 21; 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 22 and Tuesday, Dec. 23; closed Dec. 24 to Jan. 3; 5 p.m. to 12 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 4.

Randall Library Hours

During final exams and intersession, the library is open 24 hours per day through 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 12; closed Saturday and Sunday Dec. 13 and 14; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Dec. 15 to Friday, Dec. 19; closed Saturday and Sunday Dec. 20 and 21; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday Dec. 22 and 23; closed Wednesday, Dec. 24 through Sunday, Jan. 4; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 5 and 6; 7 a.m. to 12 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 7 (regular semester hours begin).

Celebrate at the EDC

The UNCW Executive Development Center (EDC) at Landfall is available for holiday functions. The EDC offers a full-range of catering, event planning and convenient parking in its state-of-the-art meeting facility. The center can accommodate up to 150 banquet style or from 10 to 200 people reception style. Call ext. 3578 for information, including available university-discounted rates.

Stockton Reception

A reception will be held for Carl A. Stockton, chair of health and applied human sciences, from 2 to 3:30 Thursday, Dec. 11 in the Golden Hawk Room. Stockton has accepted the position of dean of the School of Education at the University of Texas at Brownsville, effective Jan. 1.

Student Awards 2004

Awards nomination forms and information may be found at www.uncw.edu/news/communique/2003/dec/11/awards.pdf.

The deadline is Wednesday, Jan. 21.

Planned Construction Activities

From now until Dec. 19, expect temporary interruptions in vehicle and pedestrian traffic as cabling is pulled in manholes from Hoggard to DeLoach halls and along Randall Drive.

From Dec. 15-19, excavation work may affect traffic along Reynolds Drive at the School of Education site.

Also Dec. 15-19, auxiliary services parking lot and the service parking area east of the University Union will be paved.

In order to complete the primary electrical distribution improvement project, scheduled power outages will take place during weekends and winter break:

Warwick and Burney centers; James, Alderman, Hoggard and

Hanover halls Dec. 20-21

King Hall, Randall Library Dec. 28

Kenan Hall, DeLoach Hall, Kenan Auditorium Dec. 29-30

University Union and Social and Behavioral Sciences Building Dec. 31-Jan. 1

December Pay Dates

The December end-of-month payroll will be paid Friday, Dec. 19. The mid-month payroll will be paid Monday, Dec. 15. If you have any questions, contact the Payroll Dept. at ext. 3163.

Holiday Schedule

The university will be closed for winter break on Wednesday, Dec. 24 through Sunday, Jan. 4. Holidays during this period are Dec. 24, 25, 26, 29 and Jan. 1. Required vacation days are Dec. 30 and 31 and Jan. 2. Employees may use vacation or bonus leave or accrued comp time for the required days. Supervisors are encouraged to allow employees who do not have sufficient time accrued for the required days to record "negative comp time" and make the time up.

Central Receiving Hours

Central receiving is closed during the entire holiday break, and there will be no receiving or delivery from the closing of the university Tuesday, Dec. 23 until the reopening on Monday, Jan. 5. Questions or concerns, call ext. 3180.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Danette Brown, telecommunications, and Heather Wells, CMS.

Shared Leave

Shannon Miles, financial aid, and Elizabeth King Humphrey, university relations, need shared leave donations. Send vacation leave donations to Alice Maile in human resources.

Fall Semester Grading

SEAWEB will open for grading at 8 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 4. Grades are due at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 16.

Educator Award

Frank Ainsley, professor of earth sciences, received the 2003 North Carolina Educator of the Year award at the annual meeting of the Southeastern Division of the Association of American Geographers conference in Charlotte.

The North Carolina Geographical Society issues this award to recognize an educator who has made significant contributions to the development of geographic education within the state of North Carolina.

He has also received the 2003 H.H. Douglas Distinguished Service Award from the Pioneer America Society, an organization of geographers, historians and folk-life specialists who study material culture and vernacular landscapes.

Project of the Year

Stephen Skrabal and Robert Kieber, chemistry, received the "Project of the Year" award in the compliance program area from the Strategic Environmental Research and Development Program (SERDP). The award, presented in Washington, D.C., was for their project "Speciation, Fluxes, and Cycling of Dissolved Copper and Zinc in Estuaries: The Roles of Sediment-Water Exchange and Photochemical Effects."

Skrabal and Kieber were assisted in their work on this project by Robert F. Whitehead (former postdoctoral researcher in chemistry and now on the staff at CMS), Chris Shank (former UNC-CH Ph.D. student who completed his thesis at UNCW while working on this project), Kristie Lieseke (M.S. student) and Michelle Smith (M.S. student).

SERDP is a federal program jointly administered by the Department of Defense, Department of Energy and the Environmental Protection Agency.

that same time period to the 80th percentile of CUPA data would cost an average of $866,000 a year.

- UNCW must prevent the erosion of demonstrated quality in its programs and services. That could be done by bringing SPA and EPA salaries up to the median, at an average cost of $395,000 a year for five years.
- UNCW must reverse the recent practice of "flexing" faculty salary position funds for other purposes.
- UNCW must act to replace revenue lost by declining state appropriations. That would take $6.5 million over five years.
- UNCW must address student financial need caused by any increases in tuition and fees. That cost would be $4,350,000 over five years.

"The last thing I want to do is raise tuition for our students," Chancellor DePaolo said. "But it's the only way to maintain this university."

Dean Larry Clark noted that the quality of education at UNCW is at risk. It is "very, very critical to have an infusion of dollars to sustain our high quality," he said.

The complete PowerPoint presentation on the proposed tuition and fee increase is located at www.uncw.edu/chancellor/ppoint/open_forum_120503/.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Thomas N. Janicki, information systems, presented a paper at the Information Systems Educators Conference in San Diego. The paper "An Action Learning Model to Increase Critical Thinking Skills in an Asynchronous Learning Network Masters Information Systems Capstone Course" was co-authored with Al Burns of DePaul University in Chicago and won a Meritorious Paper Award at the 2003 conference.

Jack Hall, environmental studies, and Bill Kawczynski, SMEC, presented "North Carolina Examples of Earth/Environmental Requirements from the SCOS" at the 35th annual meeting of the N. C. Science Teachers Association in Greensboro Nov 13.

Sue Kezios, SMEC, Karen Shafer, SMEC, Bill Harris, earth sciences, and seven of the eight NSF GK-12 graduate fellows (Beth Reimer, Jeff Marshall, Joseph Martin, Byron Toothman, Brooke Landry, Tika Knierim and Courtney Hanby) presented "Science Fiction...Integrating Fiction into the Science Classroom" at the 35th annual meeting of the N. C. Science Teachers Association.

Sue Kezios, SMEC, presented "Science Fiction...Integrating Fiction into the Science Classroom" at the Continuous Improvement Conference for New Hanover County Schools Nov. 12.

Karen Shafer, SMEC, is the president-elect for the North Carolina Science Leadership Association. Her term begins in April 2004.

Karen Shafer, SMEC, and Jack Hall, environmental studies, received state awards at the 35th annual meeting of the N. C. Science Teachers Association. The awards were for Distinguished Service in Science Education in North Carolina. Shafer received her award for the administrator/supervisor category and Hall for the college/university category. The criteria for the award included exhibiting leadership in science education beyond the local administrative unit or position, contributing to improvements in science education beyond the local administrative unit or position and excelling in the aspects of science education relative to the category in which nominated.

Mike Perko, Melody Kyzer and Robert Boyce, HAHS, received $24,371 to develop worksite health promotion programming for Pharmaceutical Product Development (PPD).

Martin Posey, Troy Alphin, Heather Harwell and Bryan Allen, biological sciences, presented their research "Juvenile Blue Crab Distribution along an Estuarine Gradient: The Importance of Low Salinity Habitat" at the Estuarine Research Federation Biennial Meetings in Seattle, Wash.

Mark T. Imperial, political science, was designated by the Town of Wrightsville Beach and the N.C. Division of Coastal Management as the planner-in-charge of its land use plan update. Over the next two years he will work with Melinda Powell, a Master of Public Administration student, to revise and update the town's land use plan.

Regan E. Dumas, CPA, internal audit, was elected treasurer of the board of directors of Girls, Inc. of Wilmington.

Lynell Williams, university learning services, will attend the National Tutoring Association (NTA) conference in April, at which she will also present. UNCW's University Learning Services won the National Tutoring Week award contest sponsored by the NTA and accepted free conference registration as the prize.

John Whitehead, CSB, and a co-author wrote "Willingness to Pay for Submerged Maritime Cultural Resources" which appears in the Journal of Cultural Economics, Vol. 27, 2003, and, with two co-authors, wrote "Economic Effects of Pfiesteria" which appears in Ocean and Coastal Management Vol. 46, 2003.

Jack Hall, environmental studies, received the Distinguished University Science Educator in North Carolina at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Science Teachers Association.

Ned H. Martin, chemistry, presented a research poster "Computational Probes of Through-Space Magnetic Shielding Effects of Common Organic Functional Groups" coauthored by former undergraduate students David M. Loveless and Dustin C. Wade at the Southeastern Regional Meeting of the American Chemical Society in Atlanta.

In the winter 2003 issue of Wilmington Business to Business, Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo and Cathy Barlow, education, appeared in a photograph alongside N.C. Teachers Legacy Hall donors, including Grace Burton, education. Lynnea Mallalieu, CSB, was pictured with Cape Fear Sales and Marketing scholarship recipients in Wilmington Business to Business, winter 2003.

Awards Day Important Dates/Center for Leadership Education & Service

The Division of Student Affairs would like your help in recognizing exceptional undergraduate students who have made a significant contribution within and beyond our university community. Be aware that we are beginning this process earlier than last year. The award nomination information will be sent through campus mail the week of January 5. For those of you who want to get an earlier start, we will send it out via email by December 15. These nominations will be due on Wednesday, January 21. The Awards Day Program will be held on Wednesday, April 21 at 6:00pm in the Warwick Center Ballroom.

We advise you to go ahead and begin having conversations with your staff about the students you would like to nominate for the following awards:

- Senior Medallion Award (Senior)
- Distinguished Service Award (Senior)
- Leadership Excellence Award (Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior)
- William A. Bryan Senior Leader Award (Senior)
- Rachel Freeman Service Leadership Award (Senior)
- Lippitt New Student Leadership Scholarship (Freshmen)
- Martha M. Duncan Leadership Scholarship (Sophomore or Junior)
- ODK Leadership Award (Freshmen or Sophomore)

Please visit our web page at www.uncw.edu/stuaff/leadserv for a description of each award. We also suggest that you divide up who will write the awards for each student among your staff so that no one person is overloaded. If you have any questions, please contact the Center for Leadership Education & Service at x3877 and ask for Shelly Hoover. Again, we wanted to give you these dates early so that you could make appropriate plans. Thanks for your time.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

University Relations

Vol. XXIII No. 18 December 18, 2003

Elizabeth King Humphrey, Editor

New UNCW Trustee Appointed

Gov. Mike Easley appointed Terry Coffey of Wilmington to the University of North Carolina at Wilmington Board of Trustees.

Coffey is the president of Murphy-Brown East. Previously, he was president of Murphy Farms LLC. He is an adjunct professor at NC State University, serves on the board of directors for the American Society of Animal Science and serves as chairman of the N.C. Swine Health Committee for the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services. Coffey received his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Georgia.

Coffey replaces Frank Block who has served the UNCW Board of Trustees for the maximum allowed two consecutive four-year terms.

The board provides oversight to assure that the university performs at a high level of excellence and serves the state in a way that will complement the activities of the other institutions. The UNCW board has 12 members who each serve four-year terms; the 13th trustee is the president of the Student Government Association.

2004-05 Faculty Research Reassignment Awards

The College of Arts and Sciences announces the following faculty research reassignment awards for the 2004-05 academic year:

Frank Ainsley, earth sciences; Susan Bullers, sociology and criminal justice; Andrea Deagon, foreign languages and literatures; Elizabeth Ervin, English; Darrell Irwin, sociology and criminal justice; Stephen Kinsey, biological sciences; Lynn Leonard, earth sciences; Keith Newlin, English; Lisa Pollard, history; Peter Thomas, foreign languages and literatures; Robert Toplin, history; and Deborah Brunson, communications.

Trustees Okay Tuition Hike

At their meeting Friday, the UNCW Board of Trustees approved a $360-a-year tuition hike for the next two years. The rate hike is a 21 percent increase for the 2004-05 academic year. The UNC Board of Governors is expected to focus on tuition increases during its January meeting. Any increase for UNCW would need the approval of the UNC Board of Governors.

The UNCW Board of Trustees also voted to increase student fees and room and board rates.

Joanne Rockness Designated as Faculty Athletics Representative

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo appointed Joanne Rockness to serve as the NCAA faculty athletics representative for UNCW effective immediately.

In a letter to Rockness announcing the appointment, DePaolo wrote, "Your genuine interest in the overall welfare of our student athletes, as well as your past involvement as chair of our faculty athletics council, uniquely qualifies you as the right person to replace Dr. James Sabella due to his retirement from the university. I know you recognize the leadership and commitment that James brought to this role; I am certain that you will be able also to provide me the necessary guidance and counsel in addressing the academic welfare of our student athletes."

James Sabella will enter phased retirement in 2004.

Computing Down

All university computing resources and the data network, including access to the Internet, will be down from 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20 until 9 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21 due to a power outage related to the primary electrical distribution improvement project.

Animal Care and Use Program

Monday, Jan. 19 is the deadline for submitting required forms for IACUC review of any educational or research activities involving vertebrate animals. The IACUC meeting for the spring semester will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 29. The IACUC has approved new protocol and renewal forms, which are available at www.uncw.edu/ora/forms.htm. Researchers must submit a signed, hard copy and an electronic copy to Tiffany Mattson, sponsored programs, mattson.t. Protocols received after Jan. 19 may be delayed pending IACUC approval at a future meeting.

Human Subjects Research

Monday, Jan. 12 is the deadline for protocols for research with human subjects to receive full review by the IRB. The IRB meeting for the spring semester will be held at 8:30 a.m. Monday, Jan. 26. The IRB has approved new protocol and renewal forms, which are available at www.uncw.edu/ora/irb.htm. Researchers must submit a signed, hard copy and an electronic copy of all relevant materials to Tiffany Mattson, sponsored programs, mattson.t. Protocols received after Jan. 12 may be delayed pending IRB approval at a future meeting.

AV Renewal Changes

Due to the high demand of Randall Library's audio/visual (AV) collection and in an effort to make more items available, the library is instituting a change in its renewal policy. Starting with the spring semester, renewals for videos, DVDs, CDs and audio books will be limited to two per item. Additionally, to encourage prompt return by the due date or a renewal, the overdue charge for AV materials will be raised from $0.50 to $1 per day, up to a maximum of $10. Faculty needing AV materials for a longer period for use with classes may contact the Reserve Desk to make arrangements to either place items on course reserve or to book the material for a specific time.

Teaching in the Learning Communities

Faculty interested in teaching in the Learning Communities program, are invited to stop by between 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 9 in the Warwick Center, Center Stage Café. There will be 10-minute presentations about the program at 2:30 and 3:30 p.m., and Learning Communities Steering Committee members will be on hand to answer questions.

Copyright Information

Eileen Goldgeier, general counsel, has invited David Harrison, associate vice president for legal affairs at UNC Office of the President, and Peggy Hoon, scholarly communications librarian at NC State, to present a workshop on Copyright Essentials for Educators. The workshop will be held from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday, Jan. 26 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. The target audience is faculty, research associates and graduate students.

Free MAT Testing

For a limited time, beginning Monday, Jan. 5, the National Testing Program will offer the Miller Analogies Test (MAT) at no charge. The student must agree to take two versions of the MAT, one paper/pencil and one computerized. A $60 check, payable to UNCW, is held at the beginning of the first test and returned to the student after the second test is completed. For more information call the National Testing Program office at ext. 7444.

Volunteer Hours

Each semester the Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) compiles a report on the number of service/volunteer hours performed by UNCW students. These figures, available upon request, have been useful for things such as supportive data for grants, information for media articles and more.

For each of the past two years, CLES has documented 30,000 plus hours, but these numbers reflect only those which have been submitted to CLES. Staff and faculty who know of students who participated in service during this fall semester should let CLES know. Also, individuals who were involved in a class with a component of volunteering or who advised a student organization that volunteers in the community should contact Becky Long, community service coordinator, about reporting hours at ext. 3043 or e-mail longb.

Nursing Accreditation

Written and signed comments about the UNCW School of Nursing are invited through Jan. 9. Direct comments to: Carol Gilbert, Ph.D., RN, Associate Director, National League for Nursing Accrediting Commission, Inc., 61 Broadway - 33rd Floor, New York, NY 10006. The commission will review UNCW for national accreditation on Feb. 10 to 12.

Faculty/Staff Game

Thursday, Jan. 1 is UNCW faculty/staff appreciation day for men's basketball. Tickets can be purchased for $2 each with a UNCW ID. The Seahawks will host James Madison at 2 p.m. in Trask Coliseum. For more information, call ext. 7536.

Proposals Needed

The Learning Communities Steering Committee is seeking proposals for Learning Communities (LC) courses to be taught to first-year students in fall 2004. The deadline is Thursday, Jan. 15. Proposals should link two Basic Studies courses. Stipends of $2,000 will be available to faculty members who have not taught in the LC program before; those who have will receive a $1,000 stipend. For guidelines and complete details visit the General College Web site at www.uncw.edu/gc/.

UNCW versus NCSU

Tickets for the upcoming UNC Wilmington-NC State men's basketball game on Saturday, Jan. 3 are on sale in the athletic ticket office in Trask Coliseum.

A limited number of tickets are on sale at $10 each for the game at the RBC Center in Raleigh.

The athletic ticket office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

SRC Schedule

The Student Recreation Center hours during intersession are: closed Friday, Dec. 19 to Sunday, Dec. 21; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, Dec. 22; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 23; closed Wednesday, Dec. 24 through Saturday, Jan. 3; 4 to 10 p.m. Jan. 4; 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 5 and 6.

The rec swim hours are: 12 to 2 p.m. through Friday, Dec. 19; closed Saturday, Dec. 20 to Saturday, Jan. 3; 12 to 2 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 5 and 6.

Holiday Hours

The University Union and Warwick Center hours during the intersession are: 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. through Friday, Dec. 19; closed Saturday, Dec. 20 and Sunday, Dec. 21; 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 22 and Tuesday, Dec. 23; closed Dec. 24 to Jan. 3; 5 p.m. to 12 a.m. Sunday, Jan. 4.

Randall Library Hours

During intersession, the library is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Friday, Dec. 19; closed Saturday and Sunday Dec. 20 and 21; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday Dec. 22 and 23; closed Wednesday, Dec. 24 through Sunday, Jan. 4; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 5 and 6; 7 a.m. to 12 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 7 (regular semester hours begin).

Celebrate at the EDC

The UNCW Executive Development Center (EDC) at Landfall is available for holiday functions. The EDC offers a full-range of catering, event planning and convenient parking in its state-of-the-art meeting facility. The center can accommodate up to 150 banquet style or from 10 to 200 people reception style. Call ext. 3578 for information, including available university-discounted rates.

Planned Construction Activities

From now until Dec. 19:

- Expect temporary interruptions in vehicle and pedestrian traffic as cabling is pulled in manholes from Hoggard to DeLoach halls and along Randall Drive.
- Excavation work may affect traffic along Reynolds Drive at the School of Education site.
- Auxiliary services parking lot and the service parking area east of the University Union will be paved.

In order to complete the primary electrical distribution improvement project, scheduled power outages will take place during weekends and winter break:

Warwick and Burney centers; James, Alderman, Hoggard and Hanover halls	Dec. 20-21
King Hall, Randall Library	Dec. 28
Kenan Hall, DeLoach Hall, Kenan Auditorium	Dec. 29-30
Bear, Morton and Leutze halls	Dec. 30-31
University Union and Social and Behavioral Sciences Building	Dec. 31-Jan. 1

As a precaution, faculty and staff members may want to unplug electrical equipment and backup computer files before the power disruptions in their buildings.

FRS System Down

The FRS System will be down Wednesday, Dec. 23 in preparation for the year-end accounts payable closing.

The e-Print System will be available for viewing departmental reports on the Web.

December Pay Dates

The December end-of-month payroll will be paid Friday, Dec. 19. The mid-month payroll was paid Monday, Dec. 15. If you have any questions, contact the Payroll Department at ext. 3163.

Holiday Schedule

The university will be closed for winter break on Wednesday, Dec. 24 through Sunday, Jan. 4. Holidays during this period are Dec. 24, 25, 26, 29 and Jan. 1. Required vacation days are Dec. 30 and 31 and Jan. 2. Employees may use vacation or bonus leave or accrued comp time for the required days. Supervisors are encouraged to allow employees who do not have sufficient time accrued for the required days to record "negative comp time" and make the time up.

Central Receiving Hours

Central receiving is closed during the entire holiday break, and there will be no receiving or delivery from the closing of the university Tuesday, Dec. 23 until the reopening on Monday, Jan. 5. Call ext. 3180 with questions or concerns.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Dana Harris, student account services; Edward Jeffrey, printing services; Abby Knight, student development services, and Debra Simpson, School of Nursing.

FedEx Reminder

There is a Federal Express drop box located on G Street and Reigel Road.

Recycle Cartridges

Inkjet and toner cartridges can be recycled. Contact central stores at ext. 3180 or George Syles at ext. 3097 for information as to how they can be picked up for recycling.

The Campus Communique will not be published the following dates, due to the university holiday schedule:
Thursday, Dec. 25
Thursday, Jan. 1

Student Awards 2004

Awards nomination forms and information may be found at www.uncw.edu/news/communique/2003/dec/11/awards.pdf. The deadline is Wednesday, Jan. 21.

Web Page Managers

TECHNOLOGY CORNER

The Technology Corner from ITSD serves as an area highlighting items of interest for faculty and staff. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

Still Time for Holiday Purchases

For more information about faculty and staff Dell purchasing select: www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/purchases_faculty.html. Dell's Holiday Wish List promotion runs through Friday, Dec. 19 which offers a mail-in rebate of up to $150.

Faculty and staff are also entitled to a copy of Microsoft Office and Windows for home machines, as well as Norton Anti-Virus. Bring two blank CD's for MS Office and one for Windows XP/2000 and/or one for Norton to the Technology Assistance Center. The TAC is located in Hoggard 201. Allow five business days for copies, to allow for the holiday rush.

End of Year-Reminder

For 2004, ITSD suggests backing up hard drive files before leaving for the holidays by using floppies, CD-RW's, CD's or Zip drives to copy documents and files for safe storage. Also use an anti-virus program and get system and program updates from Microsoft by selecting the START>Windows Update or go to: <http://v4.windowsupdate.microsoft.com/en/default.asp>. For more information, visit www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/virus.html.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Mimi Cunningham, university relations, in the winter 2003 issue of Wilmington Business to Business, wrote a column about the recent Chinese translation of the eighth edition of Management Information Systems written by George Schell, CSB, and Raymond McLeod Jr., University of Texas at Austin.

Jack B. Levy, chemistry, co-authored "Structure and Thermodynamics of the Tin Dichloride Dimer - A Computational Study," with Gabor Jancso of the Atomic Energy Research Institute of Hungary and Magdolna Hargittai of Eotvos University in Hungary, which appears in the Journal of Physical Chemistry A (2003, 107, 10450-10455). Hargittai received an honorary doctorate degree from UNCW, and this is the third paper she and Levy have co-authored.

Mark T. Imperial, political science, served as a facilitator for the Town of Wrightsville Beach's Better Beach Committee, which was formed to try and identify solutions to problems such as noise and disruptive behavior in the downtown area during the summer months.

Karen Thompson, career services, co-chaired the Southeastern U.S. Association of Colleges and Employers annual conference in Norfolk. The association includes college career services professionals and corporate recruiters from 10 southern states.

Leslie Wright, career services, served as co-chair of local arrangements for the Southeastern Association of Colleges and Employers annual conference in Norfolk.

Mark T. Imperial, political science, was invited to serve on the editorial board of Environmental Management. His three-year term will be from January 2004 to December 2006.

Philip Furia, creative writing, talked about his biography of songwriter Johnny Mercer on National Public Radio's Fresh Air with Terry Gross Dec. 4, on WUNC radio Dec. 1 and wrote and narrated Jeepers Creepers: The Life and Songs of Johnny Mercer, a cabaret show at Le Chat Noir dinner theatre in New Orleans with chanteuse Banu Gibson and her New Orleans Jazz Trio Nov. 30.

Lavonne Adams, Karen Bender, Barbara Brannon, Mark Cox, Clyde Edgerton, Philip Furia, Philip Gerard, Robert Siegel, creative writing, and Dave Monahan, film studies, led sessions and gave readings at the annual conference of the North Carolina Writers' Network, held in Wilmington Nov. 14-16. Chancellor emeritus James R. Leutze introduced the keynote speaker, Andrei Codrescu. The UNCW Publishing Laboratory conducted a PowerPoint presentation on "Publishing As a Creative Act: Print-on-Demand Technology in UNCW's Publishing Laboratory." Several MFA students assisted with conference logistics.

Barbara Brannon, creative writing, presented a session on "Taking the Mystery out of Print-on-Demand" at the Cape Fear Crime Festival, a gathering of crime and mystery writers, held in Wilmington Oct. 31-Nov. 1.

Steve Perry, ITSD, completed the two-year N.C. Public Manager Program.

Carmelo Tomas, biological sciences and CMS, and Leigh Zimmermann, a master's student in marine science, attended the second symposium on Harmful Marine Algae in the U.S. held Dec. 9-13 at Woods Hole, Mass. Tomas presented "Observations on Mixotrophic Feeding by the Two Autotrophic HAB Species Amphidinium carterae and Prymnesium parvum in Estuarine Waters," and Zimmermann presented "The Growth and Survival of the Coastal dinoflagellate, Gyrodinium instriatum, in Different Salinities."

Todd Berliner, film studies, has a review of the book Cassavetes on Cassavetes appearing in the October-December 2003 edition of Quarterly Review of Film and Video.

James Merritt and Steve Ross, CMS, received $138,191 to monitor tasks of the N.C. National Estuarine Research Reserve in a continuation of the partnership between DENR and UNCW.

Cathy Barlow and Karen Wetherill, education, received $47,340 from the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics to implement the "NCTM-Marco-Polo Bringing Online Content and Training to Teachers in Underserved Neighborhoods and the Nation" grant.

Eleanor Covan, gerontology, received $16,500 from the Taylor & Francis Journals for editor services for the journal Health Care for Women International.

Arthur Frankel, social work, received $5,040 from Wilmington HUD to fund an evaluation of the "Kids Making It" program, a woodworking program involving children at risk.

MEMORANDUM

To: UNCW Faculty

From: John W. Myers, Associate Director, UNCW Honors Scholars Program

"Tis the Season" to begin thinking about what you will teach in Fall 2004. Schedules will be due toward the end of January. This is just to jump start the process, by asking you to stick the information below in your personal database and let it percolate around up there. I will be back in touch with all of you in January with a more formal request. Take a minute to consider teaching in honors. The advantages are many:

- small classes
- a chance to experiment with a favorite subject in a seminar format
- the opportunity to explore the subject in more depth and in different ways than in a general education class
- the ability to incorporate more hands-on experiences in the form of local field trips, often with honors program support, and to places beyond (e.g.: the possibility of designing a course which fits with the honors fall lyceum trip to Washington, DC).
- bright students
- overload pay for HON 120 and HON 210

If you are so inspired, I encourage you to express your desire to your department chair and seek her/his approval to include such a course in the Fall 2004 course schedule. If you would like to design and teach a course for honors students, please consider submitting a proposal for any of the following options:

Honors Basic Studies (3hrs):

Honors 120 Enrichment Seminars (1hr)

Honors 210 Interdisciplinary Seminar (3hrs)

Honors Basic Studies is usually taught as part of an instructor's regular course load. Honors 120 and 210 are paid as overload at the current rates for part-time teaching. The Honors homepage contains lengthier descriptions of each of these options as well as additional information regarding the program. Go to (<http://www.uncw.edu/honors/>) and click on "Faculty Teaching Opportunities and Course Proposal Form." If you have additional questions about any of these options for teaching in the Honors Scholars Program, do not hesitate to contact me by email (myersj@uncw.edu), or at 962-3528. Please consider sharing some of your enthusiasm for your profession with these talented new scholars. Then, fill out the attached UNCW HONORS COURSE PROPOSAL FORM, get your chair's approval, and return it to me, at the latest, when your schedule requests are due in your own academic department.

With Best Wishes for a happy and healthful Holiday Season,

John

SUMMER 2003

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT WILMINGTON

The Excitement is Building at UNCW

Last year, we took the first steps in the largest construction effort in UNCW history. And while everyone on campus will experience the inconveniences of the construction process, we are beginning to experience the benefits as well. Yes, there are traffic delays, but there is also a new state-of-the-art residence hall!

To mitigate inconveniences and keep progress on track, items such as road/lane closings and water outages are executed at times of lowest impact – evenings, semester breaks and holidays– whenever possible.

We want everyone, especially students and parents, to be fully informed about all aspects of the construction. This newsletter will give you a quick overview of the progress made to date, safety tips and the locations of departments and services moved due to construction. Thank you for your patience during our growing pains and look for more updates throughout this time of unparalleled facilities growth at UNCW.

Tim Jordan
Vice Chancellor Business Affairs

Keeping the Communication Lines Open

As construction continues, students, faculty and staff will be notified by

- E-mail
- Newsletters
- Web site (www.uncw.edu/ba/facilities)
- Signage

Check your e-mails and visit our Web site often to stay informed about all the exciting changes happening at UNCW!

Work Alters Traffic Patterns and Parking

Some of the most visible construction work is occurring in the heart of campus. As we prepare to break ground on the new student union building, utility work vital to this and other projects will be concentrated in the University Union and Burney Student Support Center area. Trenching for the primary electric distribution system improvement project will be ongoing across campus.

In addition to these projects, some others that will impact the center of campus include the Computer Information Systems building, an addition to Hoggard Hall and the Westside Hall renovations. Traffic flows will be altered, and parking areas will be affected by construction staging. As work progresses, students, faculty and staff will be notified via the methods mentioned above.

| ➤ Student Health Services | ➤ UNCW Pharmacy |
| ➤ Crossroads | ➤ Counseling Center |
| ➤ Disability Services | ➤ National Testing Services |
| ➤ Student Development Services | ➤ University Relations |

These departments moved in August from Westside Hall to Friday Hall Annex, a new building behind Friday Hall (see map, back page). Please note that parking spaces are provided at the front of Friday Hall Annex for persons with disabilities and medical emergencies. All others should park in Q Lot (see map). A sidewalk and additional lighting are being installed to create a convenient, safe access from the parking lot.

➤ Dittos...The Copy Spot

Our full-service copy center has moved from Westside to Warwick Center, adjacent to the Post Office. Same great service now in a location convenient to students as well as faculty and staff.

➤ Seahawk Shuttle stop

Currently located in the University Union circle, this stop will be relocated to the back of parking lot E (see map) in preparation for the union expansion project. This new stop will give students closer shuttle access to the Campus Commons and Randall Library.

New Parking Lots and Shuttles

Also new for the upcoming academic year are two parking lots.

- Parking Lot M with 187 spaces
- Park-and-Ride Lot with 300+ spaces

Please note that with the addition of the Park-and-Ride lot across College Road, we are also adding another Seahawk Shuttle route. The safety and convenience of our students is our primary concern. With free shuttles running from the Park-and-Ride lot to campus every 7-8 minutes, there should be no pedestrian traffic from the parking lot across this busy city thoroughfare. For more information about parking or to register your vehicle, visit us online at www.uncw.edu/ba/parking_trans.

Policies and Procedures for Mass E-mails to Students

The Division of Student Affairs would like to take this opportunity to remind the faculty and staff of the approved policies and procedures for sending mass e-mails to our students.

1. All mass e-mail messages to students will be reviewed by the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs, or her designee, to ensure that they are appropriate and timely. Message requests must be submitted at least five working days prior to the proposed distribution date.
2. Messages must be succinct, clearly indicate who is sending the message, who the message is to go to, and who should receive any reply.
3. In-depth or lengthy information is to be posted on a Web site with a link provided in the text of the mass e-mail message. The size of any single e-mail is limited to one or two paragraphs. No attachments may be used.
4. Messages can only come from UNCW faculty, staff, or officially registered student groups, and are to be used for official university business only. No commercial messages will be transmitted.
5. Faculty or staff needing to send a mass e-mail will e-mail the exact message to student_info@uncw.edu. Officially registered student clubs or organizations wishing to send a mass e-mail message must get the approval of their president, then the University Union Associate Director for Campus Activities and Involvement. The University Union Associate Director will then forward the request to the student_info account. The requester should follow up with a phone call to 962-7431 to inform them that a message request has been sent.
6. Mass e-mails to students may be sent to all students, a specific classification of students (freshmen, sophomores, juniors, seniors, graduate students), or specific academic category (by college, by major, or graduating students). These categories may be combined, i.e. seniors in biology, etc. Additional lead-time must be allowed for specialized mailing lists.
7. A disclaimer may be included at the end of a message: "The granting of the privilege of electronic distribution of this message does not imply any endorsement or support for the views expressed in this advertised program by the University of North Carolina at Wilmington."
8. Message approved for distribution to students also will be forwarded to ITSD staff for posting on the Campus Pipeline announcements Web page.
9. Any faculty, staff member or student group whose message is not approved for transmittal will be notified, and may appeal to the Student Affairs Technology and Web Team.

Freshmen2003@UNCW

The Division of Student Affairs and Institutional Research administer a survey to all incoming freshman at the end of their Orientation session. This year approximately 1,600 students responded and the following is some of the information gained from that survey. We hope that the publication of this information can help all of us better serve our students and better understand the "Freshmen2003@UNCW".

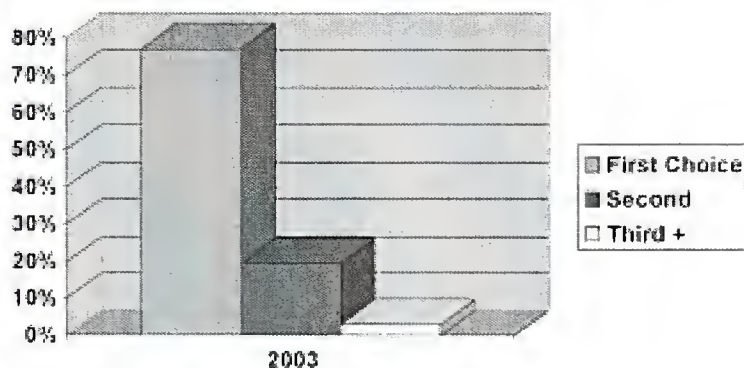

The following reasons were important to students in their decision to attend college. They are listed in order of importance and have remained consistent over the last three years.

- Earn a degree
- Fulfill parent's expectations
- Become a better person
- Develop a better understanding of diversity
- Being financially well-off
- Participate in community projects
- Become authority in my field
- Become a community leader

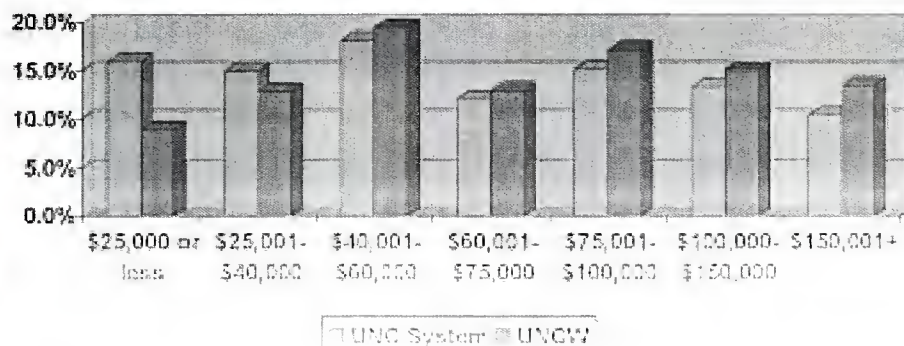

Number of colleges to which students applied for 2003-2004

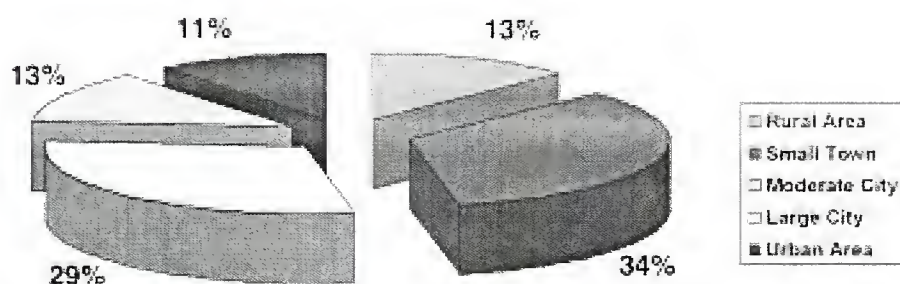

UNCW's rank among the colleges to which students applied

Parent's combined pre-tax income for 2002

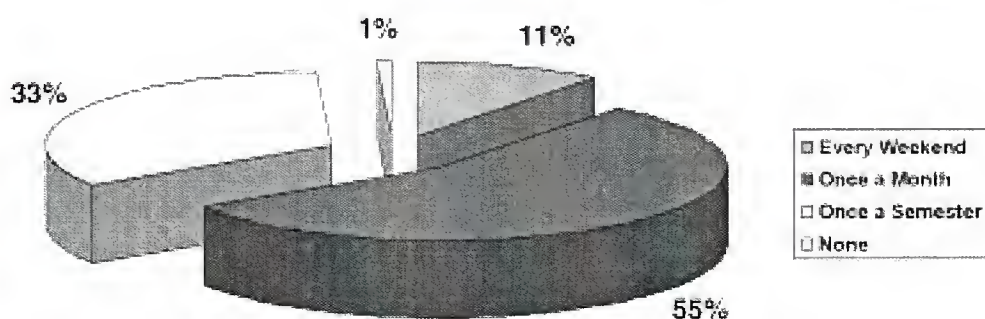

Area lived in during high school

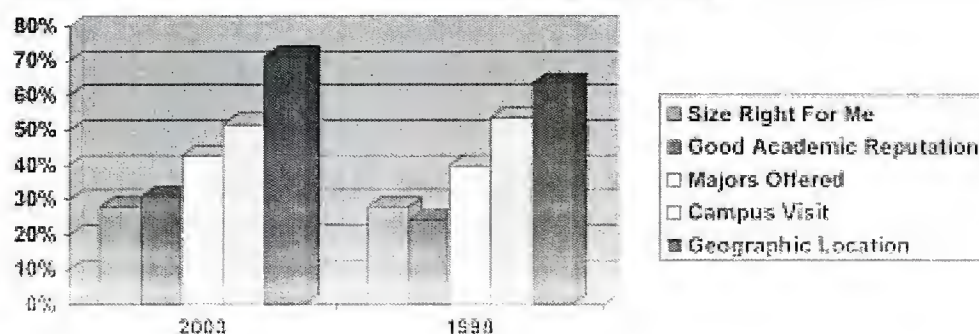

58% of freshman surveyed indicated that they had traveled outside of the United States for varying lengths of time.

Student's expectation for going home during freshman year

Data for this question has been consistent over the past three years.

Most important reasons for choosing UNCW

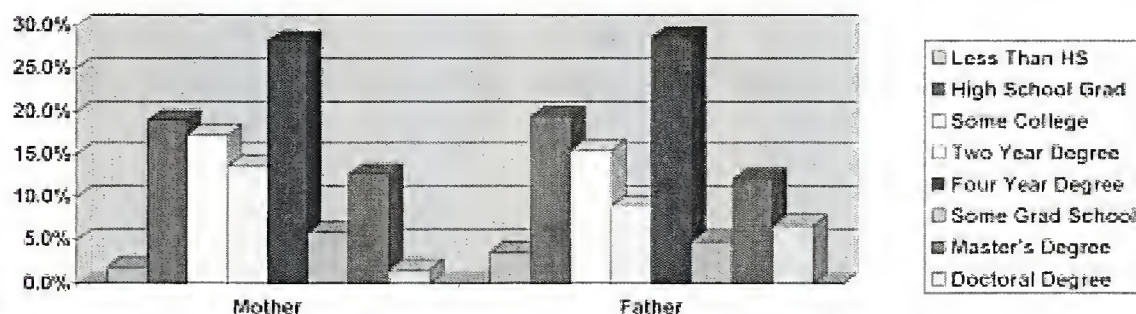

These top five reasons for choosing UNCW have remained the same each of the past six years. However, within those five, Academic Reputation and Location have become more important, and Size has become less important.

The following resources were important to students when making their decision to come to UNCW. They are listed in order of importance and have remained consistent over the last three years.

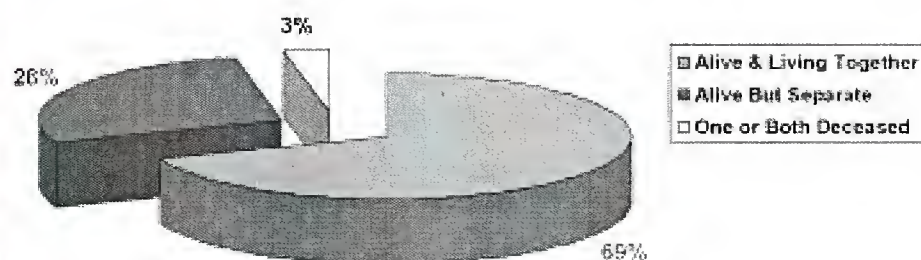

- Freshman Orientation
- UNCW Website
- Campus Tour
- Visitation Day

Educational attainment of parents or guardian

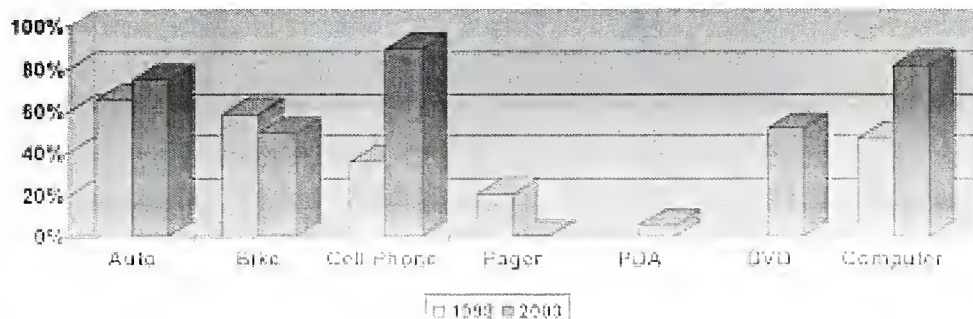

This fall, 9.8% of UNCW freshmen are the first in their family to attend college. Over the past four years, this figure has ranged from 7.8% in 2002, to 10.7% in 2000.

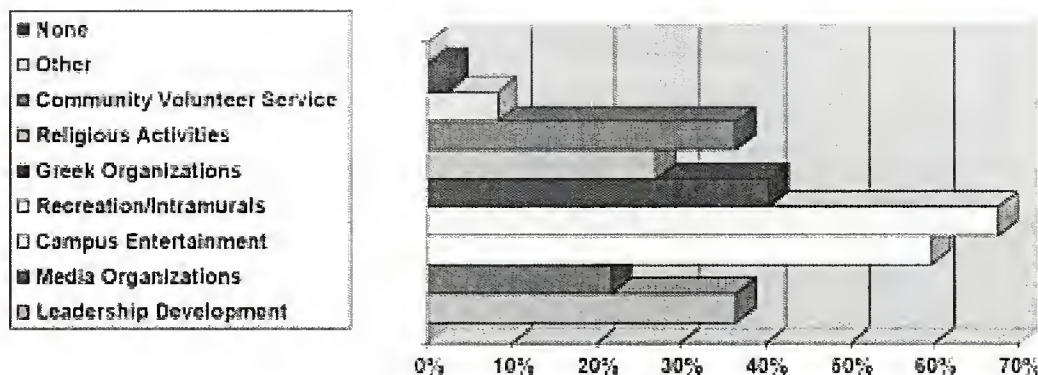

Parent's life status

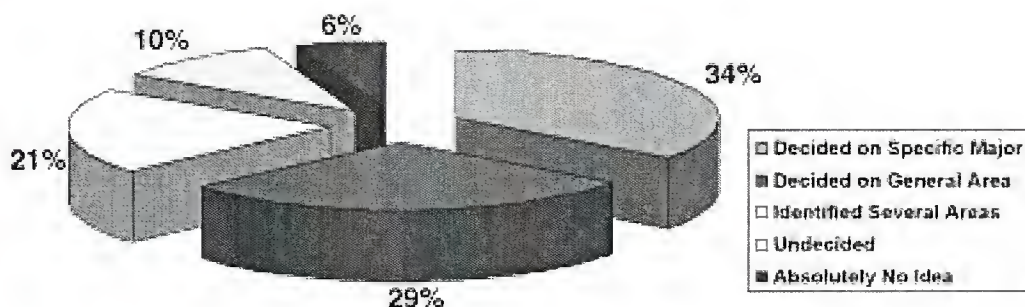

Items students said they would bring to campus in the fall

Extra-curricular activities of interest to the student

Students expressed the following regarding having decided on a college major

Data for this question has been consistent over the past three years.

Gov't Orange Alert Impacts UNCW

Fans attending upcoming UNC Wilmington men's basketball games are advised to arrive early because of parking delays caused by the elevation of the nation's security level to orange.

The Seahawks, who began a three-game homestand Wednesday with a 7 p.m. matchup against William & Mary, play five of their next seven contests in Wilmington.

Parking areas affected by the alert include Eaton Plaza and the front of "K" lot adjacent to Trask Coliseum.

Campus Police Sergeant Earns Life Saving Award

Sgt. Robert Moulton received a Life Saving Award Medal earlier this week for saving a life in December. While responding to an emergency call, Sgt. Moulton found an unconscious and unresponsive female. He contacted the Emergency Medical Service and, while awaiting their arrival, the woman stopped breathing. He immediately began rescue breathing until paramedics arrived and the woman was soon revived and taken to the hospital.

Sgt. Robert K. Moulton (center) receives the Life Saving Award Medal from Chief of Police David Donaldson (left) and Special Assistant to the Chancellor Max Allen (right) at Tuesday's ceremony.

Scholarship Endowed

The Boseman-TenHuisen Scholarship, the first merit scholarship to benefit students of the University of North Carolina at Wilmington's PRIDE organization, became fully endowed as of Dec. 12. Devon Crosbie, a senior from Fayetteville, is the first recipient of the scholarship and will receive $500.

According to Bo Dean, the scholarship endowment process began in August 2002 and has received speedy funding, under the requisite two-year limit.

The scholarship was created to assist UNCW students who, because of their sexual orientation, lost family funding or support to attend the university. The scholarship is named in honor of Ann Boseman and Professor Matthew TenHuisen who support both UNCW and the LGBT (lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender) communities. The organizers suggest that Boseman and TenHuisen demonstrate those qualities and traits that the scholarship attempts to recognize.

Correction

In the Campus Communique of December 18, the Department of Communication Studies was erroneously referred to as Communications.

Animal Care and Use

Monday, Jan. 19 is the deadline for submitting required forms for IACUC review of any educational or research activities involving vertebrate animals. The IACUC meeting for the spring semester will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 29. The IACUC has approved new protocol and renewal forms, which are available at www.uncw.edu/ora/forms.htm. Researchers must submit a signed, hard copy and an electronic copy to Tiffany Mattson, sponsored programs, mattson.t. Protocols received after January 19 may have to be delayed pending IACUC approval at a future meeting.

Nursing Accreditation

Written and signed comments about the UNCW School of Nursing are invited through Jan. 9. Direct comments to: Carol Gilbert, Ph.D., RN, Associate Director, National League for Nursing Accrediting Commission, Inc., 61 Broadway - 33rd Floor, New York, NY 10006. The commission will review UNCW for national accreditation on Feb. 10 to 12.

Human Subjects Research

Monday, Jan. 12 is the deadline for protocols for research with human subjects in order to receive full review by the IRB. The IRB meeting for the spring semester will be held at 8:30 a.m. Monday, Jan. 26. The IRB has approved new protocol and renewal forms, which are available at www.uncw.edu/ora/irb.htm. Researchers must submit a signed, hard copy and an electronic copy of all relevant materials to Tiffany Mattson, office of sponsored programs, mattson.t. Protocols received after January 12 may have to be delayed pending IRB approval at a future meeting.

AV Renewal Changes

Due to the high demand of Randall Library's audio/visual (AV) collection and in an effort to make more items available, the library is instituting a change in its renewal policy. Starting with the spring semester, renewals for videos, DVDs, CDs and audio books will be limited to two per item. Additionally, to encourage prompt return by the due date or a renewal, the overdue charge for AV materials will be raised from $0.50 per day to $1 per day, up to a maximum of $10. Faculty needing AV materials for a longer loan period for use with classes may contact the Reserve Desk to make arrangements to either place items on course reserve or to book the material for a specific time.

Teaching in the Learning Communities

Faculty interested in teaching in the Learning Communities program, should plan to visit from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 9 in the Center Stage Café, Warwick Center. There will be a 10-minute presentation about the program at 2:30 p.m. and at 3:30 p.m., and Learning Communities Steering Committee members will be on hand to answer questions.

Awards Clarification

A recent mailing from Center for Leadership Education and Service misstated the graduating year for the recipient of the Senior Medallion Award. Page 3 of the memorandum should read: "Any undergraduate student who will graduate within the calendar year of designation is eligible for consideration (May & December 2004 graduates)."

Contact Shelly Hoover, CLES, at ext. 3877 or hhoovers. The deadline for award nominations is Wednesday, Jan. 21.

Free MAT Testing

For a limited time the National Testing Program will offer the Miller Analogies Test (MAT) for free. The student must agree to take two versions of the MAT, one paper/pencil and one computerized. A $60 check, payable to UNCW, is held at the beginning of the first test and returned to the student after the second test is completed. For more information call the National Testing Program office at ext. 7444.

Copyright Information

The Chancellor's Office, Academic Affairs and the Graduate School will host the "Copyright Essentials for Educators" workshop from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday, Jan. 26 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. This workshop will present an overview of copyright law, including the fair use doctrine and its application to the on-line world and multimedia. In addition, course packs, E-reserves, peer-to-peer file sharing and the Digital Millennium Act will be discussed. The speakers are NCSU Libraries Scholarly Communication Librarian Peggy Hoon and Associate Vice President for Legal Affairs at the UNC Office of the President David Harrison. Eileen Goldgeier, UNCW's general counsel, will moderate the program.

Proposals Needed

The Learning Communities Steering Committee is seeking proposals for Learning Communities (LC) courses to be taught to first-year students in fall 2004. The deadline is Thursday, Jan. 15. Proposals should link two basic studies courses. Stipends of $2,000 will be available to faculty members who have not taught in the LC program before; those who have will receive a $1,000 stipend. For guidelines and complete details visit the General College Web site at www.uncw.edu/gc/.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Arthur Frankel, social work, received $25,000 from New Hanover County Schools to evaluate the effectiveness of a community after-school program on the end of grade scores for up to 1,000 children, grades K through 8 in New Hanover County schools.

Lawrence Cahoon, biological sciences, received $6,486 from N.C. Sea Grant to study the effects of beach renourishment on the biomass and distribution of benthic microalgae on ocean beaches in southeastern North Carolina.

David Webster, biological sciences, received $27,567 from New Hanover County to continue monitoring colonial waterbird and shorebird nesting productivity at Mason Inlet.

Martin Posey and Troy Alphin, biological sciences and CMS, David Meyer, biological sciences and National Marine Fisheries Service, and John Johnson, UNCW alumnus, had their paper, "Benthic Communities of Common Reed Phragmites australis and Marsh Cordgrass Spartina alterniflora Marshes in Chesapeake Bay" published in the journal Marine Ecology Progress Series.

Mike Lloyd, campus services, is the interim manager for postal services and has successfully completed all the U.S. Postal Services' executive mail center manager certification exams and requirements.

Beetle Raffle

Raffle tickets are available at the University Union information desk for the 2003 sunflower yellow VW Seahawk Beetle donated by UNCW alumnus Bob King. The car is being raffled to raise $50,000 or more for merit-based scholarships through the UNCW Alumni Association. Tickets are $25. The winner will be chosen in a random drawing Saturday, Jan. 24 at the Homecoming men's basketball game. For information, contact the Office of Alumni Relations at ext. 2682.

Web Page Reminder

Reminder to Web developers: All UNCW Web homepages should use the new UNCW header by the beginning of the spring semester. Details are at www.uncw.edu/admin/style.html.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

This section, formerly Bookstore Notes, features information of interest to faculty and staff about business and support services. For information about Business Briefs, contact Brenda Riegel, ext. 7252.

UNCW Bookstore

The UNCW Bookstore now has a faculty textbook hotline. The line, ext. 3191, does not go to voicemail, but will continue to ring until a textbook representative can answer. To help get the new semester off to a successful start, faculty are requested to contact the bookstore immediately with any course changes which may affect quantities.

Contact the hotline at ext. 3191, the textbook department at ext. 7228 or Andy Shaffer, store manager, at ext. 7187 with any questions or concerns.

Environmental Health & Safety

Environmental Health and Safety (EH&S) is offering a variety of training courses during the first quarter of 2004. Contact Joan Greene at ext. 3057 for registration and further information, or for custom training needs. EH&S can now accept individual payment for CPR course fees. Unless otherwise noted, all classes are held in the EH&S Training Room in the Warehouse Extension on Plyler Drive. For a full listing, visit www.uncw.edu/safety/training.htm.

- 5:30 - 10 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, Jan. 12 through 28 CPR/Automatic External Defibrillator/First Aid Instructors Course - American Red Cross hosted ($125)

Lunch Buffet

Tuesday, Jan. 13 - Baked polenta with marinated tomatoes, turkey breast with pan gravy and cornbread stuffing, whole kernel corn, and green bean casserole.

Planned Construction Activities

Expect delays and possible road closures on the west side of Warwick Center at the corner of Lot E during the week of January 11.

The construction is due to the removal of the existing electrical switches and old substation located behind Warwick Center and Hoggard Hall.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Aaron Asbury, UNCW television; Amy Burkhammer, health and applied human sciences; Lisa Danner, athletics; Julie Gemelke, postal services; and Susan Gulko, purchasing services.

Mileage Rate Change

Effective January 1, 2004, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has increased the business standard mileage rate from 36 cents per mile to 37.5 cents per mile.

In accordance with the Office of State Budget and Management, the university will increase the allowable rate of reimbursement for travel from 36 cents per mile to 37.5 cents per mile, effective January 1, 2004.

There are no changes in the previously published university exception policy to the 22 cents per mile rate for employees who choose to use personal vehicles when a state-owned vehicle is available.

Save the Date

The installation of Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo is planned for 10 a.m. Friday, April 16 on the UNCW campus.

Future editions of the Campus Communique will contain more installation information.

50th Anniversary Events

The Martin Luther King Commemoration and the university's focus on the 50th anniversary of the Brown v. Board of Education decision will kick-off Thursday, Jan. 22.

The Office of Campus Diversity is sponsoring a program which includes two songs by the UNCW Gospel Choir, "Voices of Praise" and a 7 p.m. lecture in Kenan Auditorium by Juan Williams, senior correspondent for National Public Radio and author of Thurgood Marshall: American Revolutionary.

Tickets are required but free of charge. Contact Kenan Auditorium for ticket details, ext. 3500. This event is part of the CAIC Leadership Lecture series.

Impending Winter Weather

Recent weather reports have forecast the possibility of inclement winter weather. In the event that a winter storm does impact the Wilmington area, note the adverse weather hotline numbers: 910/962-3991 or 888/657-5751, which will be updated regularly for any further news affecting the status of classes and the university's opening or closing. Also, faculty and staff are encouraged to listen for specific announcements made via the news media and to call the adverse weather hotline often. If the hot line states that the university is closed, non emergency-essential employees should not report to work. Leave will not be charged and time will not have to be made up if the university is officially closed. Note that classes being cancelled does not necessarily mean that the university is closed for employees. Employees designated as emergency-essential should contact supervisors for guidance on whether to report to work.

If the university is not officially closed, but employees feel that local travel conditions make it unsafe to travel from their home to the university, supervisors will allow time lost due to adverse weather to be charged to vacation or comp time, or to be made up at a later time. Students who feel it is unsafe for them to travel to the university should use their best judgment in making a determination whether to travel to campus. Students are encouraged to contact their professors.

Note of Appreciation

Mary Crookes, university events coordinator, and the Office of Transition Programs, wish to express their thanks to the many staff members involved in this year's commencement ceremonies on December 13. All divisions of UNCW play a vital role in commencement, both "behind the scenes" and on the day of the ceremonies. The teamwork effort put forth by everyone resulted in another successful event and made commencement a very special and memorable day for our graduates and their families.

Analytical Software Available

SAS software is available to faculty, staff and students to assist in completing projects and competing for grants. It also augments the technical skills of students in preparation for the business world.

The SAS software and services are part of a $3 million, five-year grant from the SAS Institute given to the 16-campus UNC system in 2000. This software offers such "tools" as data access, management, simple statistics and reporting, as well as data entry, retrieval and management; connectivity; report writing and graphics; statistical and mathematical analysis; business planning, forecasting and decision support; operations research and project management; quality improvement; applications development; and online training. More specialized versions of SAS software are also available to faculty for research and instruction. For specialized versions of the SAS software, faculty must make requests through Ellen Gurganious at ext. 4227 or jones.

If interested, take six CD-Rs to TAC in Hoggard Hall, Room 201 in exchange for the software. Note: CD-Rs are preferable since many CD ROM drives cannot read CD-RWs.

In addition to online training, the SAS Web site (www.sas.com) provides customer support with links for information and assistance. To learn more about options regarding SAS software, visit www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/sas_software.html or to read this complete article: www.uncw.edu/itsd/news.html.

Core Appointed Vice Chancellor

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo announced that the UNC Board of Governors Friday approved the appointment of Dr. Ronald J. Core to become UNCW vice chancellor for business affairs, effective March 15. The UNCW Board of Trustees recommended his appointment at an executive committee meeting Dec. 29.

Core has served as vice president for business and finance at Georgia Southern University in Statesboro, Ga., since 1997 where he is principal advisor to the president for all financial and operational matters. He is responsible for the operations of units in the Business and Finance Division which employ over 565 full-time employees and have a combined operating budget of $55 million. Prior to this appointment he was executive vice president at Mississippi University for Women from July 1995 to July 1997 and vice president for finance and administration there from September 1991 to June 1995. Core also brings UNC system experience based on his service at Western Carolina University as university budget director and assistant to the vice chancellor for business affairs and other appointments from August 1978 to September 1991.

Chancellor DePaolo singled out Core's extensive leadership experience in running the business aspects of higher education as well as his involvement in large campus construction efforts. "I was especially impressed with Dr. Core's track record of seeking broad involvement from the campus community during the budgeting process and in administering daily business operations at his institutions," she said. "I applaud the work of the nine-member search committee chaired by Graduate School Dean Robert Roer who recommended this capable candidate along with two others for me to interview."

Coincidentally, while Chancellor DePaolo's career included time at Western Carolina University and Georgia universities where Core has also worked, their paths never crossed until he was invited to UNCW for an interview.

At UNCW, the vice chancellor for business affairs is responsible for supporting the University Marks 50 Years of Brown

UNCW will commemorate the 50th anniversary of Brown v. Board of Education, the Supreme Court decision that ended the doctrine of "separate but equal" as a constitutional principle. The university will engage in a learning community dialogue to explore the judicial, social and moral significance of the May 1954 landmark decision both in historical perspective as well as in its multi-dimensional aftermath. For more information about the spring semester plans, visit the Brown v. Board of Education Web site at www.uncw.edu/brownlc.

The learning community program will include parts or all of 35 courses, which may be found at www.uncw.edu/brownlc/courses.htm. There is also a resource page at www.uncw.edu/brownlc/resources.htm, and a series of public events, listed at www.uncw.edu/brownlc/Events.htm.

Request for Essays

Faculty, staff and students are encouraged to write 250-word essays on the topic "Brown vs. Board of Education: How Has It Changed Us?" to be posted on the UNCW Brown v. Board of Education Resource Page, and offered to the Star-News and Journal for possible publication. E-mail essays to schmidt.

Faculty Panel

An informal panel discussion for questions and answers on reappointment, promotion and tenure is scheduled from 4 to 5 p.m. Monday, Jan. 26 in Cameron Auditorium. The panel will include perspectives from Barbara Waxman, professor and former member and chair of the RPT committee; Caroline Clements, associate professor, recently promoted and tenured; Richard Olson, associate professor, recently promoted and tenured; and James Johnson, professor and senior faculty member. This discussion will be moderated by Paul Hosier, interim provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs. If any questions, e-mail Anne Kendrick Lanier at laniera.

Equipment Installation

Dittos does not expect any delay in production or delivery of copy orders while installing an upgraded DocuTech digital printer from 3 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 14 to 8 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 20.

Girl Scout Cookies

Girl Scout cookies are available from Emma Kay Thornton at ext. 7182, 395-7006 or e-mail thornton. The cost is $3 a box and several varieties are available. Orders will be taken through Saturday, Jan. 24 with delivery beginning Saturday, Feb. 14.

Relay for Life

The UNCW American Cancer Society's Relay for Life team is now organizing—the first captain's meeting is scheduled at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 28 in Center Stage Cafe, Warwick Center. Faculty, staff and students are encouraged to participate. For more details, contact Yona Bar-Zeev at 686-5191.

Grant Writing

Grant writing support for faculty and staff is now available through a new initiative sponsored by Academic Affairs in collaboration with the Center for Social Work Research and Practice. Art Frankel, professor of social work and the center's director, and Lynn Smithdeal, coordinator of the grant support division in the center, will be available to UNCW faculty and staff to help with grant project development, finding sources of potential funding for project ideas and personal mentoring in the writing of grants. For help in grant writing or to receive more information, call Art Frankel at ext. 4115 or Lynn Smithdeal at ext. 3426.

Departmental Seminar

A biological sciences departmental seminar is scheduled from 2 to 3 p.m. Friday, Jan. 16 in Dobo Hall 103. "Environmental Physiology of Immune Defense Mechanisms in Marine Animals" will be presented by Louis E. Burnett Grice from the Marine Laboratory College of Charleston.

Animal Care Program

Monday, Jan. 19 is the deadline for submitting required forms for IACUC review of any educational or research activities involving vertebrate animals. The IACUC meeting for the spring semester will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 29. The IACUC has approved new protocol and renewal forms, which are available at www.uncw.edu/ora/forms.htm. Researchers must submit a signed, hard copy and an electronic copy to Tiffany Mattson, sponsored programs, mattsont. Protocols received after Jan. 19 may have to be delayed pending IACUC approval at a future meeting.

Human Subjects

The IRB meeting for the spring semester will be held at 8:30 a.m. Monday, Jan. 26. The IRB has approved new protocol and renewal forms, which are available at www.uncw.edu/ora/irb.htm. Researchers must submit a signed, hard copy and an electronic copy of all relevant materials to Tiffany Mattson, office of sponsored programs, mattsont. Protocols that were received after Monday, Jan. 12 may have to be delayed pending IRB approval at a future meeting.

Business Workshop

An introductory Small Business Innovation Research/Small Business Technology Transfer and technology commercialization workshop will take place from 1 to 3:15 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 10 in the Golden Hawk Room, Nixon Annex, Trask Coliseum. John Ujvari, SBIR program specialist with the North Carolina Small Business and Technology Development Center, will present an introduction to the SBIR and STTR programs, the services that the SBTDC provides to those looking to submit proposals, as well as sources of additional program information. Ervin Allen, technology commercialization counselor with the SBTDC, will present an introductory lesson on the steps involved in moving a technology beyond research and development into commercialization via licensing. The workshop will conclude with a UNCW faculty member involved with several successful Phase One SBIR projects. Attendees will have the opportunity to meet with speakers as well as members of the SBTDC's Wilmington office during and after the workshop. The program is free, but registration is recommended. Registration can be conducted online at www.sbtddc.org/events/sbir/workshops2004/. Contact John Ujvari at 919/962-8297 or sbir@sbtddc.org.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Leslie Rand-Pickett, career services, received the Outstanding Professional Contribution Award from the North Carolina College Personnel Association at its conference. She was recognized for her service to students, the state association and the student affairs profession.

Peg Bradley-Doppes, athletics, was featured in the recent article, "Crisis Leadership Makes or Breaks Administrators," published by Women in Higher Education. The article explored four phases of leadership involved in the handling of crisis situations and included case studies from her career as an athletics administrator.

Stephen Skrabal and Robert Kieber, chemistry, received the Project of the Year award in the compliance program area from the Strategic Environmental Research and Development Program (SERDP). The award was for their project "Speciation, Fluxes and Cycling of Dissolved Copper and Zinc in Estuaries: The Roles of Sediment-Water Exchange and Photochemical Effects." Skrabal and Kieber were assisted in their work on this project by Robert F. Whitehead, CMS; Chris Shank, former UNCCH Ph.D. student who completed his thesis at UNCW while working on this project; Kristie Lieseke, M.S. student; and Michelle Smith, M.S. student. SERDP is a federal program jointly administered by the Department of Defense, Department of Energy and the Environmental Protection Agency. SERDP supports research and technology related to environmental issues affecting defense-related operations.

Rick Olsen, communication studies had his essay, "Fifty-Eight American Dreams: The NBA Draft as Mediated Ritual" published in Case Studies in Sport Communication by Praeger, 2003.

Robert Argenbright, earth sciences, presented the paper "Bolshevik Colonization of Space" at the National Convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Slavic Studies in Toronto.

Darrell Irwin, sociology and criminal justice, was awarded a scholarship by the White House Office on Faith-Based and Community Initiatives to attend Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration's seventh annual Faith and Community-Based Organizations Summit and the Community Anti-Drug Coalitions of America's National Leadership Forum XIV.

Maurice M. Martinez, specialty studies, presented a research paper, "Use of Technology in the Research of Ethnic Identity" at the Creole Studies Conference in New Orleans.

James Watkins, campus police, was promoted to patrol sergeant. Sgt. Watkins has nearly 10 years of law enforcement experience having served as a deputy sheriff with the Onslow County Sheriff's Department and a police officer with North Topsail Beach Police Department.

Maurice M. Martinez, specialty studies, appears on-screen in All on a Mardi Gras Day, an hour-long documentary to be aired at 1 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 15 on the UNC Chapel Hill PBS station. The production focuses on how African Americans participate in the culture of Mardi Gras in New Orleans. It includes footage from Martinez's classic film The Black Indians of New Orleans.

Randall Library Hours

Randall Library's hours during Monday, Jan. 19, the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday, are 3 p.m. to 12 a.m.

Soccer Camp

UNCW soccer is hosting a spring break soccer camp for boys and girls, ages five to 14. The camp is from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. March 8-12 (UNCW spring break) and includes lunch, T-shirt and swimming pool time. In addition, there is early drop-off and late pick-up available. There will be competitions, prizes and skill instruction each day. The cost is $195 with family discounts available. Children of UNCW faculty/staff will receive a $25 discount. For a brochure and application, contact the coaches, Paul Cairney at ext. 3932, e-mail cairneyp, or Aidan Heaney at ext. 7057, e-mail heaneya.

Planned Construction Activities

Expect delays and possible road closures on the west side of Warwick Center at the corner of Lot E.

Crews are removing the existing electrical switches and an old substation located behind Warwick Center and Hoggard Hall.

529 Savings Plans

UNCW now provides payroll deductions through the College Foundation of North Carolina. State 529 college savings plans offer ways for families to save with benefits such as tax-advantages, multiple investment options, control and flexibility. Call Kelly Kennedy at ext. 3006 with any questions.

W-2 Distribution

In accordance with Internal Revenue Service regulations, 2003 W-2 forms will be distributed Friday, Jan. 30. Currently enrolled undergraduate students will receive forms at their UNCW post office boxes and currently enrolled graduate students at their departments. Permanent employees will receive their forms at their primary departments. Temporary employees and all others will have forms mailed to their permanent addresses.

Earned Income Credit

Employees who are eligible to receive the earned income credit and who would like to receive advanced EIC payments must complete a W-5 form for 2004. For advance EIC payments to be effective with January paychecks, W-5 forms must be submitted to payroll by 5 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 20. To obtain a form, call ext. 3163.

Work Study/Assistant Students

If the hire dates for work study and work assistant students ended in December 2003, it is necessary to go to the HR 1.60 on line and enter them again as a new entry. If any questions, contact Frances Carr at ext. 3755.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Joseph March, CMS-NURC and Phillip Qualdieri, printing services.

Shared Leave

Tim Ciotti, physical plant, needs shared leave donations. Send vacation leave donations to Alice Maile in human resources.

REMINDER

The IRS has ruled that over-the-counter drugs can be paid for with pre-tax dollars through health-care flexible spending accounts. Keep your receipts, notes from doctors or dentists and get reimbursed. Call Kelly Kennedy, ext. 3006 with any questions.

Mileage Rate Change

Effective January 1, 2004, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has increased the business standard mileage rate from 36 cents per mile to 37.5 cents per mile.

In accordance with the Office of State Budget and Management, the University will increase the allowable rate of reimbursement for travel from 36 cents per mile to 37.5 cents per mile, effective January 1, 2004.

There are no changes in the previously published University exception policy to the 22 cents per mile rate for employees who choose to use personal vehicles when a state-owned vehicle is available.

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's Web site for additional information and to download the state application.

AV Renewal Changes

Due to the high demand of Randall Library's audio/visual (AV) collection and in an effort to make more items available, the library is instituting a change in its renewal policy. Starting with the spring semester, renewals for videos, DVDs, CDs and audio books will be limited to two per item. Additionally, to encourage prompt return by the due date or a renewal, the overdue charge for AV materials will be raised from 50 cents per day to $1 per day, up to a maximum of $10. Faculty needing AV materials for a longer loan period for use with classes may contact the Reserve Desk to make arrangements to either place items on course reserve or to book the material for a specific time.

Copyright Essentials Workshop

The Chancellor's Office, academic affairs and the Graduate School will host the "Copyright Essentials for Educators" workshop from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday, Jan. 26 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. This workshop will present an overview of copyright law, including the fair use doctrine, and its application to the online world and multimedia. In addition, course packs, E-reserves, peer-to-peer file sharing, and the Digital Millennium Act will be discussed. The speakers are North Carolina State University Libraries Scholarly Communication Librarian Peggy Hoon and Associate Vice President for Legal Affairs at the UNC Office of the President David Harrison. Eileen Goldgeier, UNCW's general counsel, will moderate the program.

Choir Tour

Joe Hickman, associate professor of music, will lead the UNCW Chamber Choir on a two-week tour of southern Germany and Austria from May 10 to 24. This is the ninth international tour for the choir in 18 years. The choir has been invited back to several locations in Bavaria, including the famous Wieskirche in Steingaden, near Oberammergau. The choir will perform a concert following the service for Christi Himmelfahrt. The group will perform three repeat performances in the Munich area and a first performance at the Mirabelplatz in Salzburg, Austria. Plans are also being made to present a concert and attend another in Vienna. While there are some community singers involved, the trips are primarily intended as international studies programs for UNCW students. There remain some openings for singers from the university community, especially for tenor voices. For information, contact Hickman at ext. 3588 or e-mail hickmanj.

Student Organization Advisors

The student organization advisor recess meetings will be held from 12 to 1 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 21 or 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 22. Both meetings will be held in UU 207, and refreshments will be served. Student organization advisors need only attend one of the meetings. The agenda will include spring events such as the Student Organization Appreciation Day and the Student Organization Leadership Awards. An SGA member will also be present to discuss operational budgets and important deadlines. The meetings are hosted by the Campus Activities and Involvement Center. Advisors should e-mail strattonf to R.S.V.P.

Archaeology Field School

An organizational meeting for the second annual Archaeological Field School in southwestern Illinois will be held at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 21 in the archaeology lab, Social and Behavioral Sciences Hall, Room 100. Refreshments will be served. Anyone interested in excavating an emergent Mississippian site in Illinois in July should try to attend. For information about this six-credit field course, check <http://people.uncw.edu/rebere/fieldschool%202004.htm> or contact Nora Reber at rebere.

Physics Colloquium

Scott Watson, Brown University, will speak at 2 p.m. Friday Jan. 16 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. The title of his talk is "Inflation from String Theory." Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

CASE Awards

UNCW received two CASE Awards for the Troubled Waters documentary: the Award of Excellence in the films and videos category and a Special Merit Award for the gala invitation. For more information about the documentary and resources, visit www.uncw.edu/troubledwaters/.

Homecoming: Beetle Raffle and Weekend Events

Raffle tickets are available at the University Union information desk for the 2003 sunflower yellow VW Seahawk Beetle donated by UNCW alumnus Bob King. The car is being raffled to raise $50,000 or more for merit-based scholarships through the UNCW Alumni Association. Tickets are $25. The winner will be chosen in a random drawing Saturday, Jan. 24 at the Homecoming men's basketball game. For information, contact the Office of Alumni Relations at ext. 2682.

And in the run up to Homecoming, raffle tickets may also be purchased from alumni representatives at the following locations: 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 15 at the University Union and Burney Student Support Center; 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday, Jan. 16 at Leutze and Morton halls; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 17 at Westfield's Independence Mall (near Starbucks and Century 21); Tuesday, Jan. 20, 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Hoggard, Kenan and Alderman halls; 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 21 at Wagoner Hall; 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 22 at Bear Hall.

Next weekend's Homecoming events are listed at www.uncw.edu/alumni/homecoming_2004.html.

Lunch Buffet

Friday, Jan. 16 - Baked tilapia, grilled vegetable fajita, fried okra, cauliflower, O'Brien potatoes.

Tuesday, Jan. 20 - Nacho bar with chicken or ground beef and toppings.

Number Changes

Raymond Burt and Gloria Willis may both be reached at ext. 3137. Debra Strikol, Becky Porterfield's assistant, may be reached at ext. 3876. Melton McLaurin may be reached at ext. 4046.

FOCUS Collection

FOCUS, the student group of United Christian Campus Ministry, is sponsoring its fourth annual domestic violence shelter collection from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 21 through Friday, Jan. 23 in the University Union lobby. Personal hygiene items are being collected, and FOCUS will deliver the items. For more information, call 799-8497.

Black Faculty and Staff Association

The entire campus community is invited to attend the monthly BFSA meeting from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 22 in Warwick Center, Ballroom 4. Breakout sessions will discuss faculty and staff issues as well as goals for the year. Bring a lunch; drinks and dessert will be provided. Direct questions to Deborah Brunson, brunsond or Kate Temoney, temoneyk.

Suppli-EZ Management

Julia McCombs is managing Suppli-EZ (formerly Central Stores). E-mail mccombsj or phone ext. 3094 with any customer concerns.

TECHNOLOGY CORNER

The Technology Corner from ITSD serves as an area highlighting items of interest for faculty and staff. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

Beware: Trojan Poses as Windows XP Update

A new Swen-style Trojan horse posing as a critical update from Microsoft has been detected on the Internet. The fake message, which includes a spoofed sending address – windowsupdate@microsoft.com – uses the subject line "Windows XP Service Pack 1 (Express) Critical Update" to trick receivers into opening the attached file. Do not open this virus—the TAC recommends updating virus definitions daily. Visit www.uncw.edu/virus.

This Web site also outlines safe computing practices. In addition, back up computer files, preferably to ZIP drives, CD-R's or CD-RW's. Interested in Learning about WebCT?

WebCT, UNCW's online course development and management system, is offering online training courses. According to Dana Little, facilitator of the online course and WebCT database administrator, "The time required is completely up to the person working in the course. There are no assignments. It is simply a 'how to' in WebCT format." For more information or if interested in enrolling, send an e-mail to Little at littledd.

"In-class" WebCT training sessions are available. For individuals interested in using WebCT who have never used it before and want to learn more. The training schedule is at www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/online-dev.html.

Business Briefs

This section, formerly Bookstore Notes, features information of interest to faculty and staff about business and support services. For more information, contact Brenda Riegel, ext. 7252.

Printing Services

The cost of copies is reduced: all copies submitted to Dittos via SEACopy (Speedy Electronic Access Copying) will be charged at four cents per single-sided copy and 7.8 cents for double-sided copies. For all other copies submitted "over the counter," the new copy charge will be 4.25 cents per single-sided copy and 8.3 cents for all double-sided copies. This is a 12-percent reduction in cost when using SEACopy.

To sign up to use this service, go to the printing services Web page, www.uncw.edu/ba/printing_services/seacopy.htm, and click on SEACopy access form. Print, complete the form and send it to Box 5610.

Campus Dining

Faculty/staff discount meal cards are a great way to enjoy all-you-care-to-eat meals at Wagoner Dining Hall and save some cash, too: The Sampler (10 meals) for $50; Super Saver (25 meals) for $118.75; and Best Deal (50 meals) for $225.

All prices listed are for meals purchased at Wagoner only and are subject to N.C. state sales tax. For more information, call campus dining at ext. 3982 or auxiliary services at ext. 3178.

University Police

University police reminds the campus community that most crimes are crimes of opportunity. Keep valuables like laptops, projectors and personal items locked away or out of sight to prevent costly losses. The university police recommends calling ext. 3184 to schedule a security review for particular security concerns.

Roundtable Meeting

From 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 22 in the Madeline Suite, the Cape Fear Communicators Roundtable will sponsor "The Government, the Media, and the People's Right to Know," a panel discussion about citizen access to public records and public meetings. Panelists include: Mark Lanier, assistant to the chancellor; Mark Boyer, public information officer, New Hanover County; Doug Hewett, public information officer, City of Wilmington; Perry Fisher, news assignment editor, WECT-TV Channel 6; Bettie Fennell, city hall reporter, Star-News; Rhonda Bellamy, news director, WAAV Radio. Admission to the panel discussion is free. Lunch is $8 for students and faculty and $12 for CFCR members and the general public. Reservations must be made in advance by mailing checks to Randy Bobbitt in the Department of Communication Studies. For more information, call ext. 7635.

Two Towns of Jasper

The feature length documentary about the murder of James Byrd Jr., Two Towns of Jasper, will be shown at 2 p.m. Friday, Jan. 16 in Morton Hall, Bryan Auditorium, and at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 21 in Kenan Auditorium. The screenings are free and open to the public. Moderated discussions will follow the films. These events are being sponsored by various campus groups, including CLES, film studies, SGA, P.E.A.C.E., PRIDE and the Creative Writing Graduate Student Association.

Tutoring Services

The Educational Lab in the Watson School of Education is offering tutoring for children, grades K-6 in reading/language arts and math. An education student will be matched one-on-one with each child for the tutoring sessions. Children attend one-hour sessions once or twice a week between 3 and 6 p.m. Tutoring begins Jan. 26 and continues through April 22. The cost varies according to the number of tutoring hours. For more information call ext. 3633.

Ecumenical Service

An ecumenical service to commemorate the life of Martin Luther King Jr. is scheduled at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 18 at Cape Fear Community College's Barbara and Joe Schwartz Activity Center, 610 N. Front Street.

The Ministerial Roundtable is hosting this year's service bringing together churches of various denominations for a time of worship and fellowship. The keynote speaker for this event will be Rev. Dr. Andrew Young, former ambassador to the United Nations and mayor of Atlanta, Ga.

For more information, contact the ministerial roundtable co-chairs, Rev. June Highfill, 910/763-2220, or Rev. James Utley, 910/815-0669.

Judy the Robot

Honors, the departments of computer science and psychology, and CTE, present Judy the Robot and Tom Sgouros for an evening of computers, robots and banjo, discussions of philosophy, artificial intelligence, the mind, consciousness and more. This event is at 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 15, Cameron Auditorium. There will be a reception afterwards. The event is free and open to the public. If questions, call ext. 4181.

Department Chairs

As you begin the spring semester we want to remind you of the annual grants offered from The Friends of UNCW. Our applications and award process is handled each spring and we want to encourage you to make an application.

The Friends of the Library was founded in 1963 to assist in the accreditation of Wilmington College. As our college grew to a university, we followed, becoming Friends of UNCW. Today we support and promote educational, scientific and charitable projects on behalf of the University.

The Friends seek proposals from you for projects that will directly benefit your department but will not require substantial amounts of money. In 2002-2003, we received a total of 40 requests of which 23 were funded with gifts ranging from $129.00 to $1450.00. As in years past, we anticipate receiving more requests than can be funded but be assured that our selection process will involve careful study and evaluation of each proposal.

If you wish to apply for a grant, please complete and return the enclosed request form by February 16, 2004. Also print the name and telephone number of the individual to be contacted.

Sincerely,

Joan Rodgers

Library Chosen as Participant in Virtual Reference Pilot Program

Based on results of a pilot project soon to begin at Randall Library, the library doesn't have to be open to get help from a reference librarian to find the facts you need. The virtual reference pilot project will allow users unprecedented nearly round the clock access to information from their computer.

According to Andrew Dutka, coordinator of research services and a UNCW facilitator for this project, "Taking part in this virtual reference pilot project will give UNCW, faculty, students and the community a chance to be in on the ground floor of the next new wave of information exchange. Virtual reference will allow many more users to gain access to our collections and resources. Once the project is live, UNCW will be linked in a network with other institutions across the state that will allow virtual reference service beyond the walls of the library."

Randall Library has been chosen to participate in a statewide Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) Virtual Reference Pilot Project, a project of the State Library of North Carolina and commences in the spring of 2004. During the pilot phase, Randall Library will be part of a team that will be able to provide reference services to patrons across the state. The project will utilize technology provided through the state by 24/7, a company specializing in virtual library software.

Because this is a statewide effort, the network will include libraries that are open longer hours than Randall. A patron may virtually contact a librarian if a research question needs answering in the middle of the night. "The patron will not necessarily know which institution is providing the service," said Dutka.

"This is especially useful for those living in remote areas or night owls. The idea of virtual reference is to provide seamless service to the patron. Why not just call? Perhaps for a simple yes or no question it is easier to use the phone, but if a patron's question is more complicated and requires more research with specific technical vocabulary, it is better and easier to type and chat."

Once the project is launched for public use in fall 2004, there will be a link on the Randall Library Web site indicating where to chat with a librarian in real time. The pilot project is expected to last for six months.

Flocking Back to the UNCW Nest

UNCW alumni return to campus Jan. 23-25 to celebrate this year's Homecoming. The campus is invited to participate in the weekend's events. See the alumni Web site for a full listing of events.

All alumni who graduated between 1993 and 2003 are invited to attend the Young Alumni Homecoming Party Friday, Jan. 23 in the Center Stage Café, Warwick Center. The festivities will begin at 9 p.m., and the Young Alumnus/ Alumna of the Year will receive a special award of recognition.

The African American alumni will have an open house from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, Jan. 23 in the Upperman African American

Request for Essays

Faculty, staff and students are encouraged to write 250-word essays on the topic "Brown v. Board of Education: How Has It Changed Us?" to be posted on the UNCW Brown v. Board of Education Resource Page, and offered to the Star-News and Journal for possible publication. E-mail essays to schmidt.

HOME COMING

HOME COMING 2004

Jan. 23 to 25

www.uncw.edu/alumni/homecoming_2004.html

Chemistry Symposium

On Friday, Jan. 30 and Saturday, Jan. 31, the chemistry department will host the seventh UNCW Symposium on Chemistry and Biochemistry. As in years past, some of the most successful scientists in their fields are invited to present their research to an audience of undergraduates, graduate students, faculty and industrial scientists. This year's symposium will include seven presentations by university faculty and five by scientists working in government agencies and the private sector. A poster session will be presented during the conference to showcase the research of conference attendees.

The symposium is free, and includes complimentary dinner Friday night and lunch on Saturday. Additional information and registration forms are available at <http://aa.uncw.edu/chem/news/symp04/>.

Faculty Panel

An informal panel discussion on reappointment, promotion and tenure is scheduled from 4 to 5 p.m. Monday, Jan. 26 in Cameron Auditorium. The panel will include perspectives from Barbara Waxman, professor and former member and chair of the RPT committee; Caroline Clements, associate professor, recently promoted and tenured; Richard Olson, associate professor, recently promoted and tenured; and James Johnson, professor and senior faculty member. This discussion will be moderated by Paul Hosier, interim provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs. E-mail questions to Anne Kendrick Lanier at laniera.

Faculty-Business Workshop

Funding is available for collaborative efforts between faculty and small business organizations. For more information, faculty are encouraged to attend an introductory Small Business Innovation Research/Small Business Technology Transfer and technology commercialization workshop that will take place from 1 to 3:15 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 10 in the Golden Hawk Room, Nixon Annex, Trask Coliseum. John Ujvari, SBIR program specialist with the North Carolina Small Business and Technology Development Center, will present an introduction to the SBIR and STTR programs, the services that the SBTDC provides to those looking to submit proposals, as well as sources of additional program information. Ervin Allen, technology commercialization counselor with the SBTDC, will present an introductory lesson on the steps involved in moving a technology beyond research and development into commercialization via licensing.

The workshop will conclude with a UNCW faculty member involved with several successful Phase One SBIR projects. Attendees will have the opportunity to meet with speakers as well as members of the SBTDC's Wilmington office during and after the workshop. The program is free, but registration is recommended. Registration is available online at www.sbtcdc.org/events/sbir/workshops2004/. Contact John Ujvari at 919/962-8297 or sbir@sbtcdc.org.

Input Requested

The Campus Activities and Involvement Center is seeking faculty, staff and students interested in participating on the Leadership Lecture Series selection committee. This group will identify issues and topics for the 2004-05 Leadership Lecture Series, and will meet twice during the spring semester. Respond to Shannon Hooker at ext. 7600 or hookers by Feb. 5. If unable to participate on the committee, feel free to send suggestions via e-mail.

Choir Tour

Joe Hickman, associate professor of music, will lead the UNCW Chamber Choir on a two-week tour of southern Germany and Austria from May 10 to 24. This is the ninth international tour for the choir in 18 years. The choir has been invited back to several locations in Bavaria, including the famous Wieskirche in Steingaden, near Oberammergau. The choir will perform a concert following the service for Christi Himmelfahrt. The group will perform three repeat performances in the Munich area and a first performance at the Mirabelplatz in Salzburg, Austria. Plans are also being made to present a concert and attend another in Vienna. While there are some community singers involved, the trips are primarily intended as international studies programs for UNCW students. There remain some openings for singers from the university community, especially for tenor voices. For information, contact Hickman at ext. 3588 or e-mail hickmanj.

Business Briefs

This section, formerly Bookstore Notes, features information of interest to faculty and staff about business and support services. For questions, please contact Brenda Riegel, ext. 7252.

Campus Dining

Campus Dining is serving up convenience—the Hawk's Nest is now open after all men's week-night home basketball games. Stop by between 9 and 11 p.m. to enjoy a post-game snack or meal.

The Hawk's Nest is also staying open later every Friday evening. Instead of closing at 3 p.m., the Hawk's Nest will now serve its grill and deli sandwiches, salads, pizza and more until 7:30 p.m.

Also, carts featuring smoothies, cold drinks and grab-and-go snacks are located in the Recreation Center and Cameron Hall. The Fair Trade Market in Cameron Hall is serving lunches including freshly made Chick-fil-A Cool Wraps, deli sandwiches, salads and Java City coffees.

Harris Teeter Linking

Use the UNCW code 5034 to link (or re-link) Harris Teeter VIC (Very Important Customer) cards. Two percent of all private label purchases (President's Choice, Hunter, HT Traders and Harris Teeter labels) will be credited to UNCW. The money is then doubled to the UNCW Legacy Hall project. Either give the VIC card to a cashier and ask to link to UNCW—code 5034—or do it online www.harristeeter.com/community/vic_link_info.php.

Tustin Exhibit

Randall Library is featuring artwork from local artist and UNCW alumna Gayle Tustin on the first floor artwall from now until Feb. 26. A reception and walk-through will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 28. The reception is free and open to the public.

Children's Story Adventures

The Seahawk Perch, UNCW's center for commuter and non-traditional student services, invite all faculty, staff and students with children ages three to 10 to take advantage of Children's Story Adventures. The program is offered every Wednesday from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in the Children's Literature section of Randall Library and is designed to give parents uninterrupted time to study or research while their children enjoy readings of age-appropriate literature by student and staff volunteers. Look for special theme days in the coming weeks. To register children for the program, contact the Seahawk Perch at ext. 7371 or e-mail seahawkperch@uncw.edu.

Video Discussions

The faculty/staff brown bag luncheon discussion group with the Rev. Nancy L. Cooper has decided to view a video series looking at the Book of Revelation conducted by Mickey Efird, professor at Duke Divinity School. The series will begin from 12 to 1 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 27 at the University Union, Room 207 and will encompass many but not all of the group times this semester. Cooper will facilitate the discussion times.

Faculty members are invited to participate in short focus group sessions from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 17 and from 11 to 11:50 a.m. Friday, Feb. 20. Both sessions will be held in Warwick Center, Room 104. Participants will receive a complimentary lunch. For more information or to register, contact Randy Bobbitt, communication studies, at ext. 7635 or e-mail bobbittw.

Staff Advisory Meeting

The staff advisory committee will meet Tuesday, Jan. 27 to consolidate all staff recommendations related to staff and university issues. All UNCW staff are invited to address recommendations to one of the staff advisory committee members prior to the meeting.

The committee includes: Annie Aldrich, ITSD computing services; Lisa Allred, payroll; Carolyn Andrews, library services; Margaret Bailey, public service; Glenda Bowen, Watson School of Education; Dana Fischetti, university advancement; Susie Goodrum, student affairs; Lori Leitch, biological sciences; Mike Lloyd, postal services; Annette Richards, School of Nursing; Steve Mastro, CMS; Mark Steelman, human resources; Ann Freeman, Chancellor's office; Chuck Mills, physical plant; and Karen Thompson, career services.

Moviemaker Lecture

The Film Studies Department will host a Moviemaker Guest Lecture screening and discussion of "The Evolution of Editing" featuring David Monahan, a UNCW professor and filmmaker, at 2 p.m. Friday, Jan. 23 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100. Monahan will explain basic editing concepts and the role of the editor in the creative cinematic process. His presentation features screenings of Lumiere Brother's films, The Great Train Robbery, A Trip To The Moon and portions of Way Down East and Potcmkin.

All Moviemakers events are free and open to the public. For more information contact the Film Studies Department at 910/962-7502 or visit the Web site at www.uncw.edu/filmstudies.com.

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT WILMINGTON

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

University Relations

Vol. XXIII No. 22 January 29, 2004

City, UNCW Task Force Launched

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo and Wilmington Mayor Spence Broadhurst announced Monday plans to establish an innovative City of Wilmington, UNCW and community task force. The task force will examine a variety of quality of life issues related to UNCW's impact on city neighborhoods and make recommendations to the university and the City Council to develop partnerships and shared responsibility for managing these issues.

"We are proactive in our efforts to examine and hopefully solve some neighboring community issues," said Chancellor DePaolo. "I believe students at UNCW who decide to live in the community should be responsible citizens and be held accountable for their actions. As chancellor, I am committed to making sure UNCW students are well aware of this expectation."

In addition to area residents and university and city staff, the task force membership will include representatives of the Alcohol Law Enforcement, Cape Fear Community College, Wilmington Board of Realtors and Wilmington Apartment Association. It will be facilitated by the Community Mediation Center.

Among the issues on the task force agenda will be parking, housing density, late night parties, noise and litter, with the underlying value of how the community can preserve a reasonable quality of life for families while allowing students to maintain that same quality of life.

"We recognize the neighbors' frustrations, and Chancellor DePaolo and I have committed to work together to find manageable solutions. During the past several months we have pulled together a good representation of governmental officials, university staff, professional organizations and citizens to take a comprehensive look at the quality of life issues facing property owners surrounding the university," said Mayor Broadhurst.

A Web site with the task force members and their contact details is available at www.ci.wilmington.nc.us/community/office_neighborhoods.htm.

Request for Essays

Faculty, staff and students are encouraged to write 250-word essays on the topic "Brown v. Board of Education: How Has It Changed Us?" to be posted on the UNCW Brown v. Board of Education Resource Page, and offered to the Star-News and Journal for possible publication. E-mail essays to schmidt.

CAS Candidates Open Forums

The campus community is invited to meet the candidates for dean of the College of Arts & Sciences and hear them discuss their views on timely topics relevant to higher education. A reception with refreshments will follow. Curricula vitae for the candidates will be available the week of the candidate's open forum via the Communique.

Surplus Property

Surplus property items should not be placed in halls, stairwells or any location that might cause an accident or become a fire hazard. Departments are responsible for keeping their items secure until picked up by surplus property. Call George Syles at ext. 3621 with any questions.

Returns to Vendors

Departments are reminded that items being returned to vendors should be packed before being picked up by the receiving department staff. Packing materials may be available and can be picked up at the warehouse. For questions, call ext. 3620.

Retirement Reception

A reception is planned for Gloria Crowell, CMS, who is retiring after 30 years of service. The event is from 3 to 5 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 29 in Warwick Center, Ballroom 4.

Free MAT Testing

For a limited time the National Testing Program will offer the Miller Analogies Test (MAT) for free. The student must agree to take two versions of the MAT, one paper/pencil and one computerized. A $60 check, payable to UNCW, is held at the beginning of the first test and returned to the student after the second test is completed. For more information call the National Testing Program office at ext. 7444.

Tutoring Services

The Educational Lab in the Watson School of Education is offering tutoring for children, grades K-6 in reading/language arts and math. An education student will be matched one-on-one with each child for the tutoring sessions. Children attend one-hour sessions once or twice a week between 3 and 6 p.m. Tutoring continues through April 22. The cost varies according to the number of tutoring hours. For more information call ext. 3633.

Habitat Conference

Cape Fear Habitat for Humanity is sponsoring a Habitat for Humanity Regional Conference Feb. 19 through 21. Millard Fuller, the founder and president of Habitat for Humanity International, will be a speaker at the Habitation Service. It is open to the public at 7 p.m. Friday, Feb. 20 at First Baptist Church, located at the corner of Fifth and Market Streets. For details, contact Cape Fear Habitat for Humanity at info@capefearhabitat.org.

Cinema Nouveau

The inaugural season of the Cinema Nouveau film series will feature six French films by first-time directors. The entire series is free to the public, and each film will be subtitled in English. The first film, Seaside, (Bord de mer, Director: Julie Lopes-Curval, 2002) will be shown at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 10 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. Cinema Nouveau is sponsored by the French Ministère de la Culture, and the film studies and foreign literatures and languages departments. For more information call ext. 7502 or visit www.uncw.edu/filmstudies/cinemanouveau.

Physics Colloquium

Edward Olszewski, physics and physical oceanography, will speak at 2 p.m. Friday, Jan. 30 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. The title of his talk is "Toward Unification of the Basic Natural Forces."

Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

Children's Story Time

The Seahawk Perch, UNCW's center for commuter and non-traditional student services, invites all faculty, staff and students with children ages three to 10 to take advantage of Children's Story Adventures. The program is offered every Wednesday from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in the Children's Literature section of Randall Library and is designed to give parents uninterrupted time to study or research while their children enjoy readings of age-appropriate literature by student and staff volunteers. To register children for the program, contact the Seahawk Perch at ext. 7371 or e-mail seahawkperch@uncw.edu.

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT WILMINGTON

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

University Relations

Vol. XXIII No. 23 February 5, 2004

Elizabeth King Humphrey, Editor

Rare Whale Studied at UNCW

A rare dense beaked whale, also known as Blainville's whale, is being studied by scientists and students at UNCW.

The 14-foot adult male whale, discovered near Kure Beach, was moved to the university by UNCW's Marine Mammal Stranding Program.

Bill McLellan and Ann Pabst are conducting a necropsy to discover the cause of death. Pabst said it appears the whale was alive when it came ashore. But she noted that despite the extensive tests, the scientists ultimately may never know why this animal perished.

Strandings of dense beaked whales are extremely rare. As reported by the Wilmington Star-News, only 47 dense beaked whales have been recorded in the United States in the past 200 years and only three adult males have been found in North Carolina. James Mead, curator of marine mammals at the Smithsonian's Natural History Museum called the find a "real biological treasure trove."

Research on the dense beaked whale is rare because it is a deep water species.

After the research has been completed the entire skull and skeleton will be donated to the Smithsonian.

CAS Candidates Open Forums

The campus community is invited to meet the candidates for the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and hear their views on timely topics relevant to higher education. A reception with refreshments will follow. Curricula vitae and letters of interest for the candidates will be available the week of the candidate's open forum via

Request for Essays

Faculty, staff and students are encouraged to write 250-word essays on the topic "Brown v. Board of Education: How Has It Changed Us?" to be posted on the UNCW Brown v. Board of Education Resource Page, and offered to the Wilmington Star-News and Wilmington Journal for possible publication. E-mail essays to schmidt.

Request for Proposals

The Center for Teaching Excellence invites faculty and staff to propose topics for presentation in the third annual International Perspectives Mini-Semester, which takes place from 12 to 2 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 11 and is a collection of short talks or panels on international perspectives. Past topics have included human rights, globalization and the environment, culture and film, health care and international politics. Presentations may be scheduled for either 12 to 12:50 p.m. or 1 to 1:50 p.m. New and past presenters are encouraged to participate. For more information, contact Patricia Turrisi at ext. 7392 or turrisi@uncw.edu.

Working Artist

Alabama landscape artist Perry Austin will be working in or around King Hall on Monday, Feb. 9 and Tuesday, Feb. 10. While there, he will execute at least one painting that will be installed in the new School of Education building. As he works, he will demonstrate his techniques and discuss his work with visitors. Students, faculty, staff and the community are invited to visit Austin while he works. His schedule will be from approximately 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each day except for lunch break.

Menus for Buffet

Friday, Feb. 6 - Fried chicken, seafood pot pie, mashed potatoes, corn on the cob and baked beans

Monday, Feb. 10 - Turkey breast with stuffing and gravy, baked polenta with marinated tomatoes, whole kernel corn and green bean casserole

Alumni Lecture

The UNCW Watson School of Education Alumni Chapter presents its annual alumni lecture at 7 p.m. Tuesday Feb. 17 in the Randall Library auditorium. Linda Harrelson, '82, will present "I Can Manage Myself!" The presentation is about helping students improve their behavior through self-management. It is a topic that will be of interest to future teachers and those already working with children. Harrelson is the educational trainer for the New Hanover County School's Professional Development Department. She is a National Board Certified teacher and was named to the USA Today's fifth annual ALL USA Teacher Team. Watson School of Education students, faculty and alumni are encouraged to attend.

EDC Scheuling

If interested in scheduling meetings or events at the Executive Development Center, contact Delores Hansley, ext. 3578 or e-mail hansleyd@uncw.edu.

Physics Colloquium

Edward Olszewski, physics and physical oceanography, will speak at 2 p.m. Friday, Feb. 6 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. The title of his talk is "Toward Unification of the Basic Natural Forces--Part II." Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

Intercultural Week

Update

The Intercultural Week schedule has a misprint. The film "My Life as a Dog" showing at 7 p.m. Feb. 10 will be shown in Kenan Hall, Room 121, not King Hall as printed.

Building One World

Faculty, staff and students are invited to bring children between the ages of five to 11 to participate in the annual "Building One World - Together!" event from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 14 in University Union, Room 100. The morning begins with arts and crafts activities focused on peace, unity and diversity celebration. After light refreshments, the group will go to the Warwick Center to participate in the UNCW Intercultural Festival where they will hear master storyteller Madafo Lloyd Wilson and see a performance by students from Dorothy B. Johnson Elementary School as well as other entertainment. There is no charge for this event, but space is limited. For more information or to make a reservation, call the Center for Leadership Education and Service at ext. 3877 or visit the office in University Union, Room 212.

Weight Watchers

The Weight Watchers @ Work Program will begin a 15-week session Wednesday, Feb. 11. The cost is $165, and the group will meet every Wednesday from 12 to 1 p.m. in the James Hall Conference Room. Faculty, staff and students are welcome. To register or for more information, e-mail Carol Noble at noblec@uncw.edu.

Student Fashion

Dress for Success, a business attire fashion show, will take place at 12 p.m. Monday, Feb. 9 in the Hawk's Nest. The second annual show is presented by UNCW's Career Services, the Department of Communication Studies and the Communication Studies Society. This year's theme, "Make the Fashionable Turn on Your Career Highway," will feature clothing from Men's Wearhouse and Casual Corner. UNCW students and faculty will be showcasing business casual and business professional attire while strutting their stuff to the musical sounds of the 80's. The fashion show kicks off Career Services' weeklong series of events "Road Rules for the Real World." Contact career services at ext. 3174 for a schedule of the week's events or visit www.uncw.edu/stuaaff/career/roadrules.htm.

"Relay for Life" Knitting Workshop

Those wanting to learn to knit, to brush up on the basics or to make a "fun fur" scarf should sign up for a knitting workshop from 12 to 1 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 12, location to be announced. The cost is a $5 donation to the American Cancer Society (cash or check) payable at the door. Bring knitting needles, yarn (plain yarn is best for learning and practice) and join expert and experienced knitters for this hands-on event. Crochet experts will also be available to help. Those who are unsure about joining in, or those who don't have the materials, may try the extra needles and yarns that will be on hand. If interested in making a fun fur scarf or to reserve a space, call Kay Pugh at ext. 1146.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Paige Tan, political science, presented "The Politics and Thought of Amien Rais: Implications for Indonesian Democracy" at the Southeast Regional Conference Association for Asian Studies annual meeting, in Gainesville, Fla. and "Party Rooting, Political Operators, and Instability in Indonesia: A Consideration of Party System Institutionalization in a Communally Charged Society" at the Southern Political Science Association annual meeting, New Orleans, La.

Len Lecci, psychology, had an invited review titled "An Essential Tool for the Treatment and Study of Adult Hypochondriasis" accepted for publication at the journal Contemporary Psychology.

Kimberly Cressman, graduate student of biology; Martin Posey, biology; Michael Mallin, CMS; Lynn Leonard, earth sciences; and Troy Alphin, biology and CMS; had their paper, "Effects of Oyster Reefs on Water Quality in a Tidal Creek Estuary," published in the Journal of Shellfish Research.

Diane Sledden Reed, career services, was elected president of the Southeastern Association for Employment in Education at their annual conference in Memphis, Tenn. The association includes over 200 professionals from collegiate career centers, education faculty and school district personnel.

Brenda Riegel, business and support services, had the article "Renovation Dollars Pay Big Dividends at UNCW" published in the winter 2003-04 issue of Campus Dining Today.

Frederick Bingham, physics and physical oceanography, gave two presentations at the Ocean Sciences meeting in Portland, Ore. "Ocean Response to Hurricane Isabel in Onslow Bay, N.C." was presented along with co-authors Lawrence Cahoon, biological sciences; Lynn Leonard, earth sciences; Ansley Wren, CMS; and Benjamin Speckhart, graduate student, marine sciences. "Shallow Water Response to Hurricanes in Onslow Bay, N.C." was presented with co-authors Benjamin Speckhart, graduate student (first author), and two faculty from NCSU.

Maurice F. Stanley, philosophy and religion, presented "The Lesson of All Sorrow" at the Hawaii International Conference on Arts and Humanities in Honolulu.

Keri Franklin, business applications, will present a seminar on "Web Applications: Extract Reports and Online Forms" at the upcoming American Blackboard Users Conference.

The deadline for the Campus Communique is 12 p.m. Tuesday for inclusion in that week's publication.

E-mail
communique@uncw.edu

Exempt Withholding Certificate Expires

For employees who claim exempt from withholding, 2003 W-4 and NC-4 withholding certificates expire Sunday, Feb. 15. Employees who wish to claim an exemption after Feb. 15 must submit a new W-4 and NC-4 to payroll by Tuesday, Feb. 17 in order for it to be reflected in February paychecks. Each department should have the new forms, however they may also be downloaded from www.uncwil.edu/payroll/ or visit the payroll office.

Staff Advisory Committee Meetings

The staff advisory committee is meeting Tuesday, Feb. 10, 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in University Union, Room 206 and Tuesday, Feb. 24, 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in Alderman Hall, Room 215.

Staff members are encouraged to communicate issues to a member of the committee, which includes:

Annie Aldrich, ITSD;
Lisa Allred, payroll;
Carolyn Andrews, library services;
Margaret Bailey, DPSCS;

Dana Fischetti, university advancement;
Ann Freeman, Chancellor's office;
Susie Goodrum, student affairs;
Lori Leitch, biological sciences;
Mike Lloyd, postal services/printing;
Steve Mastro, CMS;
Chuck Mills, physical plant;
Annette Richards, School of Nursing;
Mark Steelman, human resources; and Karen Thompson, career services.

Focus on Finances

Human resources developed a new series of workshops to assist employees with understanding financial planning. The human resources spring 2004 training manual will provide details about the series, which will help individuals prepare for financial realities to have a better chance of achieving financial goals at a comfortable standard of living.

Shared Leave

Tim Ciotti and Mary Nixon, physical plant, need shared leave donations. Send vacation leave donations to Alice Maile in human resources.

Participants Needed

Faculty members are invited to participate in short focus group sessions from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 17 and from 11 to 11:50 a.m. Friday, Feb. 20. Both sessions will be held in Warwick Center, Room 104. Participants will receive a complimentary lunch. For more information or to register, contact Randy Bobbitt, communication studies, at ext. 7635 or e-mail bobbittw.

Front Street @ 3

Music Department Presents

Faculty Trio Recital at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 12 in Kenan Auditorium will feature Mary Jo White, flute; Petrea Warnick, oboe; and Karen Rice, piano. The program features composers who specifically wrote for this type of trio and includes works by Alberto Ginastera, Gordon Jacob and Jean-Baptiste Loeillet. Costs are $5 for general admission, $2.50 for UNCW faculty and staff, senior citizens and children under 12. It is free for UNCW students with a valid ID. Tickets may be purchased one hour prior to performance at the Kenan Auditorium box office at ext. 3500.

Soccer Camp

UNCW soccer is hosting a spring break soccer camp for boys and girls, ages five to 14. The camp is from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. March 8-12 (UNCW spring break) and includes lunch, T-shirt and swimming pool time. In addition, there is early drop-off and late pick-up available. There will be competitions, prizes and skill instruction each day. The cost is $195 with family discounts available. Children of UNCW faculty/staff will receive a $25 discount. For a brochure and application, contact the coaches, Paul Cairney at ext. 3932, e-mail cairney, or Aidan Heaney at ext. 7057, e-mail heaney.

Free MAT Testing

For a limited time the National Testing Program will offer the Miller Analogies Test (MAT) for free. The student must agree to take two versions of the MAT, one paper/pencil and one computerized. A $60 check, payable to UNCW, is held at the beginning of the first test and returned to the student after the second test is completed. For information call the National Testing Program office at ext. 7444.

Plant Ecology Seminars

The Biological Sciences Department is hosting two plant ecologist candidate seminars. The first is from 2 to 3 p.m. Friday, Feb. 6 in Dobo Hall, Room 103. "The Ecological Relevance of Induced Plant Responses" will be presented by Peter A. Van Zandt, post-doctoral researcher from the Department of Biology at Washington University at St. Louis. Steven W. Brewer, assistant professor of biology and curator of Rhodes College Herbarium at Rhodes College, will present "Phytogeography and Tree Diversity in the Maya Mountains, Belize" from 2 to 3 p.m. Friday, Feb. 13 in Dobo Hall, Room 103.

Shop to Support Education

The Watson School of Education is selling tickets to the first day of shopping (9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, March 16) at the new Hecht's Department Store located in the Mayfaire Town Center on Military Cutoff, Wilmington. Purchase a $5 ticket and receive admission and 20 percent off purchases made that day. The Watson School of Education will keep the proceeds of the ticket sales to support expenses related to moving to the new building this summer. There will be entertainment at the store that day and other giveaways. For a ticket or more information, see Linda, Angie or John in King Hall, Room 102. Call ext. 3369 or e-mail fischettij.

TECHNOLOGY CORNER

The Technology Corner from ITSD serves as an area highlighting items of interest for faculty and staff. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

Training Schedules for Spring

The training class schedule is now available for FrontPage, Excel, PowerPoint, Publisher, Dreamweaver, WebCT or how to best use an iPAQ or Axim. Check the schedule at www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/schedule.html and call TAC (Technology Assistance Center) to register, at ext. 4357.

IT Innovations Awards

The IT Innovation Committee has announced the award recipients for 2003. These awards are in two separate categories that focus on enhancing the teaching and learning process. For more information select www.uncw.edu/itsd/innovation.html.

Area 1: SMART Project recipients

Dale Cohen, psychology; Sujen Chen, specialty studies; Ann Pabst, biological sciences; Richard Dillman, biology.

SMART projects will be developed internally with the help of a specially assigned team of core developers in the ITSD Department of Client Services. SMART projects involve presentation on a digital whiteboard by faculty or students in the classroom.

Area 2: Other Technology Projects

Michael Freize and Yaw Chang, mathematics and statistics; John Myers, art and theatre; Ned Irvine, art and theatre; Marian McPhaul, CMS and Lower Cape Fear River Program; Barbara Brannon, creative writing.

This area details projects that focus on innovative technology to enhance the teaching and learning process and require monetary support.

Faculty Mentoring Program

The UNCW Faculty Mentoring Program is designed to promote professional development for faculty by connecting them with others who can provide guidance, advice and support.

Why does UNCW need this?

As the university grows, the need for guidance in how to succeed in the system grows as well. There is a tendency for new faculty to feel isolated, overwhelmed and unsure from whom to seek advice. For a faculty member to have the opportunity to connect with an experienced member of the faculty, whether from the same department or another, would benefit both the newer and the experienced faculty members and enhance the university's sense of community.

What are the mentees' benefits?

- a concrete opportunity for growth and guidance
- a better understanding of the resources available for professional development
- encouragement and feedback
- guidance in balancing research, teaching, service, and personal priorities

What are the mentors' benefits?

- the satisfaction of extending a guiding hand to a new colleague
- the satisfaction of helping facilitate communication across disciplines
- a new, reinvigorating outlook on one's own job
- an opportunity to provide a point of stability within the organization for a new employee

Interested faculty should contact Anne Kendrick Lanier (ext. 7104, laniera) or see New Faculty at www.uncw.edu/aa/.

Cinema Nouveau

The inaugural season of the Cinema Nouveau film series will feature six French films by first-time directors. The entire series is free to the public, and each film will be subtitled in English. The first film, Seaside, (Bord de mer, director: Julie Lopes-Curval, 2002) will be shown at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 10 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. Ah, If I Were Rich... (Ah! si j'étais riche..., directors: Michel Munz & Gérard Bitton, 2002) is showing at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 11 and 17 Times Cecile Cassard (17 fois Cécile Cassard, director: Christophe Honoré, 2002) will play at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 12. Cinema Nouveau is sponsored by the French Ministère de la Culture, and the film studies and foreign literatures and languages departments. For more information call ext. 7502 or visit www.uncw.edu/filmstudies/cinemanouveau.

Children's Story Time

The Seahawk Perch, UNCW's center for commuter and non-traditional student services, invites faculty, staff and students with children ages three to 10 to take advantage of Children's Story Adventures. The program is offered every Wednesday from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in the children's literature section of Randall Library and is designed to give parents uninterrupted time to study or research while their children enjoy readings of age-appropriate literature by student and staff volunteers. To register children for the program, contact the Seahawk Perch at ext. 7371 or e-mail seahawkperch@uncw.edu.

English Department Films

The Department of English is presenting films based on literary works by or about African Americans. Faculty will introduce each film at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 10, Tuesday, Feb. 17 and Tuesday, Feb. 24 in Morton Hall, Bryan Auditorium. Admission to the films is free and open to the public.

• Feb. 10—The Color Purple, based on Alice Walker's epistolary novel. Lu Ellen Huntley will introduce The Color Purple, which was filmed mostly in Anson County on land owned by her father, Harry Huntley. She will offer firsthand observations about the film's production.

• Feb. 17—Driving Miss Daisy, based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning play by Alfred Uhry. This 1989 movie won Academy Awards for best picture and best actress. The film will be introduced by Lewis Walker.

• Feb. 24—A Raisin in the Sun, based on Lorraine Hansberry's award winning play, has been referred to as "one of the most powerful films to grace the 1961 screen." Hansberry's work was inspired by her own family's struggle to integrate a white Chicago neighborhood. The film will be introduced by Ele Byington of the English department.

Valentine Cabaret

The world traveled soprano soloist Tjuana Guthrie joins jazz pianist Miles Daniels from 6 to 9 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 14 to provide entertainment for a fundraising event at the Church of the Servant. Tickets are $25 per person. Advance reservations may be made by calling the church office at 395-0616. For details visit <http://churchoftheservantnc.org>

Business Briefs

This section, formerly Bookstore Notes, features information of interest to faculty and staff about business and support services. For more details, contact Brenda Riegel, ext. 7252.

UNCW Bookstore

Get ready for commencement with the UNCW Bookstore's Senior Salute, Wednesday, Feb. 25 and Thursday, Feb. 26 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Faculty may place regalia orders during this event. Celebrate the UNCW senior class with food and fun.

Campus Dining

Wagoner Dining Hall is receiving a much-needed roof repair. While there may be some noise and mess, the dining hall will remain open throughout the process.

Tell Us What You Think

Business and support services are committed to delivering quality, service and value to the university on a daily basis. But they need to hear from faculty and staff. Let them know likes, ideas for improvement or offered items or services. Ideas will be considered for the fall 2004 planning. The business and support services section includes campus dining, vending services, UNCW Bookstore, UNSea card, parking and transportation, campus services, postal services, package shipping and receiving, moving services, warehouse, surplus property, printing services, university police, environmental health and safety, business applications and financial systems. Send e-mail responses to Sharon Boyd at boyds.

Harris Teeter Linking

Use the UNCW code 5034 to link (or re-link) Harris Teeter VIC (Very Important Customer) cards. Two percent of all private label purchases (President's Choice, Hunter, HT Traders and Harris Teeter labels) will be credited to UNCW. The money is then doubled to the UNCW Legacy Hall project. Either give the VIC card to a cashier and ask to link to UNCW—code 5034—or do it online www.harristeeter.com/community/vic_link_info.php.

Tutoring Services

The Educational Lab in the Watson School of Education is offering tutoring for children, grades K-6 in reading/language arts and math. An education student will be matched one-on-one with each child for the tutoring sessions. Children attend one-hour sessions once or twice a week between 3 and 6 p.m. Tutoring continues through April 22. The cost varies according to the number of tutoring hours. For more information call ext. 3633.

Alumni Gratitude

The Alumni Relations office and UNCW Alumni Association in conjunction with Bob King '66 thank those who helped sell or promote the sale of the VW Beetle Raffle Tickets. Because of those efforts, the UNCW Alumni Association has raised to date $41,190 to benefit merit scholarships. The winner of the car is Melanie Trexler '83 alumna with a B.S. in accountancy.

The money will help to endow one scholarship. As it fell short of the initial $50,000 goal, the alumni association is seeking designated gifts to continue the quest to reach the target and appreciates any support.

Faculty-Business Workshop

Funding is available for collaborative efforts between faculty and small business organizations. For more information, faculty are encouraged to attend an introductory Small Business Innovation Research/Small Business Technology Transfer and technology commercialization workshop that will take place from 1 to 3:15 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 10 in the Golden Hawk Room, Nixon Annex, Trask Coliseum. John Ujvari, SBIR program specialist with the North Carolina Small Business and Technology Development Center, will present an introduction to the SBIR and STTR programs, the services that the SBTDC provides to those looking to submit proposals, as well as sources of additional program information. Ervin Allen, technology commercialization counselor with the SBTDC, will present an introductory lesson on the steps involved in moving a technology beyond research and development into commercialization via licensing.

The workshop will conclude with a UNCW faculty member involved with several successful Phase One SBIR projects. Attendees will have the opportunity to meet with speakers as well as members of the SBTDC's Wilmington office during and after the workshop. The program is free, but registration is recommended. Registration is available online at www.sbtcdc.org/events/sbir/workshops2004/. Contact John Ujvari at 919/962-8297 or sbir@sbtcdc.org.

MEMORANDUM

TO: The Faculty

FROM: Paul E. Hosier

DATE: February 9, 2004

SUBJECT: Hoggard Medal for Achievement

Nominations are being sought for the Hoggard Medal for Achievement. This medal, presented through the generosity of the late Dr. John T. Hoggard, is awarded annually to the graduating senior who, in the opinion of the faculty, has shown the most improvement during his or her years at the university. This honor is given in recognition of hard and honest endeavor which has resulted in great self-improvement. All seniors graduating in both August and December 2003 and May 2004 are eligible for nomination.

If you wish to nominate a student, please submit a letter of nomination stating why your nominee should receive this award. Nominations should be sent to the Office of Academic Affairs by Monday, March 15, 2004.

An anonymous committee of the faculty, representing the College and the Schools, will review all nominations and select the student who, in their opinion, best fits the criteria for the award as stated in the 2003-2004 University Catalogue, p. 82. The recipient of the award will be announced at the May 2004 commencement exercises.

Planning Council Seeks Feedback on Proposed UNCW Vision and Values

At its February 5 meeting, the University Planning Council adopted statements—printed below—of UNCW's strategic vision, identity and core values to communicate these to the campus community and receive feedback on their substance.

The planning council developed these statements following more than a dozen benchmarking presentations and open forums for groups of faculty, staff, students, alumni and advisory boards held fall semester, at which participants gave valuable input to answer the questions "Who are we?" and "What are our core values?" Additional suggestions were collected in a Web survey of faculty and staff in December. The strategic vision sets forth an ideal future for the university and provides long-term direction and an inspirational foundation for strategic planning. The identity statement concisely describes UNCW's distinguishing characteristics—"who we are and how we are different." The core values are enduring beliefs and principles that are commonly held and endeavor to put into action. Core values guide faculty, staff, administrators (and sometimes students) in performing their work.

The planning council requests that feedback be channeled from faculty through the Faculty Senate via senate representatives, from staff through the Staff Advisory Committee, from graduate students through the Graduate Student Association and from undergraduate students through the Student Government Association. For more information about the planning council, see www.uncw.edu/planning/.

Strategic Vision

The faculty, staff, administration and students of UNCW are committed to achieve excellence and to place UNCW in a position of preeminence among mid-sized, public universities in the South. UNCW will maintain an intimate learning environment for undergraduates, integrating teaching and mentoring with research and service. UNCW will promote and engage in high-quality scholarship and master's-focused graduate education, as well as in selected doctoral programs.

CAS Candidates Open Forums

The campus community is invited to meet the candidates for the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and hear their views on timely topics relevant to higher education. A reception with refreshments will follow. Curricula vitae and letters of interest for the candidates will be available the week of the candidate's open forum via http://sammy.departments/cas_applicants/

- Raymond Burt, 4 p.m.
Tuesday, Feb. 17 in Randall Library auditorium
- Donald Benson, 4 p.m.
Thursday, Feb. 19 in Randall Library auditorium.

UNCW-TV Presents The Caregiver's Journey, Part 1

The Caregiver's Journey, Part 1 will premier at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 16 on The Learning Network of the Cape Fear, Time Warner Cable channel 5, Charter Communications channel 10.

The Caregiver's Journey is a provocative, first-hand look at the issues and challenges that face over 22 million Americans daily who provide in-home care for family members. It is a collaborative project which includes UNCW's Division for Public Service and Continuing Studies, School of Nursing, Department of Social Work and Gerontology Program and several local and regional care providers and resource centers – Cape Fear Area Agency on Aging, Lower Cape Fear Hospice and LifeCareCenter, New Hanover County Department of Aging and Pender Adult Daycare.

The Caregiver's Journey will consist of additional episodes to be released later this year. Each episode will target specific challenges and identify resources for families and friends caring for a loved one and placement/long-term care issues. For more information about this series call 910/962-7304.

UNCW's Office of Federal Programs Passes $10 Million Mark

The Office of Federal Programs has surpassed the $10,000,000 mark in federal and private funds following the recent passage of the Omnibus Appropriations Bill by Congress. The total, approximately $11,500,000, includes six years of funding for the Mariculture Program, five years of funding for the Coastal Ocean Research and Monitoring Program (both programs started by the office), funds for two rural health centers in North Carolina, Aquarius undersea laboratory and funding for the Disaster Resistant University Program.

The office, established in late 1998, is mandated to identify and initiate programs of interest to UNCW and to represent the university in Washington, D.C., working with Congress to secure appropriated funds.

The office, directed by Robert Wicklund, has also formed a Joint Institute for Caribbean Studies involving four universities and has been working with the Department of Interior to establish a marine research and educational center in the Virgin Islands.

Copyright Workshop Rescheduled

The Chancellor's Office, Academic Affairs and the Graduate School will host the "Copyright Essentials for Educators" workshop from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday, Feb. 20 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. This workshop will present an overview of copyright law, including the fair use doctrine, and its application to the online world and multimedia. In addition, course packs, E-reserves, peer-to-peer file sharing and the Digital Millennium Copyright Act will be discussed. The speakers are Peggy Hoon, North Carolina State University libraries scholarly communication librarian, and David Harrison, associate vice president for legal affairs at the UNC Office of the President. Eileen Goldgeier, UNCW's general counsel, will moderate the program. All faculty and graduate students are invited to attend.

EDC Scheduling

To schedule meetings or events at the Executive Development Center, contact Delores Hansley, ext. 3578 or e-mail hansleyd.

Housing Fair

The Seahawk Perch, UNCW's Center for Commuter and Non-Traditional Student Services, will host a housing fair from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 19 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. Representatives from local apartment communities, real estate agencies and housing-related businesses along with university service providers will attend. For more information, call ext. 7371 or visit www.uncw.edu/stuaff/doso/comm for a complete list of participants.

Participants Needed

Faculty members are invited to participate in short focus group sessions from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 17 and from 11 to 11:50 a.m. Friday, Feb. 20. Both sessions will be held in Warwick Center, Room 104. Participants will receive a complimentary lunch. For more information or to register, contact Randy Bobbitt, communication studies, at ext. 7635 or e-mail bobbittw.

Alumni Lecture

The UNCW Watson School of Education Alumni Chapter presents its annual alumni lecture at 7 p.m. Tuesday Feb. 17 in the Randall Library auditorium. Linda Harrelson '82 will present "I Can Manage Myself!" The presentation is about helping students improve their behavior through self-management. It is a topic that will be of interest to future teachers and those already working with children. Harrelson is the educational trainer for the New Hanover County School's Professional Development Department. She is a National Board Certified teacher and was named to the USA Today's fifth annual ALL USA Teacher Team. Watson School of Education students, faculty and alumni are encouraged to attend.

Weight Watchers

The Weight Watchers @ Work Program has an ongoing 15-week session. The cost is $165, and the group will meet from 12 to 1 p.m. every Wednesday in the James Hall Conference Room. Faculty, staff and students are welcome. To register or for more information, e-mail Carol Noble at noblec.

Music Department

Presents

Faculty Trio Recital at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 12 in Kenan Auditorium will feature Mary Jo White, flute; Petrea Warnick, oboe; and Karen Rice, piano. The program features composers who specifically wrote for this type of trio and includes works by Alberto Ginastera, Gordon Jacob and Jean-Baptiste Loeillet. Admission is $5 for general public, $2.50 for UNCW faculty and staff, senior citizens and children under 12. It is free for UNCW students with a valid ID. Tickets may be purchased one hour prior to performance at the Kenan Auditorium box office at ext. 3500.

Soccer Camp

UNCW soccer is hosting a spring break soccer camp for boys and girls, ages five to 14. The camp is from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. March 8-12 (UNCW spring break) and includes lunch, T-shirt and swimming pool time. In addition, there is early drop-off and late pick-up available. There will be competitions, prizes and skill instruction each day. The cost is $195 with family discounts available. Children of UNCW faculty/staff will receive a $25 discount. For a brochure and application, contact the coaches, Paul Cairney at ext. 3932, e-mail cairneyp, or Aidan Heaney at ext. 7057, e-mail heaney.

Plant Ecology Seminar

The Biological Sciences Department is hosting the second of two plant ecologist candidate seminars. Steven W. Brewer, assistant professor of biology and curator of Rhodes College Herbarium at Rhodes College, will present "Phytogeography and Tree Diversity in the Maya Mountains, Belize" from 2 to 3 p.m. Friday, Feb. 13 in Dobo Hall, Room 103.

Shop for Education

The Watson School of Education is selling tickets to a sneak preview (9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, March 16) of the new Hecht's Department Store located in the Mayfaire Town Center on Military Cutoff Road. Purchase a $5 ticket and receive admission and 20 percent off purchases made that day. The Watson School of Education will keep the proceeds of the ticket sales to support expenses related to moving to the new building this summer. There will be entertainment at the store that day and other giveaways. For a ticket or more information, see Linda, Angie or John in King Hall, Room 102. Call ext. 3369 or e-mail fischettij.

Cinema Nouveau

The inaugural season of the Cinema Nouveau film series will feature six French films by first-time directors. The entire series is free to the public, and each film will be subtitled in English. 17 Times Cecile Cassard (17 fois Cécile Cassard) will play at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 12. My Idol (Mon idole) is at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 17. A Piece of Heaven (Une part du ciel) is at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 18. For more information call ext. 7502 or visit www.uncw.edu/filmstudies/cinemanouveau.

Film Series

The Department of English is presenting films based on literary works by or about African Americans. Faculty will introduce each film at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 17 and Tuesday, Feb. 24 in Morton Hall, Bryan Auditorium. Admission to the films is free and open to the public.

- Feb. 17—Driving Miss Daisy, based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning play by Alfred Uhry. This 1989 movie won Academy Awards for best picture and best actress. The film will be introduced by Lewis Walker.

- Feb. 24—A Raisin in the Sun, based on Lorraine Hansberry's award winning play, has been referred to as "one of the most powerful films to grace the 1961 screen." Hansberry's work was inspired by her own family's struggle to integrate a white Chicago neighborhood. The film will be introduced by Ele Byington of the English Department.

Tutoring Services

The Educational Lab in the Watson School of Education is offering tutoring for children, grades K-6 in reading/language arts and math. An education student will be matched one-on-one with each child for the tutoring sessions. Children attend one-hour sessions once or twice a week between 3 and 6 p.m. Tutoring continues through April 22. The cost varies according to the number of tutoring hours. For more information call ext. 3633.

The deadline for the Campus Communique is 12 p.m. Tuesday for inclusion in that week's publication.

Exempt Withholding Certificate Expires

For employees who claim exempt from withholding, 2003 W-4 and NC-4 withholding certificates expire Sunday, Feb. 15. Employees who wish to claim an exemption after Feb. 15 must submit a new W-4 and NC-4 to payroll by Tuesday, Feb. 17 in order for it to be reflected in February paychecks. Each department should have the new forms, however they may also be downloaded from www.uncwil.edu/payroll/ or visit the payroll office.

Staff Advisory Committee Meeting

The staff advisory committee is meeting 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 24 in Alderman Hall, Room 215.

Staff members are encouraged to communicate issues to a member of the committee, which includes:

Annie Aldrich, ITSD; Lisa Allred, payroll; Carolyn Andrews, library services; Margaret Bailey, DPSCS; Glenda Bowen, Watson School of Education; Dana Fischetti, university advancement; Ann Freeman, Chancellor's office; Susie Goodrum, student affairs; Lori Leitch, biological sciences; Mike Lloyd, postal services/printing; Steve Mastro, CMS; Chuck Mills, physical plant; Annette Richards, School of Nursing; Mark Steelman, human resources; and Karen Thompson, career services.

Focus on Finances

Human resources developed a new series of workshops to assist employees with understanding financial planning. The human resources spring 2004 training manual will provide details about the series, which will help individuals prepare for financial realities to have a better chance of achieving financial goals at a comfortable standard of living.

Shared Leave

Tim Ciotti and Mary Nixon, physical plant, and Wendy Stillinger, admissions, need shared leave donations. Send vacation leave donations to Alice Maile in human resources.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Ross Hein and Dominic Landucci, CMS-NURC, and Eric Pagnozzi, application services.

UNCW will foster a secure and attractive campus, encourage intellectual and cultural diversity, and value individual growth and development. In these ways, UNCW will prepare its graduates for a lifetime of learning, achievement and service for the betterment of self and community.

Identity Statement

At UNCW, passionate and engaged teaching, learning and research matter. UNCW is an active learning community that uniquely combines a small-college commitment to excellence in teaching with a research university's opportunities for student involvement in significant faculty scholarship.

Core Values

UNCW is an active learning community whose values give rise to a culture that fosters: creative, critical and reflective thinking; lifelong learning; communication and interaction; a celebration of diversity of people and ideas; commitment to improving the quality of life on and off campus; ecological diversity and sound environmental stewardship; and personal achievement and integrity. These core values are embodied in the following:

Teaching Excellence

Excellence in undergraduate teaching at the forefront of knowledge and technology has been a hallmark at UNCW, recognized and rewarded since its inception. A commitment to teaching excellence requires that students and teachers engage in an array of intimate learning experiences generally associated with smaller institutions and continue to build upon knowledge gained through such close interactions throughout a life of learning.

Faculty and Student Scholarship

We are a community of learners that embraces scholarship and the necessary interplay between teaching and research. At UNCW, students are afforded opportunities to learn through collaborative scholarly activities with world-class faculty at a level that rivals exclusive research institutions of a similar size.

Student Development

UNCW strives to create learning environments and experiences that promote the cognitive, affective, physical and social development of the student learner. Educators and students collaboratively identify learning outcomes that further personal and professional growth. We engage in a continual assessment process to assure a campus-wide learning ecology and community that supports the development of the whole student.

Regional Engagement

UNCW's service to the people of southeastern North Carolina is embedded in both our history and our mission. Access to our programs and services, and taking a leadership role in the long-term economic, environmental, educational, social and cultural health of our region are among our highest priorities. The university is committed to service as both an obligation and an opportunity to improve the quality of life of the institution and the quality of life in our region.

Diversity

Cultural, ethnic and global diversity are fundamental to the mission of the university and are essential elements of an atmosphere of openness and free inquiry upon which teaching and learning rests. UNCW is committed to expanding the diversity of its faculty, staff and student body and to increasing access for historically underrepresented groups. We promote a diverse learning culture for the success and enrichment of each member of the campus community. Consistent with this value, the university actively promotes internationalization of the curriculum and student body.

Integrity

We operate in an atmosphere of openness and are committed to ethical conduct and practices, to public accountability, to cultivating personal values and moral reasoning and to maintaining the highest professional standards in all academic and administrative endeavors.

Business Briefs

This section features information of interest to faculty and staff about business and support services. For more details, contact Brenda Riegel, ext. 7252.

Printing Services

Dittos – The Copy Spot and Printing Services will be closed from 8 to 9:45 a.m., Friday, Feb. 13 and Friday, Feb. 27 for training. "We regret any inconvenience, but will be using this time to prepare ourselves to better serve our campus customers," said Don Harty, print shop manager.

New Shipping Service Offered

Send personal packages by Federal Express from the shipping and receiving department located in the warehouse. Packages should be taken to the warehouse by 3:45 p.m. Payment is by cash or check.

The Fed Ex drop box for after-hours shipping is located at Riegel Road and G Street by Warwick Center. The last pickup at the drop box is 6 p.m. and department billing information must appear on the form.

UPS is still available from the warehouse. For shipping questions, call ext. 3621.

Tell Us What You Think

Business and support services are committed to delivering quality, service and value to the university on a daily basis. But they need to hear from faculty and staff. Let them know likes, ideas for improvement or offered items or services. Ideas will be considered for the fall 2004 planning. The business and support services section includes campus dining, vending services, UNCW bookstore, UNSea card, parking and transportation, campus services, postal services, package shipping and receiving, moving services, warehouse, surplus property, printing services, university police, environmental health and safety, business applications and financial systems. Send responses to Brenda Riegel at riegelb.

Friday, Feb. 13 - Baked tilapia, grilled vegetable fajita, fried okra, fresh cauliflower, O'Brien potatoes.

Tuesday, Feb. 17 - Nacho bar with chicken, beef and all the fixings.

Service-learning Conference

For the second year, the Center for Leadership Education and Service and Center for Teaching Excellence will send six UNCW faculty members to the Service-learning Conference at Elon University. The conference, hosted by North Carolina Campus Compact is from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 3.

The UNCW vans will leave at 6 a.m. CTE will cover the $40 registration cost and CLES will cover the transportation cost. The deadline to apply is Friday, Feb. 20. If you have any questions, contact Shelly Hoover in CLES at ext. 3797.

Physics Colloquium

Richard Kamens, Department of Environmental Sciences and Engineering, UNC-Chapel Hill, will speak at 2 p.m. Friday, Feb. 20 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. The title of his talk is "Secondary Organic Atmospheric Aerosol Formation: Is It Important?" Refreshments will be available at 1:45 p.m.

Farewell Reception

Join in saying farewell to Mary Crookes from 12:30 to 2 p.m. Friday, Feb. 13 in the University Living Room. Crookes, who works in the Dean of Student's Office with Transition Programs for the Division of Student Affairs, is moving to Houston, Texas.

Contact Andrea Dorow at ext. 7253 with any questions.

Student Elections

Election packets for Student Government Association positions are now available, and it is recommended that faculty encourage students to run for office. Students can pick up packets from the Campus Activities and Involvement Center, University Union, Room 205. Packets can also be downloaded from the SGA Web site at www.uncw.edu/sga. Packets must be turned in by 12 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 18. Positions include student body president, vice president, class representatives, school representatives, at-large representatives and non-trad representatives. For more information, visit the SGA Web site at www.uncw.edu/sga or call ext. 3553.

Free Tax Preparation

The Department of Accountancy and Business Law in the Cameron School of Business is offering volunteer income tax assistance to faculty, staff and students. Volunteers are certified to complete forms 1040EZ, 1040A and to calculate Education Credits/Deductions, Earned Income Credit, Dependant Care Credit and Child Tax Credit.

On campus: from 2 to 7 p.m. Friday, Feb. 20 and Friday, April 2 in Warwick Center, Room 138.

Off campus: from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 21 and Saturday, April 3 at the YMCA on Market Street.

Bring forms, W-2 and 1099's, information about other income, information about deductions and a copy of last year's tax return.

For more information, contact Gloria Sasser ext. 3509.

Office Changes

As of Monday, Feb. 16, Lynn Goodspeed will be working full time for Chancellor Emeritus James Leutze.

TECHNOLOGY CORNER

The Technology Corner from ITSD serves as an area highlighting items of interest for faculty and staff. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

Determining If a Microsoft Message Is Authentic

According to Microsoft, these three steps help ascertain that their security-related messages are legitimate:

(1) The message contains no attachments but refers users to the complete version of the bulletin on the Microsoft Web site, which provides a link to the update. (2) The message is digitally signed and may be verified by using the key published on Microsoft TechNet (www.microsoft.com/technet). (3) If in doubt, the bulletin is also listed on Microsoft.com's TechNet.

NOTE: For UNCW's latest, most accurate information regarding virus issues or other electronic attacks as well as anti-virus software information, go to www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/virus.html).

Assistive Software

ITSD and Disability Services are working to provide a new suite of software to computers across campus. This software, a Premier Assistive Technology product, is designed for the reading and writing needs of those with disabilities. The array of products may also benefit those without disabilities. The package has recently been installed in the ITSD computer labs across campus and is available for any campus computers. To install the software on a UNCW-owned computer, visit www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/premier_assistive.htm.

For questions about components or how to use any of the applications, contact Chris Stone, disability services, at ext. 7846. To report any problems with the hardware and/or software, contact the TAC at ext. 4357.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

The Division of Information Technology Systems and a team of faculty researchers in academic affairs received $82,735 from the UNC Office of the President to help UNCW with the transition from centralized supercomputing to a distributed, open and shared grid computing environment. Individuals involved in this collaborative effort include: Bob Tyndall, ITSD; Ron Vetter, computer science; Ned Martin, chemistry; Jeff Brown, mathematics and statistics; Clayton Ferner, computer science; Scott Cowdrey, ITSD; Bobby Miller, ITSD; and Ann Stapleton, biology. Grid computing aims to promote the development and advancement of technologies that provide seamless and scalable access to wide-area distributed resources.

This team has initiated the "UNCW Grid Computing Project" to explore this new research and computing paradigm. Grid computing is part of the next evolution of the Internet. According to the project group, it will provide users with high performance computing power and information services no matter their location. Grid computing is important to UNCW because it will provide faculty and students access to state-of-the-art computational and storage resources for their research. It will also help UNCW educate the next generation of computing professionals. A recent report stated that grid computing is expected to have a $10 billion impact on the North Carolina economy over the next 10 years, leading to an additional 24,000 jobs in the state.

James Henne, M.S. '02 marine biology and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and Wade Watanabe, CMS, have the article "Effects of Light Intensity and Salinity on Growth, Survival and Whole-Body Osmolality of Larval Southern Flounder" appearing in Journal of the World Aquaculture Society, December 2003.

Joel J. Mintzes, biological sciences, spent two months last summer as a visiting professor at the Homi Bhabha Centre for Science Education and National Institute for Nuclear Physics and Mathematics in Mumbai (Bombay), India. Mintzes is spending the spring semester in Taiwan (Republic of China) as visiting scholar in the Department of Ecology at Providence University in Taichung. In the fall he will be a Fulbright Fellow at Technion, the Israel Institute of Technology, in Haifa.

Michael Mallin, CMS, was a guest on Rhonda Bellamy's show on WAAV radio and discussed storm water runoff, water pollution and the importance of wetlands and streamside buffer zones.

Carmelo Tomas, biological sciences/CMS, received $146,751 from the NC DHHS/CDC for the development of monitoring methodologies for toxin-producing estuarine algae.

Jeffrey Wright, chemistry/CMS, received $98,616 from NC DHHS/CDC for a project expanding the existing surveillance systems to include Pfiesteria, other harmful algal blooms and marine toxins.

Alina Szmant, biological sciences/CMS, received $190,640 from the California Academy of Sciences for a collaborative proposal for a genome wide approach to the study of coral symbiosis.

Shannon Hooker, CAIC, received $3,000 from the Community Foundation of Southeastern North Carolina to contract the Blind Boys of Alabama to perform at UNCW (October 2003).

Hingle in Our Town

By Rebecca D'Amico, PR Intern

The Art and Theatre Department presents Thornton Wilder's Our Town from Thursday, Feb. 26 to Sunday, Feb. 29 in Kenan Auditorium. The play will star film and stage legend Pat Hingle, UNCW students and middle school students from the Wilmington community.

Hingle's performance as the stage manager in the play will mark the first time a professional actor has appeared in a UNCW performance. The play's director and UNCW art and theatre professor Terry Theodore said he wanted to cast Hingle as soon as he started on the production. According to Theodore, "Mr. Hingle has a tremendous reputation, earned over five decades of performing as a solid character in film, stage and television. He has lived up to this reputation by always being on time, always prepared and a constant source of inspiration to our students."

At age 79, Hingle has been performing in movies, television and on stage for over 50 years and can be seen in such movies as the Batman series, The Quick and the Dead, Hang 'Em High, Splendor in the Grass and many more. His stage work is just as impressive, with performances in four Pulitzer Prize-winning plays: Cat on a Hot Tin Roof (1955), J.B. (1958), Strange Interlude (1963) and That Championship Season (1973).

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT WILMINGTON

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

University Relations

Vol. XXIII No. 25 February 19, 2004

Elizabeth King Humphrey, Editor

Campus Communique Changing to Fully Online Version in March

In March, the Campus Communique, the official newsletter of UNCW, is introducing some changes. The newsletter will move to a Web-based version. This new direction is intended to provide "just-in-time" content to keep the campus up-to-date on activities and university news. Information will be updated as often as possible, making it easier for the campus community to know what is happening, where and when.

The Web site, which was designed by Kim Kelly, ITSD, will incorporate cross-hyperlinks, which allows faculty and staff to access the fullest information about articles, announcements and notices. This change comes on the heels of the benchmarking forums and requests for campuswide communication improvements.

"We're hoping this will help build a better sense of the UNCW community, eliminate e-mail clutter and have a better informed faculty and staff," Mimi Cunningham, assistant to the chancellor for university relations. The goal is to increase reader accessibility while retaining the ability to print the information.

The editorial format will be similar to the print version—with an increased emphasis on information faculty and staff need. There will be more in-depth articles from areas such as, accounting, advancement, business affairs, the Chancellor's Office, human resources, ITSD, student affairs, university relations, as well as many others. In addition to more space for popular items, such as faculty and staff advertisements, the new Web-based newsletter will increase features on faculty research and staff accomplishments.

The "Today @UNCW" section will highlight daily and upcoming campus happenings. The campus community is encouraged to bookmark—or set their home page—to the site, once it is launched and visit it often.

"We want to hear from our readers. We expect the change will help us provide better and more timely coverage of events on campus," Elizabeth King Humphrey, Communique editor and the Web site's content developer, said.

The new format will allow the university relations office to share and post announcements as often as necessary with time-stamping, so readers receive the most current information without the restriction of a weekly deadline. Michel Fougères, ITSD, has enabled readers to forward articles to others and to search for names or other information. Ultimately these changes will reduce the need for repeated messages.

Wilson Addresses Tuition Hike

The following are the partial remarks from Brad Wilson, chairman of the Board of Governors, delivered Feb. 13. The complete version is available at www.uncw.edu/news.

"The N.C. General Statutes direct the Board of Governors to set tuition rates for our 16 campuses, and five years ago the Board adopted a comprehensive policy to guide its actions in this regard. As evidenced by the lengthy discussions in recent weeks, this board has taken that responsibility very seriously.

As we continue our work, it is our duty to carefully consider all of the facts as we determine what is in the best interest of the University. We will continue to listen carefully to all who have a point of view about tuition. We will continue to study the proposals submitted by the campuses, as well as additional data provided by the campuses and the Office of the President. We will be deliberate in our consideration and debate. We are going to follow a process that is right—not fast. At the end of the day, this Board must not be swayed by prevailing political winds but must fulfill its statutory and moral responsibility and make a decision that is in the best interests of the University and the students we serve.

Reappointment, Promotion and Tenure Video

A video of the January panel discussion on Reappointment, Promotion and Tenure will be shown from 11 a.m. to 12:10 p.m. Friday, Feb. 27 in the Distance Learning Classroom, Randall Library, Room 2044 (Second floor, NE corner). This showing was scheduled at the request of faculty who were unable to attend. The video is most pertinent for newer faculty in the tenure track, but all are invited to attend. Questions can be directed to Anne Kendrick Lanier at laniera.

Open Forum – Director of Human Resources

The campus community is invited to the open forum from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 25 in Warwick Center Ballroom for William Fleming, the candidate for the assistant to the chancellor/director of human resources. The forum will include a 15-minute presentation on a topic of interest as it relates to human resources, a question-and-answer session and a reception. Fleming is the director of the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences Personnel Affairs, University of Florida.

Making a Difference Award

The Campus Activities and Involvement Center congratulates the Screamin' Seahawks for winning the January Making a Difference Award. For three years the Screamin' Seahawks have worked to bring more school spirit to UNCW. In January this student organization sent 67 members to support UNCW at the NCSU basketball game in Raleigh, created a float for the homecoming parade and cheered at all six men's home basketball games.

To nominate a student organization for the February Making a Difference Award send an e-mail to activities@uncw.edu by Friday, March 5.

YWCA Cape Fear Women of Achievement

The deadline for the YWCA awards is Monday, March 1. The YWCA is celebrating the 20th annual Cape Fear Women of Achievement Awards. These awards provide recognition for outstanding contributions and achievements of women and teen leaders active in Brunswick, Columbus, New Hanover and Pender counties and reflect the diversity of women in southeastern North Carolina. Women may be nominated in six categories: Arts, Business/Entrepreneur, Education, Health and Wellness, Public Service and Volunteer. Seniors in high school are nominated in the Teen Leader Category. The teen leader award includes a $1,500 scholarship in each of the four counties.

Forms for nomination are available at the WECT-TV6 Web site at www.wect.com, by sending an e-mail to maryywca@aol.com or by calling the YWCA at 910/799-6820. Contact Sue Combs or Mary at the YWCA with any questions.

Participants Needed

Faculty members are invited to participate in short focus group sessions from 11 to 11:50 a.m. Friday, Feb. 20. The session will be held in Warwick Center, Room 104. Participants will receive a complimentary lunch. For more information or to register, contact Randy Bobbitt, communication studies, at ext. 7635 or e-mail bobbittw.

CMS Number Change

Effective immediately, the main phone number at CMS is ext. 2031. Ext. 2300 is vacant.

MALS Lecture

Kenneth Weeden will speak at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 25 in DeLoach Hall, Room 114. He will be speaking about his experiences in the Civil Rights movement. Weeden grew up in Tunica County, Miss., attended Ole Miss just after James Meredith, heard Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Memphis and now lives and operates a planning consulting firm, Weeden & Associates, in Wilmington. The lecture is sponsored by the Master's of Liberal Studies program. For more information, contact Liz Hines at ext. 3012 or e-mail hinese.

Copyright Workshop Rescheduled

The Chancellor's Office, Academic Affairs and the Graduate School will host the "Copyright Essentials for Educators" workshop from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday, Feb. 20 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. This workshop will present an overview of copyright law, including the fair use doctrine, and its application to the online world and multimedia. In addition, course packs, E-reserves, peer-to-peer file sharing and the Digital Millennium Copyright Act will be discussed. The speakers are Peggy Hoon, North Carolina State University libraries scholarly communication librarian, and David Harrison, associate vice president for legal affairs at the UNC Office of the President. Eileen Goldgeier, UNCW's general counsel, will moderate the program. All faculty and graduate students are invited to attend.

Weight Watchers

The Weight Watchers @ Work Program has an ongoing 15-week session. The cost is $165, and the group meets from 12 to 1 p.m. every Wednesday in the James Hall Conference Room. Faculty, staff and students are welcome. To register or for more information, e-mail Carol Noble at noblec.

Personalized Gear

The Department of Athletics announces the personalized Seahawk gear Web site. A percentage of every purchase benefits the UNCW Athletic Scholarship Fund. Seahawk fans can purchase apparel and various accessories, personalized to their liking. Seahawk gear can also be found at several national and local outlets, including the Seahawk Shop in the lobby of Trask Coliseum. UNCW fans can access the personalized gear Web site or the Seahawk Shop online at www.UNCWsports.com and follow the link at the top of the page.

Writing Contest

Students in grades 8-12 who dream of diving in the world's oceans now have the opportunity to enter a contest to win a trip to Key Largo, Fla., SCUBA certification and a personal tour inside Aquarius, America's inner space station. The trip will include the student's teacher and parents. Aquarius aquanauts want to hear from students, in 1,000 words or less, about why they would want to live under the ocean in Aquarius for 10 days. An application form and contest details are available at www.uncwil.edu/nurc/aquarius. Entries must be received by Friday, April 9.

Moviemaker Lectures

The Film Studies Department will host a Moviemaker Guest Lecture screening and discussion featuring Tom Priestley Jr., ASC, from 2 to 4 p.m. Friday, Feb. 20 in Bryan Auditorium, Morton Hall, Room 100. Priestley has served as director of photography, cinematographer and/or camera operator on major motion pictures such as The Thomas Crown Affair, A League of Their Own, Sleeping with the Enemy, F/X, Silkwood, and The World According to Garp. Priestley will discuss his work in film and on recent features such as Barbershop and Barbershop II.

The series continues from 2 to 4 p.m. Friday, Feb. 27 with Alonzo Wilson, a costume designer. Moviemaker events are free and open to the public. For more information contact the Film Studies Department at ext. 7502 or visit the Web site at www.uncw.edu/filmstudies.com.

Association Meeting

All university members are invited to attend Black Faculty and Staff Association (BFSA) meetings. The next brown bag lunch meeting will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 26 in the Warwick Center Ballroom 4. Refreshments and dessert will be provided. Contact Deborah Brunson at brunsond or Kate Temoney at temoneyk with questions.

Biological Sciences Seminar

Bongkeun Song, postdoctoral fellow at Princeton University will present the Biological Sciences Marine Microbiologist Candidate Seminar, "Implications Of Functional Gene Diversity and Regulation in Microbial Ecology: Marine Diatoms and Arsenate Reducers." The seminar is from 2 to 3 p.m. Friday, Feb. 20 in Dobo Hall, Room 103.

Ash Wednesday Service

United Christian, Episcopal, Lutheran and Catholic campus ministries will sponsor an ecumenical service of word and distribution of ashes to begin the season of Lent. The service is from 12:15 to 12:45 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 25 in the Warwick Ballroom. It is open to the public. Contact Cathy Rusin at 792-0507 or ccmuncw@aol.com.

Relay for Life Buttons

As a fundraiser for Relay for Life, the Registrar's Office has buttons available for a $2 donation. The buttons are titled "My Reason to Relay" and allow a photo to be inserted of a person to honor. The office has buttons available with university employees who are cancer survivors or have died from cancer, if faculty/staff wish to honor one of them and wear one of these buttons. The Registrar's Office has a collection that is available for faculty/staff to view. Contact ext. 4202 if interested in making a donation or visiting to view some samples. For more information about Relay for Life, visit www.newhanoverrelay.org.

Soccer Camp

UNCW soccer is hosting a spring break soccer camp for boys and girls, ages five to 14. The camp is from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. March 8-12 (UNCW spring break) and includes lunch, T-shirt and swimming pool time. In addition, there is early drop-off and late pick-up available. There will be competitions, prizes and skill instruction each day. The cost is $195 with family discounts available. Children of UNCW faculty/staff will receive a $25 discount. For a brochure and application, contact the coaches, Paul Cairney at ext. 3932, e-mail cairney.p, or Aidan Heaney at ext. 7057, e-mail heaney.a.

Focus on Finances

Human resources designed a series of workshops to assist employees with understanding the importance of financial planning. The human resources spring 2004 training manual provides details about the series. The following workshops will be held the first week in March.

Pre-planning for Financial Aid

Emily Bliss, director of FAVSO, will show how to squeeze the most out of the financial aid process by mastering the paperwork and hunting for scholarships and grants. The program is from 10 to 11 a.m. Tuesday, March 2 in the University Union, Room 201.

Teachers & State Employees Retirement System (TSERS)

Employees can get an explanation of the TSERS retirement plan and questions answered by a representative from the State Retirement System. This event, from 10 to 11 a.m. Wednesday, March 3 in Warwick Center Ballroom 4 is for employees at all stages of state service.

Social Security Administration

A representative from the Social Security Administration will discuss the eligibility requirements for Social Security retirement, disability and Medicare and the application process and documents necessary to enroll for benefits. This seminar is from 10 to 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Friday, March 5 in University Union, Room 201.

University Letterhead

A reminder to all faculty and staff: UNCW letterhead should not be used by faculty, staff, or students for business not related to university relations or events. All personal subject matter should be addressed on personal or blank stationery. University letterhead should not be used for billing for personal services, or to present opinions in ways that imply endorsement by the university. The university does not take a position on political or religious issues.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: John McGee Jr., A/V media services; James Parker, physical plant; and Mary Ellen Russell, campus recreation.

It is free to the public and is subtitled in English. For more information call ext. 7502 or visit www.uncw.edu/filmstudies/.

SEAASLC Planning

The South Eastern African-American Student Leadership Conference (SEAASLC) returns to UNCW in spring 2005. The conference originated at UNCW and rotates between different schools each year. This conference was designed to develop and strengthen the leadership abilities and skills of African-American students across the southeastern United States and is open for all students to attend. Faculty and staff are invited to a meeting if interested in being a part of the planning committee for next year. Students are encouraged to attend as well. The interest meeting is at 5:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 23 in the University Union, Room 105. Contact Tabitha Mason or Shelly Hoover at ext. 3877 with any questions.

Service-learning Conference

For the second year, the Center for Leadership Education and Service and Center for Teaching Excellence will send six UNCW faculty members to the Service-learning Conference at Elon University. The conference, hosted by North Carolina Campus Compact is from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 3.

The UNCW vans will leave at 6 a.m. CTE will cover the $40 registration cost and CLES will cover the transportation cost. The deadline to apply is Friday, Feb. 20. Contact Shelly Hoover in CLES at ext. 3797.

Physics Colloquium

Richard Kamens, Department of Environmental Sciences and Engineering, UNC-Chapel Hill, will speak at 2 p.m. Friday, Feb. 20 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. The title of his talk is "Secondary Organic Atmospheric Aerosol Formation: Is It Important?" Refreshments will be available at 1:45 p.m.

Free Tax Preparation

The Department of Accountancy and Business Law in the Cameron School of Business is offering volunteer income tax assistance to faculty, staff and students. Volunteers are certified to complete forms 1040EZ, 1040A and to calculate Education Credits/Deductions, Earned Income Credit, Dependant Care Credit and Child Tax Credit.

- On campus: from 2 to 7 p.m. Friday, Feb. 20 and Friday, April 2 in Warwick Center, Room 138.
 - Off campus: from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 21 and Saturday, April 3 at the YMCA on Market Street.
 - Bring forms, W-2 and 1099's, information about other income, information about deductions and a copy of last year's tax return.
- For more information, contact Gloria Sasser ext. 3509.

Name Change

The Department of Chemistry will change its name to the Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry effective Monday, March 1.

The addition of several biochemists to the department's faculty, a biochemistry option for chemistry majors, and the addition of biochemistry to the core of the chemistry graduate program are all recent changes that are reflected in the department's new name.

TECHNOLOGY CORNER

The Technology Corner from Information Technology Systems highlights items of interest for faculty and staff. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

Beware of Malware and Spyware

With many computer safety phrases being regularly mentioned, two terms to be aware of are "spyware" and "malware." Spyware is any technology that aids in gathering information about a person or organization without their knowledge. On the Internet, spyware is programming that is put in someone's computer to secretly gather information about the user and relay it to advertisers or other interested parties. Spyware can get in a computer as a software virus or as the result of installing a new program. Malware (short for malicious software) is a term which is applied to cover the entire gamut of hostile software, such as viruses, trojan horses and worms. Malware is designed to specifically damage or disrupt a system.

Suspect that a computer is infected? Many spyware removal programs are available for download from the Internet; the most commonly used are Ad-Aware and SpyBot (available via search through www.downloads.com or www.tucows.com). These programs scan your system for known spyware/malware programs, display the list to you, and then offer removal options. IMPORTANT NOTE: Although these programs can detect malware on a system, removal of malware programs can damage the system (that is what they are designed to do). If malware is found on a personal system, it is highly recommended hiring a computer professional to remove it for you. For more information contact the Technology Assistance Center at 4357.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Philip Furia, creative writing, did an encore performance of "Jeepers Creepers: The Life and Songs of Johnny Mercer" with chanteuse Banu Gibson and her Hot Jazz Trio at Le Chat Noir in New Orleans. His entries on several popular songs of the 1930s were published in The Encyclopedia of the Great Depression.

Beverly Vagnerini, ITSD, gave a presentation on "Building Your Task Team: Launch and Support" at the Developing Your Education Community conference at the University of Central Florida's Center for Digital Education. This presentation, which focused on UNCW's Dell Laptop Initiative, emphasized ways of taking the first steps toward student computing, employing project management techniques and recruiting the right task team members. Information on the Dell Laptop Initiative is at www.uncw.edu/itsd/laptop.html.

John Fischetti, David Gill, Dennis Kubasko and Robert Smith, specialty studies, presented "Using a Web-Based Toolset to Guide Formative and Summative Assessment" at the annual conference of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education in Chicago.

Ami Wilbur, biological sciences/CMS, received $17,325 in supplemental funding from the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission for her project "Bay Scallop Population Restoration on the West Coast of Florida."

Shannon Hooker, campus activities and involvement center, received $2,500 from the North Carolina Arts Council to help fund last semester's Paul Winter Consort performance.

Andrew Hayes, specialty studies, and Hathia Hayes, curricular studies, received $297,877 from the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction to evaluate school reform initiatives in 83 schools throughout the state.

David Padgett, biological sciences/CMS, received $9,438 in supplemental funding from the National Science Foundation for the Research Experience for Teachers program for New Hanover High School teachers.

Jeffrey Wright, chemistry/CMS, received $284,084 from Mote Marine/NOAA to fund "Toxicity, Trophic Transfer and Persistence of Harmful Algal Toxins and Metabolites in Shellfish of Public Health Concern."

Leslie Langer, SBTDC, received $101,973 from the U.S. Small Business Administration to fund the Small Business and Technology Development Center for the 2004 fiscal year. She also received $54,850 from SBTDC/Defense Logistics Agency to continue funding for government procurement counseling to serve business communities in Eastern North Carolina.

Michael Bradley, SBTDC, received $61,497 from SBTDC/SBA for federal funding to provide assistance to maritime businesses for the 2004 fiscal year.

David Blake, earth sciences, received $8,000 from the N.C. Geological Survey for the field research project "Geology of the Nutbush Creek Fault Zone in the Henderson 7.5-Minute Quadrangle, Eastern North Carolina Piedmont."

To get feedback from users during the design phase, usability studies were conducted in collaboration with Colleen Reilly, English, and two of her undergraduate classes. Participants included faculty and staff with students compiling information from users about the site.

"We hope the Web site will reflect the dynamism that is on our campus—we want to more frequently update pictures and information and let people know what is happening at UNCW as it is happening," Humphrey said.

Keep up with the upcoming changes by reading each week's Campus Communique.

In the meantime, direct any questions or comments, to Elizabeth King Humphrey at communique@uncw.edu.

Higher education has never been more important to this state's economic future. Funding decisions we make now will affect North Carolina's educational progress for years to come. In other words, the decision we ultimately make about tuition is not just about today. It is about the future.

As you know, I have spent a considerable amount of time traveling to our campuses and talking with administrators, faculty, students, and staff. I have walked the grounds, been in the buildings—both new and old—and I have seen and heard compelling evidence of the erosion of quality that is occurring in our University at an unacceptable pace."

The Division of Student Affairs and Institutional Research administer a survey to all incoming freshman at the end of their Orientation session. This year approximately 1,600 students responded and the following is some of the information gained from that survey. We hope that the publication of this information can help all of us better serve our students and better understand the "Freshmen2003@UNCW".

Why students chose to attend college

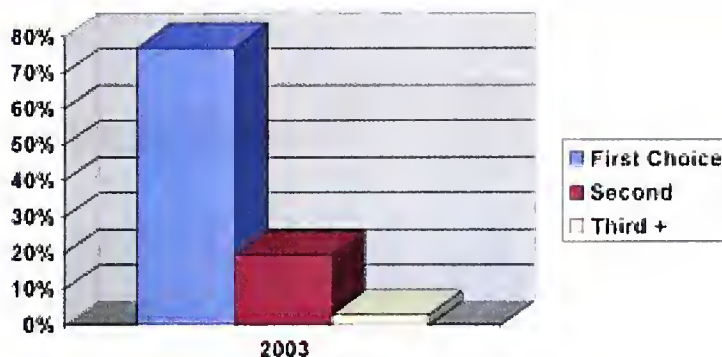

- | | |
|--------------------------------|---|
| 1 Earn a degree | 5 Fulfill parent's expectations |
| 2 Become a better person | 6 Develop a better understanding of diversity |
| 3 Being financially well-off | 7 Participate in community projects |
| 4 Become authority in my field | 8 Become a community leader |

Reasons are listed in order of importance and have remained consistent over the last three years.

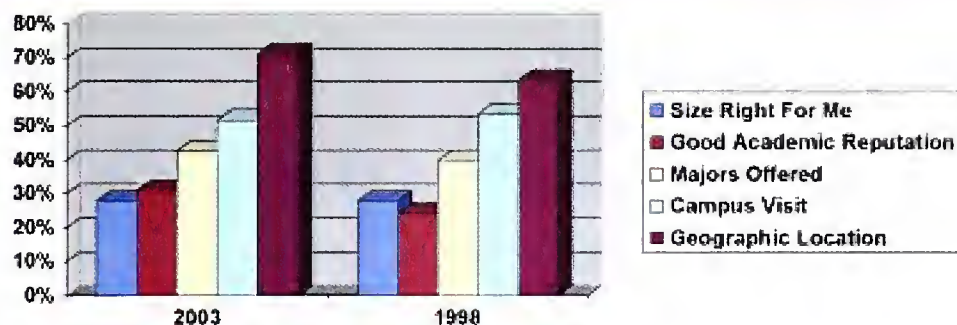

Number of colleges to which students applied for 2003-2004

UNCW's rank among the colleges to which students applied

Most important reasons for choosing UNCW

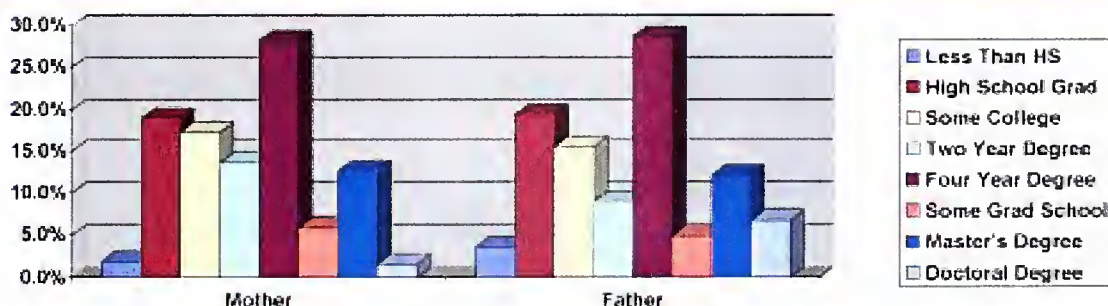

The top five reasons have remained consistent for six years. However, academic reputation and location have become more important, and size has become less important.

Resources that were important to students when making their decision to come to UNCW

- 1 Freshman Orientation
- 2 UNCW Website
- 3 Campus Tour
- 4 Visitation Day

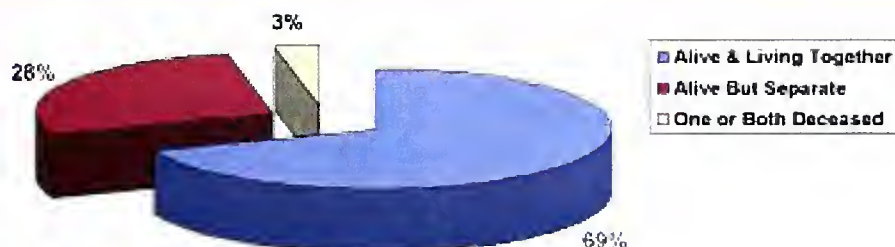

Resources are listed in order of importance and have remained consistent over the last three years.

Educational attainment of parents or guardian

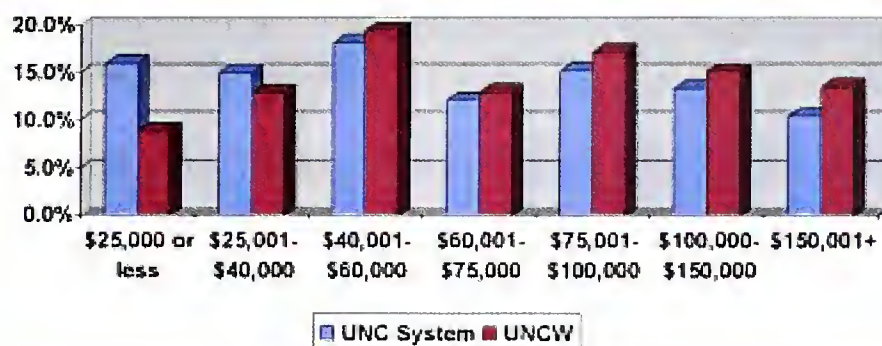

This fall, 9.8% of UNCW freshmen are the first in their family to attend college. Over the past four years, this figure has ranged from 7.8% in 2002, to 10.7% in 2000.

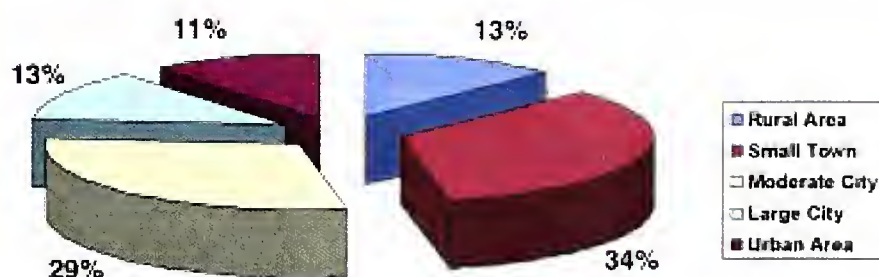

Parent's life status

Parent's combined pre-tax income for 2002

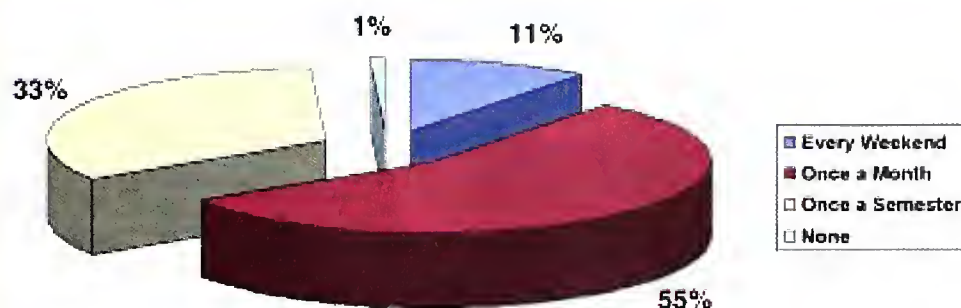

Area lived in during high school

58% of freshman surveyed indicated that they had traveled outside of the United States for varying lengths of time.

Student's expectation for going home during freshman year

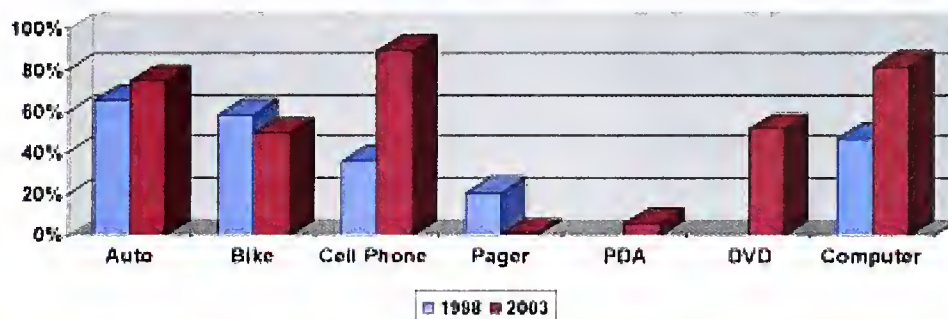

Responses to this question have been consistent over the past three years.

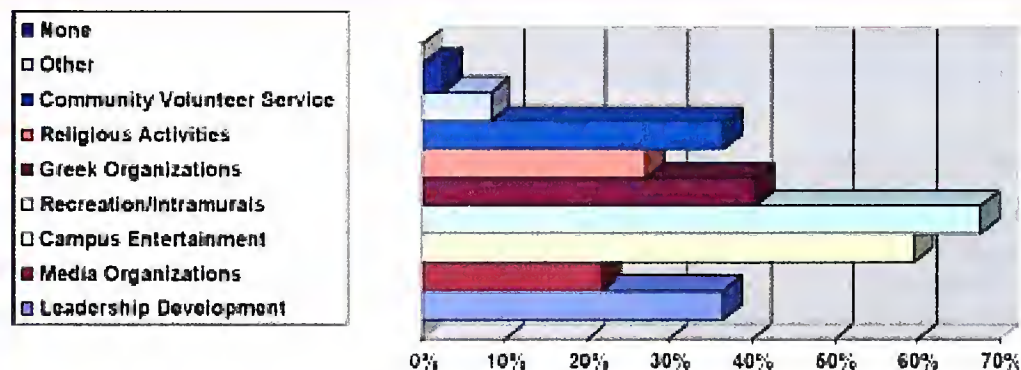

59.4% of students indicated that it would be "very important" to have a close connection with instructors during their freshman year. 37.5% indicated that it would be "somewhat important".

42.7% of students indicated that interaction with faculty would be “very important” to their success at UNCW. 51.2% indicated that it would be “somewhat important”.

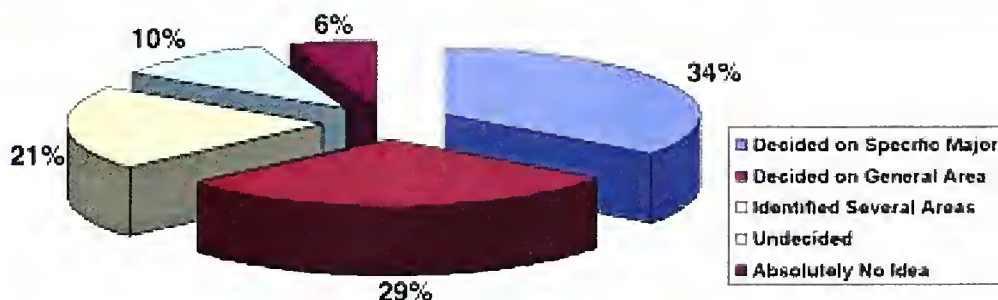

Items students said they would bring to campus in the fall

Extra-curricular activities of interest to the student

Students expressed the following regarding having decided on a college major

Responses to this question have been consistent over the past three years.

Perko Invited to National Commission

Mike Perko, associate professor in the Department of Health and Applied Human Sciences, has been invited to serve as a keynote panelist at the Joint Commission of Sports Medicine and Science Conference, Saturday, Feb. 28 in Austin, Texas.

Perko will be discussing research in the area of sports supplements and advocating for policy changes at the federal level to protect athletes from taking untested products.

According to Perko, this conference highlights an issue of national importance. "When the President of the United States mentions performance-enhancing drugs in a State of the Union address, obviously a big message is being sent that 'enhancing performance goes against the fabric of fair-play.' Sports governing bodies play an end game by penalizing athletes instead of identifying the strong influences that surround the reasons for such drug use," he said. "We need to identify the influences and begin change on that level, such as paying millions of dollars to 19-year-old super athletes. That's the message I will bring to the commission."

Alternative Spring Breaks Catching On

When the campus empties out during spring break, not all students will be in search of ski and sun. Many students are becoming interested in doing service work. One UNCW group will be visiting Arequipa, Peru, and the Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) offers three alternative spring breaks (ASB).

Ten nursing students will use the Peru trip towards their NSG 490 coursework. The Arequipa community they will be serving includes over 31,000 people, including remote, mountainous settlements. The students are encouraged to keep journals, which the nursing school will post during their trip. This first trip for students is one avenue the school hopes its students will learn to "participate in a community."

"They will be working with nurses and doctors, living with the community members and attending their church," said Bettie Glenn, associate dean of academic affairs, School of Nursing. She sees this cultural immersion as an important step for nursing students to establish the foundation and skills for transitioning into nursing and learning about "cultural awareness, sensitivity and competence."

CLES offers alternative fall break trips and is seeing an increase in

UNCW Supports Third Cine Noir

UNCW is a co-sponsor of the third annual Cine Noir film and arts festival of the Black Arts Alliance March 4-7 at Cape Fear Museum and Cameron Art Museum. The four-day jury festival of independent motion pictures by African-American filmmakers includes feature length, short subject, animation and documentary films many of which are North Carolina premieres. Two shorts, Across the Hall and The Other Side, were filmed entirely in Wilmington.

Joanne Nottingham, director of the Office of Campus Diversity, said, "This festival, which is inclusive of visual and performing artists, is the singular opportunity in the greater Wilmington community for creative and innovative black artists to have their work recognized in a significant way."

Besides a wide variety of film offerings, other highlights of the 2004 festival include talks with April Weeden-Washington, a stuntwoman who has doubled for Halle Berry, Jennifer Lopez and Vanessa L. Williams; awards banquets; a free workshop focused on launching a career in the commercial, film and fashion industries; and Kiddy Cinema, featuring three works intended for young audiences. For more information and a detailed schedule visit www.blackartsalliance.citymaker.com.

Tailgate Party

The Seahawk Club will stage a pregame tailgate party prior to the men's basketball home finale with CAA rival Hofstra Saturday, Feb. 28. The event, open to Seahawk Club members only (if not a member, join Saturday), will be held from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. on the tennis courts near Trask Coliseum. Food and music will be provided. The game gets under way at 4:07 p.m. The contest will be televised regionally on Comcast SportsNet. For more information, contact Matt Phillips, assistant director of the Seahawk Club, at ext. 7281.

Honors Fundraising

The Attractions Dining and Value Guide is on sale in the Honors Office. The book features hundreds of money-saving coupons to a number of area restaurants such as Rialto's, Clarence Fosters, Annabelle's, Priddyboy's, and Cold Stone. The cost of the book is $25.

The Honors Scholars Association is selling tickets to the Hecht's Benefit Shopping Day from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, March 16, the day before the grand opening of the Hecht's in Mayfaire Town Center. Shoppers can save 20 percent on purchases with the $5 ticket that also registers them for a $50 gift card and other door prizes. There will be sales, food and refreshments throughout the day.

Contact ext. 4181 to reserve or purchase a book or ticket, or visit the Honors Office, Randall Library, second floor.

Spring Breaks

students interested in service-oriented trips for spring.

Some of the previous trips have included work with the homeless or building homes with Habitat for Humanity. This spring's options reflect a wide range of interests. A group of students will travel to Atlanta to conduct service work with the Boys and Girls Club, Goodwill, as well as an equestrian program for children with disabilities. According to CLES, excursions during this trip will focus on "human rights, social justice and diversity."

The spring's first environment and conservation ASB will be to Tangier Island/Port Isobel. The students will study conservation issues, take canoe trips and do service work for the Chesapeake Bay Foundation.

Another CLES trip is to a Lakota Reservation in Mission, S.D. which CLES states will "expose students to the historical, political, economic, spiritual and social justice issues that impact modern Native American life."

These programs also encourage students to give back to their own communities. One member of a previous alternative break retained her passion to help and organized UNCW AIDS Awareness Day in December. In recent years, others have planned service breaks in nearby communities, such as Pender County.

According to Becky Long, community services coordinator for CLES, the service learning experience and awareness raising has the "most powerful impact on students that I've seen because they are in a different community and exposed to new life experiences. During college, a student is reaching out and learning, these programs fit into that growth and can have a lot of impact on a college student."

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Cathy Barlow and Karen Wetherill, education, received $11,200 from UNC-GA for NC TEACH.

Marvin Moss, physics and physical oceanography/CMS, received $69,358 from NOAA/Commerce to integrate the Coastal Ocean Research and Monitoring Program (CORMP) with regional and national observing, data and governance systems and structures.

Joanne Halls, earth sciences, and Andy Shepard, CMS/NURC, received $84,771 from NOAA's National Marine Fisheries Service for a multimedia approach (using GIS and the WWW) for assessment of fisheries and the habitat of the Oculina Banks Area of particular concern off the coast of Florida.

Ami Wilbur, biological sciences/CMS, received $2,600 from the Virginia Marine Resources Commission for the characterization of bay scallop restoration stocks for enhancement efforts on the Eastern Shore of Virginia.

James McNab and Piyarat Gunsalus, international programs, received $6,000 from UNC CH for K-12 international outreach, which promotes international understanding in public school children.

Robert Roer, graduate school, received $28,000 total funding from the Council of Graduate Schools to conduct feasibility studies for the potential planning of seven professional master's degree programs or tracks.

Daniel Baden, CMS, received $38,806 from the North Carolina Biotechnology Center to assemble and transport a JEOL SX102 high resolution mass spectrometer, an instrument used to establish molecular weight and formula to a high degree of precision and accuracy. The instrument is being donated by NIH.

Nancy Grindlay, earth sciences/CMS, received $11,350 supplementary funding from UCSD/NSF for the collaborative research project to investigate the effects of cold, thick lithosphere on deformation of slowly slipping mega-transforms in the Andrew Bain transform domain.

William Overman, psychology, had the article "Sex Differences in Early Childhood, Adolescence and Adulthood on Cognitive Tasks that Rely on Orbital Prefrontal Cortex" published in the February issue of Brain and Cognition.

Midori Albert, anthropology, and Eryn Murphy, anthropology undergraduate student and recipient of a 2003 UNCW Undergraduate Research Fellowship award, presented "Preliminary Observations of Vertebral Centra Retraction and its Relationship to Age" at the American Academy of Forensic Sciences meetings in Dallas, Texas.

Mike Perko, HAHS, had the article "Predictors of Dietary Supplement Use among Adolescent Athletes" accepted for publication in Pediatric Exercise Science.

Patterson Lecture

Bancroft prize-winning author James T. Patterson, will give the B. Frank Hall lecture on "Brown v. Board of Education and Its Troubled Legacy," at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 26 in Morton Hall, Bryan Auditorium. It is co-sponsored by the Philosophy and Religion Department and the Landfall Foundation.

Kate Clinton is an actress, panelist, host, and one of America's brightest political comedians. Her material about modern family relationships and perspectives on life as a gay American is illuminating and she delivers it in a fresh and savvy way. Clinton has written and performed in the one-woman shows, Correct Me If I'm Right, All Het Up and Out Is In. She has appeared on Good Morning America, Nightline, Entertainment Tonight, and the Rosie O'Donnell Show, for which she was a writer in 1986. Clinton has also appeared in several productions of The Vagina Monologues and has six comedy albums to her credit including Babes in Joyland, Comedy You Can Dance To, and Read These Lips. Clinton writes a monthly column for The Progressive and The Advocate and her first insightful and funny book, Don't Get Me Started, is based on past and present monologues. She is currently at work on her second book, Kate Clinton: Collected Speeches [I Never Gave] (working title).

Kate Clinton is represented by Jodi Solomon Speakers Bureau.

UNCW is an EEO/AA Institution

Leaders Can Be Honored with Tree

A student, faculty, staff or community member who has demonstrated leadership on behalf of the university can be honored with a tree in the UNCW Leadership Grove.

Each tree is $200; contributions should be sent to advancement services, Alderman Hall, Room 104, by Friday, April 2 indicating it is for the Leadership Grove. An information form needs to be filled out on behalf of the donor for the recipient.

A ceremony will be held to honor leaders for whom trees have been purchased at 3 p.m. Monday, April 12 in the University Commons (north entrance of the University Union). This event is a part of the installation week events and is sponsored by CLES and the campus arboretum project. For more information, contact Shelly Hoover at ext. 3797.

Honors Scholars Fund-raisers

The Attractions Dining and Value Guide is on sale in the Honors Office. The book features hundreds of coupons to area restaurants such as Rialto's, Clarence Fosters, Annabelle's, Priddyboy's and Cold Stone. The cost of the book is $25.

The Honors Scholars Association is selling tickets to the Hecht's Benefit Shopping Day from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, March 16, the day before the grand opening of the Hecht's in Mayfaire Town Center. Shoppers can save 20 percent on purchases with the $5 ticket that also registers them for a $50 gift card and other door prizes. There will be sales, food and refreshments throughout the day.

Contact ext. 4181 to reserve or purchase a book or ticket, or visit the Honors Office, Randall Library, second floor.

SEANC

The SEANC Scholarship Committee is participating in the new Hecht's Grand Opening Day, Tuesday, March 16. Members have tickets for $5 that give a 20 percent discount on all purchases from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. All money benefits the District 62 scholarship fund. Scholarship applications for SEANC, District 62 are due April 1 to Tommy Guinn, physical plant, 2004 scholarship chair for this year. To purchase tickets contact Guinn at ext. 3101, Gloria Willis at ext. 3876 or Gloria Sasser at ext. 3509.

New Surplus Store Opening

UNCW is opening the Surplus Store. The first Surplus Store sale will be 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, March 5. Sales are open to the general public for cash sales only.

Subsequent sales will be held April 23, May 14 and June 11. The Surplus Store is located at the Warehouse Extension on Plyler Street. For more information, please call ext. 3621.

Catering Reminder

Campus dining should handle all on-campus catering because of liability issues associated with serving food to the public.

According to health department standards, food must be prepared in a licensed kitchen where all standards are met. One important standard is that hot and cold foods must be maintained at specific temperatures. This requires the services of professional, properly-trained staff and adequate equipment. The university has placed the responsibility of meeting these requirements on Aramark, as its exclusive food service provider.

With a variety of menus, items and price ranges, the catering staff will work to meet campus needs while also maintaining the required health and safety standards. Call ext. 3600 for more information.

Upcoming HR Courses

Advanced Connections is designed to help individuals learn to excel in delivering quality service with a caring attitude. This six-hour course, from 9 to 11 a.m. Fridays, March 5, 12 and 26, should be taken in its entirety. It is for anyone who has internal and/or external customers. Liz Grimes will facilitate this course.

The Fair Labor Standards Act is a new workshop that focuses on the role and responsibility of the supervisor in maintaining compliance with the Fair Labor Standards Act. The course, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. or 1:30 to 3 p.m. Thursday, March 18 is recommended for supervisors and managers. Kay Fryar and Mark Steelman will facilitate this workshop.

Unless otherwise noted, these courses will take place in the Human Resources Training Room, 5051 New Centre. For detailed information, to register online or to download registration forms, visit www.uncw.edu/hr. Questions may be directed to ext. 3160.

Shared Leave Needed

Tim Ciotti and Mary Nixon, physical plant, and Wendy Stillinger, admissions, need shared leave donations. Send vacation leave donations to Alice Maile in human resources.

Focus on Finances

Human resources designed a series of workshops to assist employees with understanding the importance of financial planning. The human resources spring 2004 training manual provides details about the series.

A representative from the Social Security Administration will discuss the eligibility requirements for Social Security retirement, disability and Medicare and the application process and documents necessary to enroll for benefits. This seminar is from 10 to 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Friday, March 5 in University Union, Room 201.

University Letterhead

A reminder to all faculty and staff: UNCW letterhead should not be used by faculty, staff or students for business not related to university relations or events. All personal subject matter should be addressed on personal or blank stationery. University letterhead should not be used for billing for personal services or to present opinions in ways that imply endorsement by the university. The university does not take a position on political or religious issues.

Investment Counseling

TIAA-CREF and UNCW are hosting free one-on-one investment strategies counseling sessions from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, March 8 in the Human Resources Office, 5051 New Centre Drive, second floor. TIAA-CREF consultants will provide personalized planning and guidance to help reach retirement and financial goals.

Topics can include: 403(b) tax-deferred annuities, finding the right investment allocation, TIAA-CREF investment options and retirement income flexibility.

To schedule a counseling session, visit www.tiaa-cref.org/moc or call 800/842-2003, ext. 3522.

Fastlane Seminar Series

The Office of Sponsored Programs has developed a seminar series, Fastlane, to keep the faculty and staff current in the changing face of research administration. It will be from 3 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, March 17 in Hoggard Hall, Room 226. This interactive session will stress the importance of good planning during proposal development to successful project management. Topics will include the importance of good budgets, fiscal responsibility, legal issues and auditing activities. Tiffany Mattson is the facilitator.

Tip of the Week: Protect Your Personal Information Online

Before typing personal or credit card information for online shopping, banking or filling out a form, check for two safety features: a lock icon at the bottom of the page (which signifies that the site uses an encryption system to transfer information) and check the URL on the address bar begins with "https."

Virtual Private Network for UNCW Faculty and Staff

As a way to bring additional access to campus computing resources to faculty and staff, ITSD has implemented Virtual Private Networking (VPN). It allows for authenticated, encrypted connections to UNCW campus computing resources from off campus. By using the VPN individuals can run Outlook from home to access e-mail the same as on campus with the exception of any e-mail archived to their office computer desktop. It is not recommended that individuals access their desktop; needed files should be moved to a shared server (such as Sammy). Any other computing resources on campus are available through the VPN, primarily both Web servers, thus allowing individuals to update and change their Web sites from a location off campus.

For instructions on accessing the VPN go to <http://www/uncw.edu/itsd/client/faqs.html> and click on VPN (instructions for both Windows 2000 and Windows XP Professional are available). The Technology Assistance Center (TAC) provides VPN support and troubleshooting for Windows 2000 and Windows XP Professional only. Individuals running any other operating system (including Windows XP Home) should upgrade their operating systems. To learn how to obtain the software for such an upgrade, go to http://www/uncw.edu/itsd/client/microsoft_software.html. For assistance with VPN, contact TAC at 4357.

UNC Teaching and Learning with Technology Collaborative

For faculty and administrators who were unable to participate in the Feb. 26 discussion with Frank Prochaska, executive director of the UNC Teaching and Learning with Technology Collaborative, and Laura Rogers and Hilarie Nickerson, program coordinators, ITSD is providing a link to obtain more information: <http://www.uncctl.org>.

CLES Needs Students

The Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) needs student workers for the 2004-05 school year to coordinate CLES programs including Emerge, Alternative Break Service Trips, Women in Leadership, on-campus and off-campus volunteer events, leadership conferences, the Graduation Pledge and the Leadership UNCW program.

Applications, which are due at 5 p.m. Monday, March 22, can be obtained in University Union, Room 212 or the Information Desk in the Union lobby.

Applicants should be highly motivated, self-directed and passionate about issues of social justice and civic engagement and strong in academics.

Individuals receiving work-study financial aid are invited to apply. Faculty and staff are asked to share this information with students who could benefit from this type of employment and recommendations are appreciated. For more information, call Shelly Hoover or Becky Long at ext. 3877.

Kate Clinton to Speak

The Office of Campus Diversity and the PRIDE student organization present Kate Clinton at 7 p.m. Saturday, March 20 in Morton Hall Bryan Auditorium. There is no charge for admission.

Clinton is an actress, panelist, host and political comedian. She has written and performed in the one-woman shows, Correct Me If I'm Right, All Het Up and Out Is In. She has appeared on Good Morning America, Nightline, Entertainment Tonight and the Rosie O'Donnell Show, for which she was a writer in 1986. Clinton writes a monthly column for The Progressive and The Advocate and her first insightful and funny book, Don't Get Me Started, is based on past and present

Journey to Little Rock Told in Film, First Person

The film Journey to Little Rock: The Untold Story of Minnijean Brown-Trickey will be shown at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 16 in the Randall Library auditorium. Then at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 24 in the Warwick Center ballroom, Brown-Trickey will be the featured 2004 Honors Scholars speaker. She will present "The Little Rock Nine and Beyond." There is no charge for admission to either event.

In September 1957 Brown-

Trickey was one of nine African-American students to cross the picket-lines in front of Little Rock Central High in defiance of the state and the governor and under guard of armed troops to bring an end to segregation in Arkansas. This was one of the defining moments of the Civil Rights Movement as the Little Rock Nine took their rightful place in what had been, until that moment, a whites-only institution.

Revised February 24, 2004

SPRING 2004 UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP COMPETITION

TO: All UNCW Faculty Members
FROM: Dr. Carrie Clements and Dr. Elizabeth Ervin, co-chairs, UNCW Research Committee
DATE: March 3, 2004

The Research Committee will be reviewing applications for Undergraduate Research Fellowships available for the 2004-05 academic year. Fellowship awards consist of a partial tuition waiver in the amount of up to $1000. This competition, intended to stimulate original research among undergraduate students, is open to any rising junior or senior in any department or major who has completed at least one semester at UNCW.

A proposed project may be in any academic area and should be completed by the end of the 2004-2005 academic year. Each student must have a faculty sponsor who serves as an advisor and assists in selecting a project suitable to the student's abilities and the timing of the awards. The project idea may originate with the student or advisor but must be developed to a substantial degree by the student. Course credit may be arranged through a Directed Individual Study or the Honors Program. A 1-page written report summarizing the results of the project must be submitted to the Research Committee Chair on or before the last class day of the Spring 2005 semester.

Acceptance of the award of a tuition waiver may affect other financial aid eligibility. If the proposed research involves human or animal subjects, approval must be obtained through appropriate ethics review procedures prior to the release of funds.

Each application must include a completed cover page and 15 copies of the proposal. Photocopies of approval documents must be submitted with the proposal. Information packets and application forms will be available online at www.uncw.edu/urc/index.html after February 1.

Candidates must file their application with their respective department chairperson no later than March 29, 2004. Each department chair should review the completed application and sign the information sheet indicating the availability of departmental resources for the project. Candidates should then deliver their completed application package to S&B 110, by 5:00 pm, April 2 and register for an interview with the Faculty Research Committee. Interviews will last approximately 15 minutes and will be held April 27th between 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.

Please announce this competition to your students. For further information please contact Dr. Carrie Clements (clementsc@uncw.edu; 962-4297) or Dr. Elizabeth Ervin (ervine@uncw.edu; 962-3650), Research Committee Co-Chairs, or visit the Undergraduate Research Fellowship Web site at www.uncw.edu/urc.html.

PLEASE ANNOUNCE IN CLASS AND POST

MEMORANDUM

To: UNCW Faculty

From: John W. Myers, Associate Director, UNCW Honors Scholars Program

Please seriously consider teaching an honors course in fall 2004. Course schedules will be due toward the end of January.

The advantages are many:

- small classes (limited to 20 students)
- a chance to experiment with a favorite subject in a seminar format
- the opportunity to explore the subject in more depth and in different ways than in a general education class
- the ability to incorporate more hands-on experiences in the form of local field trips, often with honors program support, and to places beyond (e.g.: the possibility of designing a course which fits with the honors fall lyceum trip to Washington, DC).
- bright students
- overload pay for HON 120 and HON 210

If you are so inspired, I encourage you to express your desire to your department chair and seek her/his approval to include such a course in the Fall 2004 course schedule. If you would like to design and teach a course for honors students, please consider submitting a proposal for any of the following options:

Honors Basic Studies (3hrs):

Honors 120 Enrichment Seminars (1hr)

Honors 210 Interdisciplinary Seminar (3hrs)

Honors Basic Studies is usually taught as part of an instructor's regular course load. Honors 120 and 210 are paid as overload at the current rates for part-time teaching. The Honors homepage contains lengthier descriptions of each of these options as well as additional information regarding the program. Go to (<http://www.uncw.edu/honors/>) and click on "Faculty Teaching Opportunities and Course Proposal Form." If you have additional questions about any of these options for teaching in the Honors Scholars Program, do not hesitate to contact me by email (myersj@uncw.edu), or at 962-3528. Please share some of your enthusiasm for your subject with these talented new scholars. Then, fill out the UNCW HONORS COURSE PROPOSAL FORM provided on the honors website, get your chair's approval, and return it to me as soon as you have approval, or at the latest when your schedule requests are due in your own academic department.

With Best Wishes for a Happy New Year,

John

Sandhills Regional Psychology Conference Hosts Dolphin Trainer Alum and Other Speakers

UNCW will host the third annual Regional Sandhills Psychology Conference March 19 and 20. The opening event is at 12 p.m. Friday, March 19 with an introduction by the conference chair, Len Lecci, psychology. The list of speakers is varied and includes a keynote speech on contemporary racism. More than 100 people are expected to attend and present, including faculty from FSU, NCSU, UNC-CH and Duke University.

Friday's events will focus on subjects such as eating disorders, the drug Ecstasy and drinking. Brendan Curl, a UNCW alumnus of the psychology and marine biology programs, will discuss his experiences as a dolphin trainer at Sea World Adventure Parks.

"He can provide our students with an idea of what one can do with an undergraduate degree besides going into academia," Lecci said.

Saturday's events include symposia about folk psychology and family violence, addresses on neuropsychology and clinical supervision theory and practice. Many UNCW faculty will be participating in the conference. Friday Mark Galizio will speak about the MDMA (Ecstasy) controversy. Saturday Julian Keith will discuss the cortical memory system and James Johnson will talk about racial responses. Mary Engelstatter, Kristen Longmire and Caroline Clements will participate in the symposium about recent developments in family violence research. Antonio Puente will address the practice of neuropsychology.

The keynote speaker, John

F. Dovidio from Colgate University, will complete the conference at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, March 20 with "Can't We All Just Get Along: The Consequences of Contemporary Racism."

The event is being sponsored by PSI CHI, the psychology honors society, and is supported by the university's psychology department and Honors College. The conference is open to the public for a fee and free for UNCW students. Registration is required. To receive a full conference package, the registration deadline is Monday, March 15. However, on-site registration is available. Registration forms can be downloaded and more information may be found at www.uncfsu.edu/SandhillsProceedings/Conference/AnnualConference.htm.

UNCW Nursing Students Write Home from Peru

Ten senior nursing students are in Peru to serve the Arequipa community as part of their NSG 490 - Clinical Capstone Experience. The Arequipa Health Care Center was founded by Father Alex Busuttill nine years ago. Today it consists of a health clinic, child care center, and food distribution center providing 400 meals a day for indigent residents, the homeless, sick and shut-ins, the child care center and employees of the health care center. The population served is approximately 31,800. The ten students and two faculty are focusing their health care services in adult care, child care and community health.

The UNCW community can follow their daily experiences by visiting the School of Nursing Web site at www.uncw.edu/son/perureport.htm.

Departmental Projects

The Honors Scholars Program is sponsoring a lecture for students about working on honors projects from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 17 in Warwick Center, Room 138.

The current issue of the Department of Communication Studies newsletter is now available in PDF format. Please click on CONTACT or visit www.uncw.edu/com/newsletter.htm to view and print this publication via Acrobat Reader.

IRB Protocols and Compliance Workshop

The IRB will begin auditing the records of investigators who have conducted research with human subjects in the past three years. The Office of Sponsored Programs has developed a seminar series to keep faculty and staff current about research administration and the auditing process.

"Compliance Monitoring of IRB Protocols" is planned from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 24 in the University Union, Room 201. This seminar will address the policies and procedures surrounding post IRB-approval compliance monitoring. It will include a discussion of which records and processes will be reviewed, what to do to prepare for an IRB audit and how findings of noncompliance might be handled.

Tiffany Matson will be the event's facilitator. To register, e-mail Michelle Starks at starksm.

Best Practices: A Discussion of Advising throughout a Student's Career

The General College Advising Center welcomes the UNCW community interested in knowing about effective academic advising from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 16 in the University Union, Room 100. At this 90-minute meeting, general college advisors will describe ways for advisors to develop a positive working relationship with their advisees and to offer valuable assistance with their students' questions, problems and concerns about all academic issues and decisions. RSVP to ext. 3005 or e-mail rockwellm.

Discussion Moderators Needed for Whale Rider

The Center for Leadership Education and Service is seeking faculty or staff members to moderate a discussion following the showing of the movie Whale Rider. As part of the Leadership Film Discussion Series, Whale Rider will be shown at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 30 in King Hall, Room 101. Whale Rider tells the story of a young girl's determination to prove her ability to become the next leader of her New Zealand tribe. If interested in moderating this film discussion, contact Emily Gorman-Fancy or Shelly Hoover at ext. 3877.

Business Briefs

This section features information of interest to faculty and staff about business and support services. For questions, contact Brenda Riegel, ext. 7252.

New Faces at Suppli-EZ

Priscilla Sykes has joined the Suppli-EZ staff as an accounting technician. Sykes transferred from accounting and is now available to answer Suppli-EZ accounting and billing questions. Her extension is 3094.

Tyrone Addison is the Suppli-EZ stock clerk. Questions about an order may be directed to Addison at ext. 3180.

"We are glad to have Priscilla and Tyrone on the Suppli-EZ team," said Julia McCombs, manager. "They will help us provide better service to the university community." McCombs may be reached at ext. 3097.

Finding the Money

The Office of Sponsored Programs is hosting a seminar for students, recent Ph.Ds or senior faculty members about searching for sponsorship information and research funding. "How to Find Funding Sources" is from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, March, 31 in University Union, Room 201. This session will focus on electronic aids in locating research funding, including funding databases and e-mail alert services. M.J. Carver will facilitate. To register, e-mail Michelle Starks at starksm.

Reappointment, Tenure and Promotion Video

The final showing of a video of the reappointment, tenure and promotion panel discussion held in January has been scheduled at 8 a.m. Friday, April 23 in the distance education classroom in the library, second floor, east (front). This time slot was selected to accommodate the remaining faculty who were unable to attend either the panel discussion itself or the first video showing. Other interested faculty are encouraged to attend.

For information, contact Anne Kendrick Lanier at laniera.

Musical Pair: Ryoanji Duo

Frank Bongiorno, saxophone, and Rob Nathanson, guitar, will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 18 in Kenan Auditorium. They will premiere a recent work by acclaimed composer David Kechley, along with other commissioned pieces. This concert is the last U.S. performance before their tour in Austria. General admission is $5, and free for UNCW students with a valid student ID.

Peace Corps Volunteers

The Center for Leadership Education and Service will host a reception honoring faculty, staff or students who are former Peace Corps volunteers at 4 p.m. on Thursday, March 25 in the University Union Living Room.

Students will be invited to learn about the Peace Corps and what this type of service experience is like. A Peace Corps representative will also be present.

Contact Becky Long at ext. 3043 or longb or Jamie Herring at ext. 3877 or jnh6805@uncw.edu with names of any Peace Corps volunteers.

Poetry Slam

The Watson School of Education is hosting a Poetry Slam at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 16 at the Water Street Restaurant, 5 South Water Street. The first place prize is $200. Winners and a few selected poets will be invited to perform with performance poets seen on HBO and Broadway in a show at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 27 in Kenan Auditorium. For details, contact Maurice Martinez ext. 4279 or e-mail martinezm. Admission is free.

Leaders Can Be Honored with Tree

A student, faculty, staff or community member who has demonstrated leadership on behalf of the university can be honored with a tree in the UNCW Leadership Grove.

Each tree is $200; contributions should be sent to advancement services, Alderman Hall, Room 104, by Friday, April 2 indicating it is for the Leadership Grove. An information form needs to be filled out on behalf of the donor for the recipient.

A ceremony will be held to honor leaders for whom trees have been purchased at 3 p.m. Monday, April 12 in the University Commons (north entrance of the University Union).

This event is a part of the installation week events and is sponsored by CLES and the campus arboretum project. For more information, contact Shelly Hoover at ext. 3797.

Changes to State Medical Plan

Effective April 1, Allegra®, Allegra-D®, and Clarinex® move to non-preferred $40 co-pay. N.C. Teachers' and State Employees' Comprehensive Major Medical Plan members receiving prescriptions for these drugs will be charged the non-preferred co-pay of $40 for each 34-day supply. Members currently using a prescription antihistamine may wish to consider non-prescription, over the counter alternatives such as Alavert®, Claritin®, Claritin-D® or generic Loratadine. They can be purchased at local pharmacies in the same way as any other over the counter medicine. Another alternative for allergies available over the counter is Chlortrimeton® or generic chlorpheniramine tablets (may be labeled allergy tablets). They can be as effective and are much less expensive than other antihistamines, however, they may cause drowsiness and are best taken in the evening. By purchasing over the counter products, members may save money. The cost of treatment with the over the counter alternatives is typically less than $1 per day—a possible savings of up to $15 a month. If members have any questions you may contact AdvancePCS customer services at 888/693-7750.

Computer Virus Help at the TAC (Technology Assistance Center)

ITSD and its departments have a variety of techniques for controlling virus outbreaks. The first line of security is the firewall on all centralized servers that typically prevents invasion. Another ongoing feature of security is the monthly update of security patches prescribed by various vendors. Other preventative measures taken are campus-wide licensing of Norton Anti-Virus and Live-Update for continual virus descriptions for desktop computers and finally, information updates on the latest virus or worm on the ITSD Client Services Virus Information Resource Center online page at www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/virus.html. This site also recommends having a system to back up files from a hard drive onto a removable device. For security tools for faculty and staff select www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/update_faculty.html.

Today's Technology Tip:

When using Outlook, there are numerous shortcuts to use for efficiency. A few examples: Control + D deletes current mail; Shift + Delete permanently deletes current mail; F7 starts spell check; Control + Z undoes the last change. For more shortcuts and Outlook suggestions, go to www.uncw.edu/itsd/client/exchange.html or visit www.uncw.edu/compserv/OutlookFAQs.htm.

CROSSROADS • HEALTH PROMOTION

WANT TO QUIT SMOKING? READY TO GIVE QUITTING ANOTHER TRY?

Would you like to help a friend break the smoking habit?

Commit 2 Quit is a university-wide smoking cessation program, sponsored by CROSSROADS and Health Promotion Services in the Division of Student Affairs and Project ASSIST. This program challenges any smoker, with the support of a “buddy” of their choosing, to quit smoking for one month, March 22 to April 22, 2004.

By signing up, participants will receive:

- o CO2 monitoring that demonstrates the effects of smoking on your lung capacity.
- o Feedback on your readiness to quit smoking at this time.
- o A “Quit Kit” featuring literature and tools to maximize your success at quitting.
- o A chance to sign up for quit smoking seminars throughout the month.
- o Email encouragers throughout the month.
- o Free lunch tickets for yourself and your “buddy”

Buddies are friends or colleague who support and encourage the participants to keep at the hard work of quitting. Buddies will receive:

- o A Buddy Kit, which features a free gift and tips on how to be a good supporter.
- o Free lunch tickets for the participant and the “buddy”

We will wrap up the month with a celebration luncheon for staff and faculty who quit, along with their buddies on Thursday, April 22 from 11:45 to 1:00 p.m. at the Warwick Center Ballroom. Door prizes at this event will feature gift certificates to local restaurants and a digital camera!

In you are interested in participating, you can sign up at our kickoff on the Campus Commons on Monday, March 22 from 11 to 1 p.m. (rainsite: University Union 100) or by coming to CROSSROADS: Substance Abuse Prevention & Education Program in the Friday Hall Annex between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Monday, March 22 or Tuesday, March 23.

If you have any questions, please contact Brooke Sumner at Health Promotion Services (962-7007 or sumnecrb@uncw.edu) or Rebecca Caldwell (962-4136 or caldwellr@uncw.edu).

SPRING 2004 UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP COMPETITION

TO: All UNCW Faculty Members
FROM: Dr. Carrie Clements and Dr. Elizabeth Ervin, co-chairs, UNCW Research Committee
DATE: March 3, 2004

The Research Committee will be reviewing applications for Undergraduate Research Fellowships available for the 2004-05 academic year. Fellowship awards consist of a partial tuition waiver in the amount of up to $1000. This competition, intended to stimulate original research among undergraduate students, is open to any rising junior or senior in any department or major who has completed at least one semester at UNCW.

A proposed project may be in any academic area and should be completed by the end of the 2004-2005 academic year. Each student must have a faculty sponsor who serves as an advisor and assists in selecting a project suitable to the student's abilities and the timing of the awards. The project idea may originate with the student or advisor but must be developed to a substantial degree by the student. Course credit may be arranged through a Directed Individual Study or the Honors Program. A 1-page written report summarizing the results of the project must be submitted to the Research Committee Chair on or before the last class day of the Spring 2005 semester.

Acceptance of the award of a tuition waiver may affect other financial aid eligibility. If the proposed research involves human or animal subjects, approval must be obtained through appropriate ethics review procedures prior to the release of funds.

Each application must include a completed cover page and 15 copies of the proposal. Photocopies of approval documents must be submitted with the proposal. Information packets and application forms will be available online at www.uncw.edu/urc/index.html after February 1.

Candidates must file their application with their respective department chairperson no later than March 29, 2004. Each department chair should review the completed application and sign the information sheet indicating the availability of departmental resources for the project. Candidates should then deliver their completed application package to S&B 110, by 5:00 pm, April 2 and register for an interview with the Faculty Research Committee. Interviews will last approximately 15 minutes and will be held April 27th between 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.

Please announce this competition to your students. For further information please contact Dr. Carrie Clements (clementsc@uncw.edu; 962-4297) or Dr. Elizabeth Ervin (ervine@uncw.edu; 962-3650), Research Committee Co-Chairs, or visit the Undergraduate Research Fellowship Web site at www.uncw.edu/urc.html.

Study Abroad Program Has Record Year No Measure Yet on Effects from Madrid Bombings

Last week's commuter train bombings in Madrid hit close to home for a number of faculty and staff with 34 of UNCW's students studying throughout Spain. Foreign Languages and Literatures Lecturer Valerie Rider and 17 of those students were in Madrid the morning of the attacks. Fortunately none of them was harmed, which the university was able to confirm soon after.

The nation has experienced a major growth in study abroad in recent years, as has UNCW. The national average for students studying abroad is approximately two percent. Over the past two years, according to the Office of International Programs, approximately two and a half to three percent of UNCW's students have chosen to go overseas per year, which is a record for the university.

Elizabeth Adams, director of education abroad programs, attributes some of the increase of studying abroad to college students' views that the world is a much smaller place. "With students' ready access to information about events virtually everywhere in the world, via the Internet and cable news 24/7, the world is much more of a global community."

But as UNCW students' interest in study abroad blossoms, there is the question whether fear of other attacks will curtail students' drive to study in other countries.

Installation Invites in the Mail

All faculty and staff will be receiving the invitations to Chancellor DePaolo's installation, Friday, April 16, and a packet with several additional personal invitations.

Installation week events, April 12 through 16, are an opportunity to showcase the campus to the local community, region and state.

Vendor supply delays have impacted the mailing date of the campus invitations, which are expected in campus mail no later than Thursday, March 18.

Any faculty or staff who do not receive an invitation should call Debra Strikol at ext. 3876.

Faculty and Staff Alumni Invitations

Faculty and staff who are alumni should also receive an invitation to the installation breakfast honoring Chancellor DePaolo Tuesday, April 13. Staff or faculty who do not receive the invitation by Thursday, March 25 should contact Nikki Howard at ext. 3835.

Matt TenHuisen holds the plaque that will bear his name as the "General College Faculty Advisor of the Year" for 2002-03. The presentation was made March 16 during an academic advising workshop. General College faculty advisors recognized for their outstanding advising were Tim Ballard, Tim Bass, Kathleen Benzaquin, Debbie Dowd and Jack Tompkins.

Open Forums: Online Communique

Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo welcomes all faculty and staff to attend open forums from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Thursday, March 25 or from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 31 to unveil the Web version of the Communique, which will replace the current PDF and HTML versions.

IRB Protocols and Compliance Workshop

The IRB will begin auditing the records of investigators who have conducted research with human subjects in the past three years. The Office of Sponsored Programs has developed a seminar series to keep faculty and staff current about research administration and the auditing process. "Compliance Monitoring of IRB Protocols" is planned from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 24 in the University Union, Room 201. This seminar will address the policies and procedures surrounding post IRB-approval compliance monitoring. It will include a discussion of which records and processes will be reviewed, what to do to prepare for an IRB audit and how findings of noncompliance might be handled. Tiffany Matson will be the event's facilitator. To register, e-mail Michelle Starks at starksm.

Literacy Awareness Week

The Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) is sponsoring its annual Literacy Awareness Week March 22 to 26. Literacy Awareness Week strives to educate college students about literacy issues locally, nationally and internationally. The week's events include:

Tuesday, March 23

Read-A-Thon from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the University Union, Living Room: Reconnect with the magic of reading by browsing through a collection of favorite childhood books.

Kick-off Conversation from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the University Union, Living Room: Bring any written document (book, article, letter) to discuss its personal impact.

Lunchtime Literacy Talk from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. in the University Union, Living Room: Representatives from the Cape Fear Literacy Council will discuss personal accounts of teaching literacy as well as its social implications. Bring a lunch; beverages and dessert will be served.

Wednesday, March 24

Faculty Reading at 7 p.m. at Warwick Center, Center Stage: UNCW faculty members Lavonne Adams, Tim Bass and Michael White share their original works.

Thursday, March 25

Children's Tales from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. at Warwick Center Center Stage: UNCW student storytellers recapture their childhood through personal narrative and folk story performances. Children from the community are invited and volunteers are needed. To help at this event, contact CLES at ext. 3877.

Ongoing Events (Monday through Friday)

Information Table: University Union Lobby 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Book Drive: Donate books, games, and other educational materials for children grades K-5 in the UNCW Kids Tutoring Program for at-risk children. Donations may be delivered to University Union, Room 212.

All faculty and staff are invited to attend these events and to announce the week's activities to students. For more information about Literacy Awareness Week, call the CLES office at ext. 3877.

CONTACT Arrives

The current issue of the Department of Communication Studies newsletter is now available in PDF format. Visit www.uncw.edu/com/newsletter.htm to view and print this publication via Acrobat Reader.

Business Briefs

This section features information of interest to faculty and staff about business and support services. For questions, contact Brenda Riegel, ext. 7252.

Save 50 Percent at Sidewalk Sale

The UNCW Bookstore Sidewalk Sale is Tuesday, March 23 and Wednesday, March 24. Save at least 50 percent on selected clothing from all seasons. Faculty and staff may use their bookstore discount cards for an additional 20 percent off. For questions or more information, call Phillip at ext. 7703.

Campus Dining Face Lift

The Hawk's Nest and Glass Room were updated with new carpeting over spring break. The Glass Room also now features new chairs as well, making it a more inviting spot to eat, socialize or study.

Printing Services Closing

The Print Shop and Dittos will be closed from 8 to 9:15 a.m. Wednesday, March 24 for a monthly staff meeting.

Event Signs

Campus Services would like to remind departments planning events to request way-finding signage through the facilities use manager Susie Goodrum at ext. 3011. The signs, "UNCW Welcomes..." are printed by printing services, placed before the event and removed afterwards by parking and transportation, all at no charge to the requesting department. "It's a convenience for the departments and it helps us keep our campus neat and clean," said Suzanne Helms, campus services director.

Event planners are also reminded that, in order to maintain the aesthetics of the campus, no other temporary event signs and banners are allowed. A few exceptions are permanent sign posts and the spirit rock maintained by the University Union. Call Suzanne Helms at ext. 7351 with questions about signage.

Physics Colloquia

Joshua Kessler, UNCW student, will speak at 2 p.m., Friday, March 19 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. The title of his talk is "The Discovery of the Exotic Penta-Quark Particle." His presentation will be followed by Galen Gresalfi, UNCW student, who will speak on "The Student Experience at Jefferson National Laboratory." Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

Jian-ping Chen, staff scientist at Jefferson National Laboratory, Newport News, Va., will speak at 2 p.m., Friday, March 26 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. The title of his talk is "Spinning the Nucleon into Sharper Focus." Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

Finding the Money

The Office of Sponsored Programs is hosting a seminar for students, recent Ph.Ds or senior faculty members about searching for sponsorship information and research funding. "How to Find Funding Sources" is from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, March, 31 in University Union, Room 201. This session will focus on electronic aids in locating research funding, including funding databases and e-mail alert services. M.J. Carver will facilitate. To register, e-mail Michelle Starks at starksm.

Friday, March 19 - Fried chicken tenders, baked flounder with white wine and dill sauce, herbed zucchini, Greek marinated vegetables and rice pilaf

Tuesday, March 23 - Artichoke and tomato Alfredo, flounder Florentine, confetti brown rice, vegetable medley and black-eyed peas

Peace Corps Volunteers

The Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) will host a reception honoring faculty, staff or students who are former Peace Corps volunteers at 4 p.m. Thursday, March 25 in the University Union Living Room. Students will be invited to learn about the Peace Corps and what this type of service experience is like. A Peace Corps representative will also be present. Contact Becky Long at ext. 3043 or longb or Jamie Herring at ext. 3877 or jnh6805@uncw.edu with names of any Peace Corps volunteers.

Leadership Grove

A student, faculty, staff or community member who has demonstrated leadership on behalf of the university can be honored with a tree in the UNCW Leadership Grove.

Each tree is $200; contributions should be sent to advancement services, Alderman Hall, Room 104, by Friday, April 2 indicating it is for the Leadership Grove. An information form needs to be filled out on behalf of the donor for the recipient.

A ceremony will be held to honor leaders for whom trees have been purchased at 3 p.m. Monday, April 12 in the University Commons (north entrance of the University Union).

This event is a part of the installation week events and is sponsored by CLES and the campus arboretum project. For more information, contact Shelly Hoover at ext. 3797.

Graduation Pledge Reception

The Center for Leadership Education and Service (CLES) is sponsoring a graduation pledge reception at 6 p.m. Monday, March 29 in the University Union, Living Room. All are invited to hear the history and the purpose of the pledge. The graduation pledge will take place at the senior reception the evening before commencement. CLES is sponsoring this reception to showcase what the pledge is about. Food will be served. Contact Abigail Riley at ext. 3877 or ajr6722@uncw.edu.

RTP Video

The final showing of a video of the reappointment, tenure and promotion panel discussion held in January has been scheduled 8 a.m. Friday, April 23 in the distance education classroom in the library, second floor, east (front). This time slot was selected to accommodate the remaining faculty who were unable to attend either the panel discussion itself or the first video showing. Other interested faculty are encouraged to attend.

For information, contact Anne Kendrick Lanier at laniera.

Musical Pair: Ryoanji Duo

Frank Bongiorno, saxophone, and Rob Nathanson, guitar, will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 18 in Kenan Auditorium. They will premiere a recent work by composer David Kechley, along with other commissioned pieces. This concert is the last U.S. performance before their European tour. General admission is $5, and free for UNCW students with a valid student ID.

Changes to State Medical Plan

Effective April 1, Allegra®, Allegra-D®, and Clarinex® move to non-preferred $40 co-pay. N.C. Teachers' and State Employees' Comprehensive Major Medical Plan members receiving prescriptions for these drugs will be charged the non-preferred co-pay of $40 for each 34-day supply. Members currently using a prescription antihistamine may wish to consider non-prescription, over the counter alternatives such as Alavert®, Claritin®, Claritin-D® or generic Loratadine. They can be purchased at local pharmacies in the same way as any other over the counter medicine. Another alternative for allergies available over the counter is Chlortrimeton® or generic chlorpheniramine tablets (may be labeled allergy tablets). They can be as effective and are much less expensive than other antihistamines, however, they may cause drowsiness and are best taken in the evening. By purchasing over the counter products, members may save money. The cost of treatment with the over the counter alternatives is typically less than $1 per day—a possible savings of up to $15 a month. If members have any questions you may contact AdvancePCS customer services at 888/693-7750.

Reimbursement

Wednesday, March 31 is the deadline to submit all 2003 out-of-pocket expenses for healthcare and dependent day care spending accounts to Aon Consulting. Any money not claimed by March 31 will be forfeited. Contact ext. 3160 or ext. 3713 for claim forms.

Spain

Adams said with the recent world events, it is hard to gauge. "It takes a lot to deter kids these days, especially those with a strong commitment to study abroad, which is a wonderful thing. We can't say for certain if our record numbers will decrease because of the attacks. Based on our experience during the Iraq War, we don't believe that recent events in Spain will have any long-term effect on our students' decisions to study abroad."

Department Celebrates Day with Young Alums

Communication Studies Day 2004 is Friday, March 19 and is built on the theme of Young Alumni Homecoming. Alumni panel presentations will be held from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and 2 to 3:30 p.m. During these sessions, communication studies alumni will share details regarding their academic and careers since completing their B.A. degrees at UNCW. The sessions will feature question/answer interaction with audience members. A reception in the lobby of Leutze Hall from 3:45 to 5 p.m. will wrap up the day's festivities.

According to Frank P. Trimble, chair of the Department of Communication Studies, "Communication Studies Day annually provides valuable opportunities for current communication studies majors and pre-majors to interact with departmental graduates. The synergy resulting from dialogue between communication studies alumni, students, faculty and staff is indicative of our department's culture and educational process."

Alumni panelists are: Debbie Cardamone '01, Jessica Dixon '03, Dale Kane '03, Adonica M. Long '03, Bo Maney '00, Heather C. Murdock '01, Corey K. Riggs '00, Vivian St. Juste '01, Kyle Silver '96, Kristen Trutt '99, Daniel Turner '02, Evan Vetter '02 and Patrick Whitman '03.

Clinton is an actress, panelist, host and political comedian.

Nominations Sought for Faculty Award

The UNCW Alumni Association is accepting nominations for the 2004 J. Marshall Crews Distinguished Faculty Award, recognizing UNCW faculty who have made a difference in the lives of their students. It is named for Dr. J. Marshall Crews, who served the college and university for over 33 years and continues to support UNCW on various levels. The deadline for nominations, which may be submitted by UNCW faculty or staff, alumni, students or community members, is June 30. Nomination forms can be downloaded in PDF format at www.uncw.edu/alumni and should be sent to Patricia C. Smith at Wise Alumni House. For more information call ext. 2682.

Brown-Trickey Lecture

The Honors Scholars program, Academic Affairs and Learning Communities will present a lecture by Minnijean Brown-Trickey at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 24 in the Warwick Center.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Carolyn Farley, University Union, presented two educational sessions, "Selling the Story of Your Student Center Renovation/Construction Project" and "Understanding the Role of Auxiliary Services in College Unions and ACUI," at the Association of College Unions International Conference in Washington, D.C.

Mike Maume, sociology and criminal justice, had an article, "Social Institutions and Violence: A Sub-national Test of Institutional Anomie Theory," published in the November issue of Criminology.

Rick Olsen, communication studies co-authored an article entitled "Narrative Prayer, Identity and Community" accepted for publication in The Asbury Theological Journal. After outlining the fundamental elements of narrative theory and narrative theology, the article examines several historical prayers from the Bible as well as Jewish and Christian Liturgies.

George Goudarzi, facilities planning and design, will play the tonbak in concert with pianist Roya Weyerhaeuser at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 27 on the main stage of Thalian Hall. Weyerhaeuser will not have a set playlist. Instead, she will present the audience with a choice of pieces and allows them to choose the next selection. This will be Goudarzi's second time performing with Weyerhaeuser.

Edgerton to Speak at Girls Inc. Lunch

Clyde Edgerton, author and creative writing professor, will be the guest speaker for the Girls Inc. annual fund-raising luncheon at noon Tuesday, March 30 in the Warwick Center ballroom. The program will be hosted by Frances Weller, WECT-TV 6 anchor. Tickets for the luncheon are $50 a person.

Contact Roxie Shabazz, admissions; Marybeth Bianchi, university relations, or Regan Dumas, internal audit, for tickets.

Zakaria Is Leadership Lecture Series Speaker

Fareed Zakaria, editor of Newsweek International, will discuss what globalization means for countries, individuals and corporations in a lecture titled "Globalization: The Next Phase" at 7 p.m. Monday, March 29 in Kenan Auditorium. Zakaria is the fifth and final speaker of this academic year's Leadership Lecture Series.

Free Tax Preparation

The Department of Accountancy and Business Law in the Cameron School of Business is offering volunteer income tax assistance to faculty, staff and students. Volunteers are certified to complete forms 1040EZ, 1040A and to calculate Education Credits/Deductions, Earned Income Credit, Dependant Care Credit and Child Tax Credit.

- On campus: from 2 to 7 p.m. Friday, April 2 in Warwick Center, Room 138.

- Off campus: from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, April 3 at the YMCA on Market Street.

Bring forms, W-2 and 1099's, information about other income, information about deductions and a copy of last year's tax return. For more information, contact Gloria Sasser ext. 3509.

TECHNOLOGY CORNER

The Technology Corner from Information Technology Systems highlights technology items of interest for faculty and staff. For information about the Technology Corner contact Kim Kelly at ext. 7939.

Faculty Development Opportunity

ITSD Client Services and Academic Affairs welcome Autumn Grubb who leads pedagogical training and support for faculty developing and delivering courses in WebCT at Georgia College and State University. All sessions will take place in the University Union, Room 210, and will include refreshments.

- 10 a.m. to noon and 2 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, March 24
- 5 to 7 p.m. Thursday, March 25 (light hors d'oeuvres)
- 10 a.m. to noon Friday, March 26

Grubb will present: "Managing Your Professional Development: Ways to Increase Your Knowledge, Skills, and Research as an Online Teacher." She will outline tasks and resources recommended to introduce faculty to the current knowledge, research and practices of online teaching and learning. The purpose of the presentation is to assist faculty in identifying key resources and topics that are important for their professional development as online teachers, researchers and learners.

Grubb will also present "Conceptualizing an Online Course: Good Practices of Online Teaching and Learning." This workshop outlines activities recommended to introduce faculty to a systematic process of conceptualizing a quality online course that employs best practices of online teaching and learning.

Presentations are also recommended for technology support staff.

Women in Leadership Mentoring Program Panel

In honor of Women's History Month, a panel discussion "Women in Underrepresented Fields," sponsored by the Women in Leadership Mentoring Program, will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 23 in Wagoner Hall, Madeline Suite. This event is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served. Panelists include Susan Dankel, executive manager of WHQR and an Episcopalian deacon; Laurie Patterson, assistant chair of the UNCW computer science department; Susan Fritzen, a civil engineer in facility construction; and Audra McBride, assistant director of campus recreation for the university. The panelists will discuss how they decided to pursue careers in their respective fields, discrimination they have faced as women in male-dominated professions and how women can help other women to be professionally successful.

The event is open to the public and refreshments will be served. For more information, contact the Center for Leadership Education and Service at ext. 3877.

February Making a Difference Award

The Native American Student Organization is the recipient of the February Making a Difference Award. In the month of February, with less than a half dozen members, NASO hosted its third annual powwow introducing the UNCW community to Native American dress and dancing. The event brought together Native Americans from a variety of tribes, and NASO coordinated vendors of Native American arts and crafts to be present. Additionally, the organization held a raffle with part of the proceeds going to benefit their next powwow. Nominations for the March Making a Difference Award are due Friday, April 2. Send them via e-mail to the Campus Activities and Involvement Center at activities@uncw.edu.

Retirement Reception

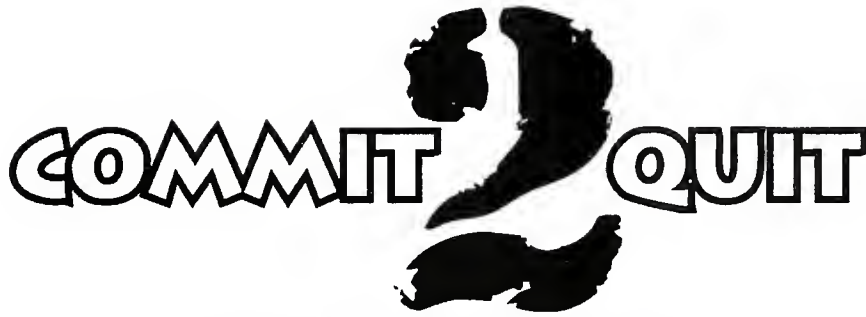

After seven years of service, Judy Gale, an office assistant with the Office of the Dean of Students, will retire Friday, April 1. The campus community is invited to join in wishing her well at a reception from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in the University Union, Room 214.

Jazz Band Clinic Performance

Students from the UNCW Department of Music's first All-Region Jazz Band Clinic for the N.C. Jazz Region East Area will perform a free concert, open to the public, at 4 p.m. Saturday, March 20 in Kenan Auditorium. The North Carolina Music Educators Association (NCMEA) and Music Educators National Conference (MENC) are co-sponsors of this event.

Azalea Festival Art

The Randall Library is exhibiting "North Carolina Azalea Festival: The 'ART' of Promotion" through Monday, April 5. It features Azalea Festival Posters from 1987 through 2004. All posters, except for three that the Cape Fear Museum has loaned the exhibit, are from the Randall Library Collection. The exhibit includes a digital image of the 1948 Azalea Festival Poster, and features artwork from Jeanne Davies, graduate of UNCW in art. Another added feature is photography of the 2003 Azalea Festival Street Fair from the collection of Sherman Hayes, university librarian.

WANT TO QUIT SMOKING? READY TO GIVE QUITTING ANOTHER TRY?

Would you like to help a friend break the smoking habit?

Commit 2 Quit is a university-wide smoking cessation program, sponsored by CROSSROADS and Health Promotion Services in the Division of Student Affairs and Project ASSIST. This program challenges any smoker, with the support of a “buddy” of their choosing, to quit smoking for one month, March 22 to April 22, 2004.

By signing up, participants will receive:

- o CO2 monitoring that demonstrates the effects of smoking on your lung capacity.
- o Feedback on your readiness to quit smoking at this time.
- o A “Quit Kit” featuring literature and tools to maximize your success at quitting.
- o A chance to sign up for quit smoking seminars throughout the month.
- o Email encouragers throughout the month.
- o Free lunch tickets for yourself and your “buddy”

Buddies are friends or colleague who support and encourage the participants to keep at the hard work of quitting. Buddies will receive:

- o A Buddy Kit, which features a free gift and tips on how to be a good supporter.
- o Free lunch tickets for the participant and the “buddy”

We will wrap up the month with a celebration luncheon for staff and faculty who quit, along with their buddies on Thursday, April 22 from 11:45 to 1:00 p.m. at the Warwick Center Ballroom. Door prizes at this event will feature gift certificates to local restaurants and a digital camera!

If you are interested in participating, you can sign up at our kickoff on the Campus Commons on Monday, March 22 from 11 to 1 p.m. (rainsite: University Union 100) or by coming to CROSSROADS: Substance Abuse Prevention & Education Program in the Friday Hall Annex between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Monday, March 22 or Tuesday, March 23.

If you have any questions, please contact Brooke Sumner at Health Promotion Services (962-7007 or sumnerb@uncw.edu) or Rebecca Caldwell (962-4136 or caldwellr@uncw.edu).

Installation Plans and Logo Unfurled

UNCW will host a week-long celebration in April culminating in the installation of Rosemary DePaolo, the third chancellor and sixth leader of UNCW.

DePaolo will take her oath of office at 10 a.m. Friday, April 16 on the lawn of Hoggard Hall. The theme of the installation is "Soaring to Greatness," and a logo and medallion were created for the event. In case of rain, the ceremony will be moved to Kenan Auditorium.

The installation of Rosemary DePaolo as chancellor of UNCW represents the continuation of centuries of long academic tradition observed by colleges and universities throughout the world. It is the public and formal charging of the chancellor with the responsibilities and powers of the Office of Chancellor.

The ceremony includes DePaolo's acceptance of these responsibilities and her pledge to uphold them. It is customary for the chancellor to give an installation response that will project her vision and goals for the institution. Molly Corbett Broad, president of the University of North Carolina, makes the formal presentation and will preside

The installation ceremony will include a Marine Corps Base Camp Lejeune color guard and a flag procession representing over 30 countries of UNCW students. Delegates from across the country have been invited to the ceremony.

Superior Court Judge Ernest Fullwood '66, one of UNCW's first African-American graduates, will administer the oath of office to DePaolo. Fred Chappell, a former North Carolina Poet Laureate and a personal friend of the chancellor's, will read a poem for the installation. Chappell, a professor in the Department

AAA Benefits

New and existing members of AAA may contact Susan Melton to discuss maximizing benefits. Phone toll free 877/690-4316 or e-mail sdmelton@aaaqa.com for additional benefit information.

Changes to Medical Plan

Effective April 1, Allegra®, Allegra-D®, and Clarinex® move to non-preferred $40 co-pay. N.C. Teachers' and State Employees' Comprehensive Major Medical Plan members receiving prescriptions for these drugs will be charged the non-preferred co-pay of $40 for each 34-day supply. Members currently using a prescription antihistamine may wish to consider non-prescription, over the counter alternatives such as Alavert®, Claritin®, Claritin-D® or generic Loratadine. They can be purchased at local pharmacies in the same way as any other over the counter medicine. Another alternative for allergies available over the counter is Chlortrimeton® or generic chlorpheniramine tablets (may be labeled allergy tablets). They can be as effective and are much less expensive than other antihistamines, however, they may cause drowsiness and are best taken in the evening. By purchasing over the counter products, members may save money. The cost of treatment with the over the counter alternatives is typically less than $1 per day—a possible savings of up to $15 a month. If members have any questions you may contact AdvancePCS customer services at 888/693-7750.

Faculty Development Opportunity

ITSD Client Services and Academic Affairs welcome Autumn Grubb who leads pedagogical training and support for faculty developing and delivering courses in WebCT at Georgia College and State University. All sessions will take place in the University Union, Room 210, and will include refreshments.

- 5 to 7 p.m. Thursday, March 25 (light hors d'oeuvres)
- 10 a.m. to noon Friday, March 26

Grubb will present: "Managing Your Professional Development: Ways to Increase Your Knowledge, Skills, and Research as an Online Teacher." She will outline tasks and resources recommended to introduce faculty to the current knowledge, research and practices of online teaching and learning. The purpose of the presentation is to assist faculty in identifying key resources and topics that are important for their professional development as online teachers, researchers and learners.

Grubb will also present "Conceptualizing an Online Course: Good Practices of Online Teaching and Learning." This workshop outlines activities recommended to introduce faculty to a systematic process of conceptualizing a quality online course that employs best practices of online teaching and learning.

Presentations are also recommended for technology support staff.

Azalea Festival Art

The Randall Library is exhibiting "North Carolina Azalea Festival: The 'ART' of Promotion" through Monday, April 5. It features Azalea Festival Posters from 1987 through 2004. All posters, except for three that the Cape Fear Museum has loaned the exhibit, are from the Randall Library Collection. The exhibit includes a digital image of the 1948 Azalea Festival poster, and features artwork from Jeanne Davies, graduate of UNCW in art. Another added feature is photography of the 2003 Azalea Festival Street Fair from the collection of Sherman Hayes, university librarian.

Open Art Hang 2004

All UNCW students, faculty and staff are invited to hang one piece of two-dimensional artwork in the University Union Gallery. The artwork must be ready-to-hang—that doesn't necessarily mean framed, but at least dry and wired. The first 25 pieces of art will be hung.

Bring art from noon to 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 31 to the University Union Living Room or from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Thursday, April 1. The art will be displayed from April 2 through June 28.

The exhibit is organized by members of the University Union Art Committee. For more information contact the Campus Activities and Involvement Center, ext. 3827 or University Union, Room 209 or visit www.uncw.edu/arts.

Yellow Eyed Penguins

William J. Cooper, chemistry/CMS, at 2 p.m. Friday, March 26 in Dobo Hall, Room 103, is presenting a "non-technical" talk on yellow eyed penguins. Cooper has some video footage that is a "first of a kind" in the nests where 10-day-old chicks are being fed.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Robert H. Cutting, environmental studies, was awarded a $3,000 Summer Curriculum Development Initiative stipend for his proposal "Development of Advanced Topics in Law and the Environment." This will involve research into current issues in law that affect the environment, and synthesis of these materials into: (1) the Environmental Law Research Module (www.uncwil.edu/evs/module/index.html) and (2) a new course "Advanced Topics in Law and the Environment" to be offered fall 2004.

Martin Posey, Troy Alphin, Heather Harwell (M.Sc. student) and Thomas Molesky (recent M.Sc. Graduate), biological sciences and CMS, gave an invited presentation, "Effects of Reef Complexity on Habitat Function for Intertidal Oysters," at the World Aquaculture meetings. Posey and Alphin were also co-authors on another presentation at the WAS meetings, "Baseline Port Surveys for Introduced Marine Molluscan, Crustacean and Polychaete Species in the South Atlantic Bight."

William Overman, psychology, had a paper "Performance on the Iowa Card Task by Adolescents and Adults" accepted in the journal Neuropsychologia. The paper was co-authored by psychology graduate student Shi Ansell and by psychology undergraduate students Krishna Frassrand, Alissa Redmond, Sophie Trawalter and Britan Bies.

Cathy Barlow, Karen Wetherill, Carol Chase Thomas, John Fischetti and Diane Calhoun, Watson School of Education, were selected among five universities to present an all-day pre-conference workshop titled "Developing and Operating Data-Management Systems for Evidence-Based Teacher Preparation" at the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education in Chicago in February.

Lou Buttino, film studies, was selected to serve on the advisory board of the International Documentary Association. The 20-year old organization is one of the world's most respected agencies in the nonfiction community with membership from around the world.

James R. Leutze, chancellor emeritus, is invited to participate in a panel discussion on "The State of Military History" at the Diplomatic and Military History Conference at MIT in April.

Philip Furia, creative writing, wrote and narrated "Harold Arlen: From 'Stormy Weather' to 'Over the Rainbow'" at the New York Historical Society Theater with Tony-Award winning Broadway singers and musicians on March 8.

Student Leader Award and Ceremony

The Student Leader Award Ceremony and reception will be held at 6 p.m. Wednesday, April 21 in the Warwick Center Ballroom. All faculty and staff are invited. Awards that will be given include: CLES, Campus Activities and Involvement, Leadership Excellence, ODK Leadership, Pandion, Linda Moore, Non-Traditional Student Leader, Distinguished Service, Lippitt Scholarship, Duncan Scholarship, Freeman and Bryan Award nominees and Senior Medallion. If any have questions, contact Shelly Hoover or Monica Peterson at ext. 3877.

Week

of English at UNC Greensboro, also recited poetry at DePaolo's inauguration as president at Georgia College and State University.

George J. Mitchell, a former United States senator from Maine, a member of a number of international committees and Disney's newly-elected chairman, will lecture on "Is Peace an Impossible Dream?" to a dinner on the eve of the installation.

Installation week will showcase faculty and student work, feature public lectures, sporting events, a groundbreaking for a new campus building, tours and concerts. A complete schedule of events is at www.uncw.edu/installation.

Volunteers Needed for Installation Week Events

Volunteers are required to assist with the many events the week of April 12-16 for Chancellor DePaolo's installation. If willing to help, contact Lori Leitch at ext. 3489.

Board of Trustee Chair Issues Invitation to Installation

As chair of the UNCW Board of Trustees, I want to express on behalf of the full board of trustees how proud we are to have Chancellor Rosemary DePaolo as our new chancellor.

Part of the process of bringing in a new leader is to hold an academic ceremony during the leader's first year in office to celebrate the institution and provide an occasion to articulate the leader's vision.

Planning for Chancellor DePaolo's installation has been done carefully, with deep thought, and with full support of the board of trustees. Some in the community have expressed reservations about the cost of this event. I want to make several points clear.

First, UNCW's installation is more than the installation of a new chancellor; it is a week-long series of multiple events designed to raise the visibility of the university, showcase the university's faculty and students in a week of activities, and to provide new and exciting opportunities for our community at large. Many of the activities are being planned by volunteer boards such as the Friends of UNCW who are organizing the installation ball and the International Cabinet which is sponsoring the George Mitchell speech. These volunteer boards are raising the dollars to make the events possible without taking funds away from other resources. Ultimately, the intention is to yield proceeds to go to scholarships. The Friends plan to announce the net scholarship dollars raised from the ball during the event.

Secondly, each year, a prominent international speaker is brought to UNCW by the International Cabinet. This year, the volunteer board elected to bring someone of great national and international stature. George Mitchell's visit will enlighten and broaden all of us, and give our community a greater perspective on the world. Mitchell's involvement in the political and corporate arenas, recently having been elected as chairman of Walt Disney Company, should provide some thought-provoking insights. The International Cabinet is raising the funds to bring him here, and proceeds from tickets to the event will go toward scholarships in the Office of International Programs.

On behalf of the UNCW trustees, I invite all citizens of Southeastern North Carolina to learn about the activities going on during this week of celebration. Learn about UNCW's escalating academic ranking in U.S. News & World Report. Experience the scholarly work of our faculty and learn about our student organizations. Learn where Chancellor DePaolo plans to take UNCW and how she plans to lead it to greatness.

This event is designed to showcase the campus and engage the community. Please come to the installation ceremony at 10 a.m., Friday, April 16, on the Hoggard Hall lawn. The ceremony will also be broadcast live on Time Warner Cable Channel 5 or Charter Cable Channel 19. I urge you to be a part of this.

*Jeff Etheridge, Chair
UNCW Board of Trustees
